PREFACE.

The cause and aim of this book is to present in a clear and concise way the commonplace facts and principles of the Swedish language. It lays no claim to be a compendium of all forms and usages of either the spoken or written language.

The introduction of Swedish into numerous high schools and universities in this country has created a demand for a book which may not only assist the exclusively English-speaking students to attain a fair reading and speaking knowledge of modern Swedish but which may also meet the demand of American born students of Swedish descent who desire to gain a more complete knowledge of the language of their fathers. The consideration that the majority of the students who will use his book are already more or less conversant with Swedish has led the author to make the lessons longer and the exercises rather more advanced than is the case in most beginners' books, to make the vocabularies unusually voluminous, and to devote considerable attention to idiomatic expressions.

The exercises have been made continuous wherever it was found practicable to do so; and it is to be hoped that this form of exercise will prove more interesting and less irksome to the student than the form that consists of detached sentences. The fact that each lesson thus contains words which are associated with one another in common use will undoubtedly encourage an acquisition of connected phrases rather than mere words. This form of exercise, moreover, facilitates a method which the author from his experience in the class room has found of great value for the attainment of a correct pronunciation and fluency, that of requiring the student to reproduce the contents of the exercises in his own words. The author feels confident that his grammar lends itself to conversational practice. The vocabulary has been carefully selected from the language of everyday life and the phrases of the Swedish exercises are of a colloquial and idiomatic character.

In the method employed the teacher will naturally be guided by his own judgment and the character of his class; the author would, however, suggest that two hours be devoted to each lesson. During the first hour the grammatical part should be thoroughly discussed, the teacher supplementing the examples given as illustrations, and the Swedish portion of the exercise thoroughly practiced; the second hour should be devoted to a rapid review, translation of the English portion, and to conversation. The conversational exercises are not intended to be exhaustive but suggestive for further drill. The value of the conversational method cannot be overestimated.

Unusually ample space has been accorded the treatment of the prepositions, which in all languages and especially in Swedish constitute one of the chief difficulties which confront the learner.

The author's treatment of pronunciation and accent, especially the musical, which is one of the peculiarities of Swedish, may perhaps evoke criticism by reason of its brevity. The limitations of space in an elementary book forbid entering into minute details. The book is chiefly intended for class use and much is therefore left to the instructor to supplement. Moreover, a correct Swedish pronunciation and especially a mastery of the musical accent, or intonation, can be acquired only by constant imitation and practice.

In conclusion the author desires to acknowledge his indebtedness to Professor A. A. Stomberg, University of Minnesota, for much valuable advice and encouragement; and to Professor Jules Mauritzson, Augustana College, Rock Island, for his extremely valuable services in revising the manuscript.

BRIEF SWEDISH GRAMMAR

PART I.

ORTHOGRAPHY AND PRONUNCIATION.

The Alphabet.

1. The Swedish alphabet is as follows:

CHARACTERS	NAMES	CHARACTERS	NAMES
A a	ah	P p	pay
B b	bay	Q q	ku (Swedish)
C c	say	R r	err
D d	day	S s	ess
E e	a	T t	tay
F f	eff	U u	u (Swedish)
G g	gay or yay	V v	vay
H h	hoh	W w	vay
I i	e	X x	ex
J j	yee	Y y	ü (German)
K k	koh	Z z	saytah
L l	ell	Å å	o
M m	emm	Ä ä	ai (in fair)
N n	enn	Ö ö	ö (German)
O o	oo

NOTE. Q, w, and z occur only in surnames and in words of foreign origin, especially geographical names.

Pronunciation.

REMARK.—1. Only general directions can be given here: pronunciation must be learned by imitation and practice. But if not learned correctly at first, it becomes more difficult afterwards. It is not, however, intended that the whole of this chapter shall be studied in advance. The study of the Grammar proper should begin as soon as possible, and constant reference, supplemented by such help as may be rendered by the teacher, should be made to the discussion of the sounds given below.

2. It must be borne in mind that the sounds of any two languages hardly ever correspond exactly; hence comparisons between Swedish and English are only approximate.

QUANTITY.

2. The quantity of Swedish sounds is either long or short. For practical purposes the consonants offer no peculiar difficulties as regards length. The following rules will serve as a guide in determining the quantity of the vowels:

(a) A vowel is long in an accented syllable when followed by a short consonant sound: fara, to travel; håla, cave; fel, error; gräl, quarrel; ära, honor.

(b) A vowel is short in an accented syllable when followed by a long consonant sound: andas, to breathe; falla, to fall; allt, everything; fåll, hem; tända, to kindle; eld, fire; dygd, virtue.

(c) In unaccented syllables both the vowel sound and the consonant sound are short: si'rap, sirup; tall'rik, plate; mor'gon, morning.

(d) A final accented vowel is always long.

3. The long and the short vowel sounds are indicated in the same manner in writing. The short consonant sound is generally indicated by a single consonant; the long by two or more consonants, especially a double consonant.

NOTE. Sometimes the long consonant sound in an accented syllable is indicated by a single consonant, notably in the case of m and n: dom, sentence; kom, come; man, man; vän, friend. With a few exceptions m is not doubled at the end of a word or syllable.

THE VOWELS.

REMARK. The vowels must receive full and distinct utterance in all positions. No vowel is silent; only in the case of e in unaccented endings such as -en, -el, -er, -et, and -e is there a tendency towards slurring.

4. a. (1) When long this sound varies between the sound of a in far and the sound of o in foreign when this o-sound is prolonged: fader, father; grad, grade; tala, to speak.

NOTE. Avoid a as in fall.

(2) When short like the first a in aha: malm, ore; salt, salt; tacka, to thank.

5. e. (1) When long this sound is an approximation to the sound of a in day without the vanish. The exact sound is that of the German long e in mehr: ek, oak; fel, error; leda, to lead; ned, down.

(2) When short it is (a) qualitatively the same as when long: hem, home; *veck*a, week; eld, fire; (b) like short ä (see 11, 2): den, the, that; mest, most; herr, Mister (avoid e as in her).

6. i. (1) When long like i in machine (avoid diphthong): mig, me; tid, time; ila, to hurry; fira, to celebrate; ni, you.

(2) When short it is qualitatively the same as when long: min, mine; ingen, no one; viska, to whisper; silver, silver; stirra, to stare; (avoid i as in stir).

7. o. (1) When long, o has two sounds: (a) approximately like oo in moon. The exact sound is formed by the tongue position for the Swedish long å, with the lips so constricted ("rounded") as to be nearly closed: olycka, misfortune; sko, shoe; sopa, to sweep; ros, rose; (b) like o in hope (avoid diphthong). This sound is identical with the Swedish long å (see 10, 1): hov, court; Robert; kol, coal.

(2) When short it has two sounds: (a) like the first o in oho! or like o in oil: om, if; hopp, hope; kropp, body; (b) like oo in moon shortened: ost, cheese; blomma, flower; moster, aunt.

8. u. (1) The sound of long u is produced by the tongue position for Swedish long e (see 5, 1) with the lips so extremely constricted (rounded) as to be nearly closed: gul, yellow; ut, out; duka, to set the table; mjuk, soft.

(2) The sound of short u is more open than that of long u. It is approximately that of u in value (without the introductory consonantal y-sound): under, under; guld, gold; kunna, to be able.

9. y. Y is identical in sound with German ü and French u in une. Round the lips as if to pronounce u in rude, then pronounce ee in seen. It is either long or short. Ex. (long): fyra, four; rysa, to shudder; ny, new; yr, dizzy; (short): sylt, jam, yttra, to utter; fylla, to fill.

10. å. (1) When long like o in hope (avoid the diphthong): år, year; kål, cabbage; gå, to go; såra, to wound.

(2) When short like short open o (see 7, 2): ållon, acorn; fåll, hem; hålla, to hold; åtta, eight; många, many.

11. ä. (1) When long approximately like a in care (avoid the diphthong): ära, honor; läsa, to read; äta, to eat; även, even, also.

(2) When short like e in met: än, than, yet; män, men; ställa, to put; ängel, angel.

12. ö. ö is identical with German ö and French eu. Round the lips as if to sound o in so; then pronounce the Swedish long e (see 5, 1). It is long or short. Ex. (long): öga, eye; rök, smoke; över, over; (short): föll, fell; öppen, open; böcker, books.

NOTE. This vowel has a tendency to become more open when short and also before r, especially rr; söt, sweet, long and close; in sött (the neuter form of söt) the ö is short and slightly open; öga, eye, long and close; höra, to hear, long and quite open; dörr, door, still more open.

13. The vowels a, o, u, å are called hard vowels, and e, i, y, ä, ö are called soft vowels.

14. Vowel modification, which in English is very often referred to under its German name umlaut, is a process of considerable importance in Swedish inflection and derivation. Thus a change from a and å to ä, or o to ö, or u to y, occurs in the inflectional forms of many words and in derivatives. Ex.: and, duck, pl. änder; lång, long, comparative längre; bok, book, pl. böcker; ung, young, comp. yngre; lång, long, längd, length; gå, to go, gångse, current.

GENERAL OBSERVATION.

A vowel is usually pronounced as it is written. There are a few exceptions in words of foreign origin; thus, ou in a few French words sounds like u short, journal' (shurnal'); eu sounds like oi in the word Preussen, Prussia, and its derivatives; u like y in a few French words: juste (shyst), just, fair. These exceptions are neither many nor important.

THE CONSONANTS.

NOTE. Consonants not discussed here have the same sound as in English.

15. c. (1) Like English s before the soft vowels e, i, and y: cirkel, cylin'der, cigarr'.

(2) Before the hard vowels a, o, u, and before another c or other consonant like English k: Columbus, accent'.

(3) Ch has the sound of sj (26) in a few words of foreign origin: choklad, chocolate; charmant, charming.

16. d. Like English d, but is silent before j: djup, deep; djur, animal.

NOTE. Where d according to the old orthography stands before t in the same syllable it is either silent or pronounced like t; according to the new orthography (officially adopted in 1906) it is either eliminated or changed to t: gott (new form), neuter of god, good; godt (old form); ont (new form), neuter of ond, evil; ondt (old form).

17. f. Is identical in sound with English f: fråga, to ask; kraft, power; fålla, to hem; fotograf, photographer.

NOTE. In accordance with the old orthography f at the end of a syllable or word (except foreign words) has the sound of v and is silent before v in the middle of a word except where v begins the succeeding member of a compound. In the new orthography v has supplanted f everywhere in marking the sound of v: tolv (new), twelve, tolf (old); silver (new), silfver (old); lova (new), to promise, lofva (old).

18. g. (1) Like English g in go before the hard vowels a, o, u, å, and the consonants; and also before the soft vowels e and i in unaccented endings; and in final positions, except after l and r: gå, to go; gata, street; spegel, mirror; tagit, taken; krig, war.

(2) Like English y in year (tongue closer to the palate) before the soft vowels e, i, y, ä, ö in accented syllables of native words and after l and r: genom, through; giva, to give; gynna, to favor; korg, basket; svalg, throat.

(3) Like k before t and occasionally before s: sagt, said; bragt, brought; krigsmän, warrior.

NOTE 1. G is not silent before n: gnaga, gnaw.

2. G before t, which occurred frequently in the old orthography, has now generally been replaced by k: vikt (new), weight, vigt (old); dräkt (new), dress, drägt (old).

(4) Like sj (see below, 26) in a number of loan words of French origin: generös', generous; gene'ra, to inconvenience; korrigera, to correct; gest, gesture.

19. h. Is strongly aspirated, but is silent before j: hålla, to hold; hel, whole; hjul, wheel; hjärta, heart.

NOTE. The silent h before v in the old orthography has been dropped in the new: hvem, who, now vem; hvar, where, now var.

20. j. Like g (18, 2) or English consonantal y: jord, earth; jämn, even; jag, I; jul, Christmas.

NOTE. In a few French loan words like sj: jäsmän' (shasmin'), jessamine; jälsu' (shalusi'), window shade.

21. k. (1) Like English k before consonants and hard vowels, also before e and i in unaccented endings, and before soft vowels in words of foreign origin: kalla, to call; kula, ball; rike, realm; rynke, wrinkled; arkiv', archives.

(2) Like English ch before the soft vowels (e, i, y, ä, ö) except as stated above: kedja, chain; kil, wedge; kyllig, chilly; kär, dear; kött, meat.

(3) Double k is written ck, except in och, and.

NOTE. K is not silent before n: kniv, knife; knä, knee.

22. m. Has the same sound as in English.

NOTE. In some words of French origin m is sounded like the Swedish ang: emballe'ra (angballera), pack, wrap; emblem' (angblame), emblem.

23. n. Has the same sound as in English.

NOTE 1. In some words of French origin en is sounded like the Swedish ang, and on like the Swedish ång: entusiasm' (angtusiasm), enthusiasm; pensé (pangsé), pansy; fond (fångd), fund, background.

2. If g and n occurring together belong to the same radical syllable, they are pronounced with an n before, except at the beginning of a word: gnista, spark; lugn (lungn), calm; vagn (vangn), carriage.

3. Ng sounds like English ng in singer, not like ng in finger: lång, long sång, song; sjunga, to sing.

24. r. Is strongly trilled with the tip of the tongue: arm, arm; bära, to carry; dörr, door.—Observe that the vowels are pronounced distinctly before r—not blurred as in English.

NOTE 1. The uvular r which is made with the uvula vibrating against the back of the tongue is now regarded as permissible.

2. R in the combinations rl, rn, rs and especially rd and rt is not pronounced, the l, n, s, d, and t become supradental, that is, pronounced with the tip of the tongue touching the palate: sorl, murmur; ärna, to intend; kors, cross; bord, table; bort, away.

25. s. Is pronounced like s in so: sol, sun; sys-ter, sister; resa, to travel.

26. sch, sj, skj, ssj, stj. Before a vowel these are all pronounced with a sound that resembles English sh but is somewhat rougher. It must be carefully practiced with the teacher: schack, chess; sjö, lake; sju, seven; själ, soul; skjorta, shirt; skjuta, to shoot; hässja, hayrack; stjärna, star.

NOTE. In the endings -sion and -ssion the si and ssi are sounded like sh.

27. sk. (1) Before the soft vowels (e, i, y, ä, ö) sk has the same sound as sch, sj, etc., as described in the preceding section (26): skena, to run away; skilja, to separate; skyla, to cover; skäl, reason; sköld, shield.

(2) Before the hard vowels (a, o, u, å) sk is pronounced like the English sk: skal, shell; sko, shoe; skuld, guilt; skål, bowl.

NOTE 1. Exceptions to this rule are the words marskalk, marshal, and människa, human being, in which sk is pronounced like sj.

2. Before e and i of an ending sk is pronounced like English sk: disken (from disk, counter); fläsket (from fläsk, pork).

28. t. Like English t in most words.

NOTE 1. In the ending -tion ti is sounded like sj (26): aktion, action; evolution, evolution.

When -tion is preceded by a, o, and r in dissyllabic words, a t is generally inserted before the sj-sound in pronunciation: nation' (natsjoon'); motion' (motsjoon'); portion' (portsjoon').

2. Like ts before ia and ie in foreign words: aktie (aktsie), share; patient' (patsient, also pashent'); profeti'a (profetsia), prophecy.

29. tj. Is pronounced like English ch: tjock, (chock), thick; tjära (chairah), tar.

30. w. Is always pronounced like English v, never like English w.

31. x. Is pronounced as in English.

NOTE. In words in -xion it is pronounced like ksj: reflexion' (rayflekshoon).

32. z. Always pronounced like s in so: zebra, (saybrah).

ACCENTUATION.

33. In Swedish a distinction must be made between the accent-stress and the musical accent.

ACCENT-STRESS.

34. Simple words. The accent-stress falls on the root syllable of all simple native words: le'va, to live; ha'ge, pasture; tan'ke, thought; mo'der, mother.

35. Compounds. Compound words of native origin, whether formed of noun+noun, prefix+noun, noun+suffix, adjective+adjective, or prefix+verb, have the main stress, as a rule, on the first syllable: skol'hus, schoolhouse; av'stånd, distance; man'lig, manly; ät'bar, eatable; blå'gul, blue and yellow; till'stå, to admit; an'föra, to cite; här'komst, descent; prat'sam, talkative.

36. Exceptions. (a) The prefixes be-, e-, ent-, and ge- are always unaccented: beha'ga, to please; entle'diga, to discharge; gemål', consort; ehu'ru, although. So also the prefix för- is unaccented in most words: förta'la, to slander; förstå', to understand; but för'dom, prejudice (see 211).

(b) The following words have the main stress on the penult, or next to the last syllable: egent'lig, real; offent'lig, public; månat'lig, monthly; väsent'lig, essential; ordent'lig, orderly; barmhär'tig, charitable; fient'lig, hostile.

(c) All words ending in -eri have the main stress on the ultima, or last syllable: tryckeri', printing office; fiskeri', fishery; slaveri', slavery.

NOTE. Other exceptions will be indicated as they occur.

37. Compound words have in addition to the principal accent a strong secondary accent on the last member of the compound: skol'hus', school-house; träd'gård', garden.

38. Foreign words. Words of foreign origin tend to retain their original accent. Words from the Greek and the Romance languages, especially those ending in -ant, -ent, -al, -i, -ik, -il, -ist, -ur, -ark, are generally accented on the last syllable.

NOTE 1. Nouns having the endings -inna, -essa, -aker, -cter, -cum, -ikel, -ipel, -itel; adjectives ending in -abel, -ibel, -isk, and verbs ending in -era are accented on the penult.

2. Nouns ending in -ium, -ia, and -ie have with a few exceptions the main stress on the antepenult, or third syllable from the end: privile'gium, privilege; nota'rie, notary.

3. Foreign words ending in -or shift the accent when suffixes are added: dok'tor, dokto'rer, doktor'ska, profes'sor, professo'rer.

MUSICAL ACCENT.

39. Different from the stress accent is the musical accent. There are two kinds of musical accent in Swedish employed in single words, the acute and the grave, or the monosyllabic and the dissyllabic.

The acute, or monosyllabic, accent, which is approximately identical with the musical accent in English and German, is used in words which were originally monosyllables.

NOTE. Many dissyllabic and polysyllabic words have this accent, since they were formerly monosyllabic or have become dissyllabic or polysyllabic by the addition of some ending, especially the definite postpositive article.

40. Foreign loan words often receive the acute accent since this approximately resembles the musical accent employed by the more important of the European languages.

41. The grave, or dissyllabic, accent belongs in most cases to words which were originally dissyllabic or polysyllabic. This accent is a peculiar feature of the Swedish (and Norwegian), and constitutes perhaps the greatest difficulty which confronts the foreigner wishing to acquire a correct pronunciation. Although no rules can teach it, the following remarks may be useful:

42. We may call the highest pitch to which the voice rises in unaffected pronunciation the high tone, and the lowest to which it falls the low tone. The pitch which is usually employed lies midway between these two and may be designated as the normal tone. (Signs: l, low tone; n, normal tone). A word with acute accent has the normal tone on the first syllable and the low tone on the following syllable or syllables. Ex.: $\overset{n}{g}e\overset{l}{t}'\overset{l}{t}e\overset{n}{r}$, $\overset{n}{g}e\overset{l}{t}'\overset{l}{t}e\overset{n}{r}\overset{l}{n}a$. The word is originally monosyllabic. This intonation is practically the same as the English.

43. A word with grave accent, if dissyllabic, begins with a tone a little below the normal, which we may designate as —n, the voice then glides down to the low tone within the same syllable, producing a slightly broken intonation, and rises to the normal tone on the second syllable. Ex.: $\overset{-nl}{t}a\overset{n}{l}a$, to speak.

44. A word of more than two syllables taking the grave accent has the —n tone on the first syllable, the low tone on the second, and the normal tone on the third. Ex.: $\overset{-n}{t}a\overset{l}{l}a\overset{n}{r}e$, speaker.

In the case of words which do not take the stress accent on the first syllable, regard the stressed syllable as the first in applying these rules. Ex.: $\overset{-nl}{f}o\overset{n}{r}\overset{n}{l}a$.

REMARK. The accent mark used in this book merely indicates the syllable to be stressed.

Capitalization.

45. Capitals are used less frequently in Swedish than in English. Thus Swedish uses a small initial letter in the following cases contrary to English usage:

(a) In the names of the days of the week and in the names of months: tisdag, Tuesday; april, April.

(b) In the names of certain festivals, holidays, and times of the year: jul, Christmas; påsk, Easter; advent, Advent.

(c) In adjectives and nouns derived from proper names: svensk, Swedish; engelsk, English; svedenborgiansk, Swedenborgian; darwinist, Darwinist; stockholmare, inhabitant of Stockholm.

46. In titles of books and headings of chapters only the first word, as a rule, is capitalized.

47. In compound names like Förenta staterna, United States, and Stilla havet, Pacific Ocean, only the first word is capitalized; so also in expressions like Karl den store, Charles the Great.

48. Personal titles are generally not capitalized except in direct address: herr Svensson; professor Björkman; hans majestät, His Majesty; but, Bästa Herr Professor! — Dear Professor: — Ers Majestät! — Your Majesty (capitalization is optional).

49. The pronoun I (second person plural) is capitalized; ni (second person singular) and its different cases are often capitalized in letters as a sign of respect.

Punctuation.

50. The rules of punctuation are nearly the same in both English and Swedish. But Swedish punctuation is perhaps closer than ours, the comma especially being used more freely. Note examples in reading.

OBSERVE. The comma is generally used to set off the different clauses of a sentence, whether independent or dependent, provided they contain a subject and a predicate: ringen, som jag hade på fingret, har kommit bort, the ring that I had on my finger has been lost; säg mig, vad du har gjort, tell me what you have done; gossen läser, och flickan syr, the boy reads and the girl sews.

Syllabication.

51. A consonant between two vowels, except x in simple words of native origin, goes with the following vowel: ä-ra, ce-der, lä-ra-re, re-gel, väx-a.

52. When two or more consonants occur between two vowels, the last consonant usually goes with the following vowel: fal-la, hop-pas, fladd-ra, mycket.

53. But sch and sk when used as signs for the sj-sound (sh) are not separated but added to the following vowel: mar-schera, mar-skalk; ng is added to the preceding vowel unless n and g belong to different words: häng-a, sjung-a.

54. Compound words are divided according to their component parts: träd-gård, garden; kyrk-torn, steeple; hand-skrift, manuscript; bak-om, behind.

PART II.

THE PARTS OF SPEECH.

LESSON I.

Genders.

55. The Swedish language has four genders: masculine, feminine, common, and neuter.

56. Masculine are generally names of living beings, especially persons, of the male sex. They require as pronoun of reference han.

57. Feminine are generally names of living beings, especially persons, of the female sex. They require as pronoun of reference hon.

58. Common gender comprises most names of inanimate objects which are not neuter. The pronoun of reference is den.

59. Whether the name of an inanimate object is common or neuter depends variously on termination or usage. A few practical rules for determining neuter nouns will be given in the Appendix; but the best plan for the beginner is to associate the indefinite article with every noun he learns.

60. The neuter gender requires det as pronoun of reference.

61. Formerly the distinction between the masculine and feminine genders of inanimate objects was more strictly observed; now it is almost entirely discarded except in some dialects. The distinction is avoided by employing den as pronoun of reference for either. The tendency is to extend the province of the common gender. Thus we find that names of animals, even the higher, when no reference is had to sex, are generally regarded as common and referred to with the pronoun den. On the contrary, nouns ending in -a with plural in -or are often feminine even when they denote inanimate objects or living beings of either sex: Var är klockan? Where is the clock? Hon hänger på väggen i sängkammaren. It hangs on the wall in the bedroom. Vad blev det av den lilla vita duvan? What became of the little white dove? Hon flög sin väg. It flew away.

NOTE. Masculine, feminine, and common nouns will be referred to as gender nouns. It is not deemed necessary to denote whether a noun is masculine, feminine, or common; rules given in 56, 57, and 58 will enable the student to make such a distinction whenever necessary.

THE ARTICLES.

62. There are three articles: the indefinite article; the postpositive definite article, which is appended to the noun, and the independent or prepositive definite article, which stands before the noun and is used only when the noun is qualified by an adjective.

THE INDEFINITE ARTICLE.

63. The indefinite article which is equivalent to the English indefinite article a or an has two forms:

- (1) En, which is used before all gender nouns:

en man, a man; en drottning, a queen; en ångare, a steamer.

(2) Ett, which is used before all neuter nouns: ett öga, an eye; ett barn, a child.

RULE OF SYNTAX.

64. The indefinite article corresponds in the main with that of English, with some important deviations. It must be omitted:

(a) Before a predicate noun denoting profession or occupation when not qualified by an adjective. As: min vän är lärare, my friend is a teacher; but min vän är en begåvad lärare, my friend is a talented teacher.

(b) Also in a number of phrases; as, jag har lust att läsa, I have a desire to read; jag fick svar, I received an answer.

65. The verb att hava (short form, att ha), to have.

PRESENT INDICATIVE.

Sg. jag har , I have	Pl. vi ha(va) , we have
du har , thou hast (you have)	I haven, han , you have
ni har , you have	ni ha(va) , you have
han har , he has	de ha(va) , they have

NOTE. The shorter forms of the verb hava have practically supplanted the longer forms, which are limited to the solemn style.

IMPERFECT INDICATIVE.

Sg. jag hade , I had, etc.	Pl. vi hade , we had, etc.
du hade	I hadn
ni hade	ni hade
han hade	de hade

66. The verb att vara, to be.

PRESENT INDICATIVE.

Sg. jag är , I am	Pl. vi äro , we are
du är , thou art (you are)	I ären , you are
ni är , you are	ni äro , you are
han är , he is	de äro , they are

IMPERFECT INDICATIVE.

Sg. jag var , I was, etc.	Pl. vi voro , we were, etc.
du var	I voren
ni var	ni voro
han var	de voro

67. REMARKS ON THE VERBS.

(a) The singular du is used in very familiar address, to relatives, to intimate friends, and to children. The plural I is archaic except in elevated style.

(b) Ni is used instead of du as the conventional form of address. In the plural it has supplanted I both in familiar and polite address (see 142 and note).

(c) The singular of the verb regularly takes the place of the plural in conversation and has begun to replace the latter in the written language: thus, vi har, ni har, vi är, etc., are permissible.

NOTE. In the beginning only the third person singular of the verbs will be given in the vocabulary; this form can be used in all persons and both numbers.

EXERCISE I.

N. B. The student should be required to reproduce the contents of the exercises, wherever this is practicable, in his own words.

A. 1. Karl är en liten gosse, som (who) bor i en stor stad. 2. Han går i skolan och har en snäll lärare. 3. Han får ofta en lång läxa, som är mycket svår. 4. Karl är flitig och kan sin (his) läxa. 5. "Kan du din (your) läxa i dag?" frågar¹ Karls lärare. 6. Karl svarar: "Ja, jag kan min (my) läxa."

¹The predicate precedes the subject if the clause is introduced by a modifier of the verb, which may be either adverb, phrase, clause, or object.

B. Answer the following questions in Swedish: 1. Vem (who) är Karl? 2. Var (where) bor han? 3. Vad (what) har han? 4. Är hans lärare snäll? 5. Vad ger han Karl ofta? 6. Är Karls läxa svår? 7. Vad frågar han Karl ofta? 8. Vad svarar Karl sin lärare?

WRITTEN EXERCISE.

N. B. The teacher should read the English sentences, give the class a few seconds for mental translation, and then put the question to the individual student. The students should not be allowed to read the translation from their papers or to translate from their books.

C. 1. Mary lives in a large and beautiful city. 2. She is a good girl. She writes a long (långt) letter to a friend. 3. She has a mother, who is very good. 4. Her (hennes) mother asks her (henne), "What are¹ you writing?" 5. Mary answers her (sin) mother, "I am¹ writing a long letter to a friend who lives in Stockholm."

¹Swedish has no progressive nor emphatic verb-forms. Use the simple present. Do and did are not translated in interrogative and negative expressions. Use the simple present or imperfect.

VOCABULARY.

N. B. 1. The indefinite article before nouns shows whether they are gender nouns or neuter nouns.

2. Only the indefinite gender form of the adjective is given in the first few lessons.

IDIOMS: 1. gå i skolan, to attend school.

2. kunna (present kan) sin läxa, to know one's lesson.

LESSON II.

The Definite Articles.

68. There are two definite articles, the postpositive and the prepositive.

THE POSTPOSITIVE ARTICLE.

69. The postpositive article consists of a letter or syllable suffixed to the noun. This article is always used when the noun is definite in sense.

It has the following forms:

a. For gender nouns:

Singular: -en, or -n.

Plural: -na (rarely -ne).

b. *For neuter nouns:*Singular: *-et, or -t.*Plural: *-na, -a, or -en.70. The postpositive article with gender nouns.

IN THE SINGULAR.

1. -en is used when the noun ends in a consonant.Ex.: skald-en, the poet; brud-en, the bride; sol-en, the sun.EXCEPTIONS. (1) Gender nouns ending in unaccented el, -er, or -or and the words konsul, consul, and purpur, purple, take -n as postpositive article.Ex.: fågel-n, the bird; seger-n, the victory; doktor-n, the doctor; konsul-n, the consul.(2) Other words ending in -l, or -r take either -en or -n as postpositive article.Ex.: fjäril-en or fjäril-n, the butterfly; sommar-en or sommar-n, the summer.2. -n is used when the noun ends in a vowel.Ex.: gosse-n, the boy; flicka-n, the girl; blomma-n, the flower; by-n, the village.EXCEPTIONS. Gender nouns ending in accented -e or -i take either -en or -n as postpositive article.Ex.: armé-en or armén, the army; symmetri-en or symmetri-n, the symmetry.N. B. Of gender nouns ending in unaccented -en only the following four take the postpositive article. In so doing they drop the e of the ending: botten, bottom, bottn-en, the bottom; socken, parish, sockn-en, the parish; sägen, legend, sägn-en, the legend; öken, desert, ökn-en, the desert.

IN THE PLURAL.

-na (rarely -ne) is used as postpositive article with gender nouns in the plural.Ex.: skalder-na, the poets; brudar-na, the brides;

fåglar-na, the birds; flickor-na, the girls; byar-na, the villages; öknar-na, the deserts.

EXCEPTIONS. männ-en, the men; gäss-en, the geese; löss-en, the lice; möss-en, the mice.

71. The postpositive article with neuter nouns.

IN THE SINGULAR.

1. -et is used when the noun ends in a consonant or in an accented vowel.

Ex.: namn-et, the name; bo-et, the nest; parti-et, the party.

2. -t is used when the noun ends in an unaccented vowel.

Ex.: hjärta-t, the heart; eko-t, the echo.

N. B. Neuter nouns ending in unaccented -el, -en, or -er drop the e of the ending on taking the postpositive article.

Ex.: segel, sail, segl-et, the sail; vapen, weapon, vapn-et, the weapon; dunder, thunder, dundr-et, the thunder.

EXCEPTIONS: siden-et, the silk; papper-et, the paper.

IN THE PLURAL.

1. -na is used as postpositive article in the plural with neuter nouns of the Third Declension.

Ex.: bryggerier-na, the breweries; kaféer-na, the cafés.

2. -a is used as postpositive article in the plural with neuter nouns of the Fourth Declension.

Ex.: ställen-a, the places; bon-a, the nests.

3. -en is used as postpositive article in the plural with neuter nouns of the Fifth Declension.

Ex.: namn-en, the names; segl-en, the sails.

72. Certain nouns do not take the postpositive article.

1. Abstract nouns ending in -an. Ex.: beundran, admiration.

2. Most gender nouns ending in unaccented -en (see 70, N. B.). Ex.: fröken, miss, young lady; examen, examination.

3. Foreign nouns ending in -um and -us. Ex.: datum, date; genus, gender.

But those ending in -eum or -ium drop -um and add -et. Ex.: museum, museum, muse-et, the museum; privilegium, privilege, privilegi-et, the privilege.

73. THE PREPOSITIVE ARTICLE.

	SINGULAR	PLURAL
Gender Nouns	Neuter	All Genders
den	det	de

It is used together with the postpositive article when the noun is modified by an adjective. Ex.: den varma solen, the warm sun. For further discussion see 126.

RULE OF SYNTAX.

74. Contrary to English usage the definite article in Swedish is used with generic and abstract nouns, as, guldet, gold; lyckan, happiness; livet är kort, men konsten är lång, life is short but art is long.

EXERCISE II.

4. Supply the postpositive article in the following:

1. Ser ni hus—, som ligger där på kulle—? 2. Det tillhör dam—, som kommer där. 3. Hon är mycket rik, säger man. 4. Trädgård—, som ligger bakom hus—, är vacker, och frukt—, som växer i den (it), är förträfflig. 5. Hon äger också ett stort (neut.) hus i stad— och har pengar i bank—. 6. Hon har en son, som är åtta år gammal och går i skola—. 7. Hans lärare säger, att gosse— är snäll och flitig. 8. Nu är han mycket sjuk, och doktor— besöker honom.

B. Answer the following questions in Swedish: 1. Vad ligger på kullen? 2. Kan ni se det? 3. Vem tillhör det? 4. Är hon fattig eller rik? 5. Vad ligger bakom huset? 6. Vad växer i den? 7. Vad är er (your) tanke (idea) om frukten? 8. Äger damen något mer (anything else)? 9. Berätta vad ni vet om hennes son (Tell what you know about her son).

C. Translate: 1. Do you know the man who owns the house on the hill? 2. No, I do not (det gör jag icke), but my father knows him. 3. He always salutes me when I meet him in the street.¹ 4. He is a very kind man, and rich, they say (A, 3). 5. His wife is dead and he has a little boy, six years old, who attends school (A, 6). 6. Now he cannot (kan han inte) attend (gå) for he is sick and is at home. 7. The doctor visits him every day.

¹På gatan.

rik , rich	en trädgård , garden
ser , sees	varje , each, every
säger , says	växer , grows
tillhör (35), belongs to	äger , owns

LESSON III.

Inflection of Nouns.

75. CASE. Nouns are changed for case only in the genitive, which is formed by adding s to the nominative of the indefinite or the definite form:

Ex.: En gosses bok, a boy's book; gossens bok är här, the boy's book is here; flickornas blommor äro vackra, the girls' flowers are beautiful.

NOTE. For exceptions see 130, a, b, d.

76. NUMBER. There are five declensions, according to the manner of forming the nominative plural of the indefinite form. These are:

First Declension. Plural ending -or.

Second Declension. Plural ending -ar.

Third Declension. Plural ending -er.

Fourth Declension. Plural ending -n.

Fifth Declension. Without plural ending.

In addition there are some irregular nouns which cannot be classified.

FIRST DECLENSION.

77. This declension forms its plural by dropping the ending -a of the nominative singular and adding -or. The postpositive article is -n in the singular and -na in the plural.

78. The First Declension comprises all gender nouns ending in -a; also the nouns ros, rose; våg, wave; toffel, slipper; åder, vein; and a few others.

Exceptions: histo'ria (-er), story; kolle'ga (-er), colleague; lusta (-ar), desire.

79. Example of the First Declension: en flicka, a girl.

INDEFINITE		DEFINITE
Sing.	Plur.	Sing.	Plur.
Nom. en flicka ,	flick-or	flicka-n ,	flick-or-na
Gen. en flicka-s ,	flick-or-s	flicka-n-s ,	flick-or-na-s

REMARK. As the genitive is formed regularly by the addition of -s (without the apostrophe), the nominative form only will be given hereafter.

SECOND DECLENSION.

80. This declension is characterized by the plural ending -ar. The postpositive definite article is -en or -n in the singular (72), -na in the plural.

81. The Second Declension comprises:

(a) Most monosyllabic gender nouns ending in a consonant and some ending in a vowel.

(b) Gender nouns ending in -dom, -il, -ing, -ling, -ning, -ung, and unaccented -e, -el, -en, -er.

NOTE 1. Unaccented e in the endings -e, -el, -en, -er is dropped when the final ending is added.

2. Unaccented a in the ending -ar, and o and u in the words afton, evening; djävul, devil; morgon, morning, are dropped before the plural ending.

82. Examples of the Second Declension:

en fågel, a bird; en gosse, a boy; en afton, an evening.

INDEFINITE		DEFINITE
Sg. en fågel		fågel-n (73,1)
Pl. fågl-ar (81,1)		fågl-ar-na

Sg. en afton	afton-en
Pl. aftn-ar (81, b, 2)	aftn-ar-na

EXERCISE III.

A. Supply the postpositive def. article where there is one dash; the proper plural ending and the postpositive article where there are two dashes:

1. Herr Brown är ute och går¹. 2. Väd^r— är mycket vackert; sol— skiner och luft— är varm. 3. Det är mycket folk på gat— —, ty det är helgdag, och man arbetar ej. 4. När han blir trött, sätter² han sig på en av soff— — i parken. 5. Han ser på goss— — och flick— —, som leka³ där, och hör på fågl— —, som sjunga. 6. Sedan går² han till en restaurang, ty han är hungrig. 7. Han sätter sig vid ett bord, ser på matsedel—, kallar på vaktmästar— och beställer. 8. Ibland äro hans tvenne döttrar med honom.

¹Är ute och går, is out walking, takes a walk. ²See note 1, Exercise I. A.

³In conversation the singular is used with a plural subject.

B. Answer in Swedish: Vad heter (is the name of) er vän? 2. Vad gör herr Brown? 3. Hurudant är vädret? 4. Är herr Brown ensam (alone) ute? 5. Varför (why) är det mycket folk ute och går? 6. Varför arbetar man icke? 7. Vad gör herr Brown, när han blir trött? 8. Vad ser han på? 9. Vad hör han på? 10. Vart går han, när han är hungrig? 11. Vem kallar han på?

C. 1. I have a friend whose name is (som heter) Brown. 2. He comes often to me and asks me if I will take a walk¹ with him. 3. When the weather is fine (vackert) I answer² yes, for he is a kind and interesting man and his company is always agreeable (angänämt). 4. Sometimes when there are many people³ in the streets we go² to a park and sit down (sätta oss) on one of the seats. 5. He often tells of his (sina) travels in different (olika) parts of the world. 6. When we are hungry (hungriga) we eat together in (på) a restaurant.

¹*Vill gå ut och gå.* ²See note 1, Ex. I, A. ³*There is* and there are are translated by det är, the verb being singular in either case.

VOCABULARY.

IDIOMS: 1. att gå ut och gå, to take a walk.

2. att sätta sig, to sit down.

3. Jag heter Karl, my name is Carl.

LESSON IV.

THIRD DECLENSION.

83. The nouns of this declension take -er in the plural. The postpositive article is -en or -n for gender nouns and -et or -t for neuter nouns in the singular; -na for either in the plural.

NOTE. Some nouns ending in unaccented -e, and a few others, take -r in the plural.

84. This declension contains:

(a) A large number of monosyllabic gender nouns, especially derivatives ending in -d, -st, -t.

(b) Gender nouns of more than one syllable ending in -ad, -else, -het, -nad, -när, -skap.

(c) Most gender nouns of foreign origin.

(d) A few neuter monosyllables.

(e) Neuter nouns of more than one syllable ending in -eri', -e'um; -é, -i, -ium, -on, -um, almost exclusively of foreign origin.

85. Examples of gender nouns of the Third Declension: en bild, a picture; en son, a son; en bok, a book; en byggnad, a building; en händelse, an event; en neger, a negro; en nota'rie, a notary; en doktor, a doctor; en nation, a nation.

NOTE. 1. (a) A few monosyllables change the root vowel (14). In addition to those given in the paradigms we may note: and, duck; hand, hand; natt, night; rand, brim, stripe; strand, shore; stång, pole.

(b) In bok, book; fot, foot; rot, root, there is both a change of root vowel and a doubling of the final consonant.

Give the plural of the words enumerated above (according to 14).

(c) In nöt, nut; get, goat, and a few others the final consonant is doubled.

2. Some monosyllables take the grave accent in the plural while others take the acute. Ex. (grave accent): son, söner; bild, bilder; (acute accent): strand, stränder; stad, städer.

3. Loan words in -or which in the singular have the accent on the syllable preceding -or shift the accent to the syllable containing -or in the plural: profes'sor, professo'rér. The def. art. is -n. (73, 1).

4. Gender nouns in unaccented -el and -er drop the e of the ending before the plural ending: fabel, fable, fabler; fiber, fibre, fibrer.

5. The ending -us in words of Latin origin is dropped before the plural ending: dekanus, dean, dekan-er.

86. Examples of neuter nouns of the Third Declension: ett tryckeri', a printing office; ett muse'se'um, a museum.

INDEFINITE	DEFINITE
Sg. ett tryckeri'	tryckeri-et
Pl. tryckeri-er	tryckeri-er-na
Sg. ett muse'um	muse-et
Pl. muse-er	muse-er-na

NOTE. Foreign words ending in -eum and -ium drop the ending -um upon taking the definite article and the plural ending.

EXERCISE IV.

A. 1. Decline in the indefinite and definite form, nominative and genitive cases, singular and plural: (like en doktor) en professor, en pastor, a pastor; en rektor, a college president. 2. (Like en stad) en and, a duck; en brand, a firebrand (also conflagration, sing. only); en strand, a shore. 3. (Like en händelse) en fö'reteelse, a phenomenon; en ak'tie, a share. 5. (Like en neger) en muskel, a muscle. 6. (Like ett museum) ett semina'rium, a seminary; (like ett tryckeri) ett bryggeri, a brewery; ett kafé, a café.

B. Supply (at —) the missing ending, the definite post-positive article, or the ending of the plural or both (at — —); also (at...) the indefinite article en, ett: 1. Är icke detta (this) ... vackert landskap? 2. Här kan man se mycket på en gång. Man ser ... flod, som flyter genom vackra äng—, två städ— med gat—, park—, hus och kyrk—. 3. Omkring städ— — ligga åkr—, skog—, berg och dal—. Punkt—, som man ser långt borta på slätt—, äro gård—, på vilka bönd— — bo. 4. 2. att se på, to look at.

3. på en gång, at once.

4. i dag, i går, to-day, yesterday.

LESSON V.

The Verb.

87. There are four conjugations in Swedish.

88. Verbs belonging to the First, Second, and Third Conjugations (also called weak verbs) form their imperfect by adding an ending to the unchanged root.

89. Verbs of the Fourth Conjugation (also called strong verbs) form their imperfect by changing the vowel of the root, without any added ending.

REMARK. A certain number of verbs vacillating between different conjugations are called irregular verbs.

THE FIRST CONJUGATION.

90. This conjugation has the following endings:

-a in the infinitive.

-ar in the singular of the present indicative.

-en in the archaic second person plur. pres. ind.

-a elsewhere in the plur. pres. ind.

-ade in both numbers of the imperf. ind.

-aden in the archaic second pers. plur.

-ande in the pres. participle.

-at in the supine.

-ad in the gender form of the past participle.

-at in the neuter form of the past participle.

91. SUPINE. The supine has been evolved from the neuter form of the past participle and is used together with the auxiliary verb hava to form the compound perfect tenses.

92. THE PAST PARTICIPLE is a verbal adjective; it is used as an adjective and also with the auxiliary verbs bliva and varda, to become, to form the compound passive of transitive verbs (see 188).

93. (a) The simple tense in Swedish expresses also the progressive and emphatic forms of English; thus, jag kallar=I call, am calling, do call; jag kallade=I called, was calling, did call.

(b) Likewise the interrogative and negative uses of do, do you call? I do not call, etc., are expressed in the Swedish by the simple form: as, kallar ni? jag kallar inte.

94. The verb att kalla, to call.

(a) PRESENT INDICATIVE IMPERFECT INDICATIVE

Sg. jag } du } kallar ni } han }	Sg. jag } du } kallade ni } han }
Pl. vi kalla I kallen ni kalla de kalla	Pl. vi kallade I kalladen ni kallade de kallade

(b) The perfect indicative is formed by combining the supine with the present indicative of hava, to have.

The pluperfect indicative is formed by combining the supine with the imperfect of hava.

Examples:

PERFECT INDICATIVE PLUPERFECT INDICATIVE

Sg. jag } du } har kallat ni } han }	jag } du } hade kallat ni } han }

ni ha kallat	ni hade kallat
de ha kallat	de hade kallat

¹Also hava. ²Also haven.

95. To this conjugation belong:

(a) Almost all weak verbs the stem of which ends in a consonant and contains one of the hard vowels a, o, u, å; as skala, to peel; gnola, to hum; skura, to scrub; måla, to paint.

(b) Almost all verbs derived from other words by means of a consonantal ending; as, svartna (from svart), to grow black; vidga (from vid), to widen; grönska (from grön), to grow green.

(c) All verbs ending in -e'ra; as, rege'ra, to rule; korrig'e'ra, to correct.

(d) All verbs having a vowel before the infinitive ending -a; as, skria, to shout; fria, to woo; roa, to amuse.

96. The present perfect and pluperfect of the verbs hava (ha), to have; vara, to be.

EXERCISE V.

A. Supply the proper endings of the verbs as well as the postpositive definite article and plural ending.

1. I går häls— (impf.) jag på¹ hos min vän Lindgren.
 2. Jag knack— (impf.) flera (several) gånger på dörr—, innan han öppn— (impf.) den. 3. Han ursäkt— (impf.) sig med att han hade vil— (supine) på soff— och insomn— (supine). 4. Vi samtal— (impf.) ett par timm— (plur.) om våra plan— (plur.) för framtid—, och jag fråg— (impf.), om han ämn— företaga den resa utrikes, som han så länge hade planer— (supine). 5. “Ja, om (in) ett år”, svar—² han, “jag spar— (pres.) pengar nu, ty en resa utrikes kost— (pres.) mycket. 6. “Vart ämnar du att resa?” fråg—² jag. “Till Frankrike och Tyskland”, svar—² han. 7. “Jag har länge önsk— (supine) att tillbringa ett par år i dessa (these) länd— för att (in order to) studera tyska och franska.” 8. När jag var hos honom, börja—² det att regna, så att (so that) han måste (had to) låna mig ett paraply.

¹Stress on på. ²Notice the inverted order.

B. 1. Vad gjorde (did) ni nyligen (recently)? 2. Var han hemma? 3. Öppnade han genast? 4. Varför dröjde det så länge (why did it take such a long time), innan han öppnade dörren? 5. Vad samtalade ni om? 6. När ämnade han företaga sin resa utrikes? 7. Vad gjorde han för att kunna (be able) resa om ett år? 8. Hur lång tid ämnade han tillbringa i Frankrike och Tyskland? 9. Vad ämnade han göra där?

C. 1. Yesterday I telephoned¹ to my friend Lindgren and asked him if he intended to stay at home all evening (hela kvällen). 2. He answered that he had intended to attend (att gå på) a concert, but had changed his mind². 3. "Why?" I asked¹. "I am not quite well," he answered¹. 4. Yesterday somebody (någon) knocked¹ at the door. 5. I hurried to the door and opened it. 6. It was my cousin Carl, whom his³ mother had sent to me with flowers, for it was my birthday. 7. "It must (måtte) be raining (93, a), Carl," I said¹. "You are wet." 8. "Yes," he answered¹, "it began to rain when I was halfway." 9. Carl stayed with (hos) me a couple of hours, and when he went (gick) home, I lent¹ him my umbrella. 10. Carl is a very good and industrious boy and his³ father intends to send him to Germany to (för att) study German and music.

¹Invert. ²*hade ändrat sig*. ³*hans*, not sin; sin is used when the subject of the clause is the possessor: han skickade sin son (174).

VOCABULARY.

N. B. Weak verbs are designated by the number of the conjugation to which they belong, the infinitive only of the verb being given.

att (conj. and sign of the infinitive), that, to	fö'retaga (sing. företager), to undertake
börja , I, to begin	en födelsedag , -ar, birthday
en dörr , -ar, door	hem (adv.), home
en framtid , future	halvvägs , halfway
fransk , French	hos (prep.), at the house of,
franska , French (language)	with, at

knacka , I, to knock	skynda , I, to hurry
en konsert' , -er, concert	spara , I, to save

låna , I, to lend; to borrow	en timme , -ar, hour
länge (adv.), long	tysk , German
(en) musik' , music	tyska , German (language)
ett par , couple	ut'rikes , abroad (also used as an indeclinable adjective)
ett par timmar , a couple of hours	vart , whither
ett paraply' , umbrella	vila , I, to rest
en plan , -er, plan	våt , wet
plane'ra , I, to plan	ämna , I, to intend
regna (rengna), to rain	ändra , I, to change
resa , II (sg., reser), to travel	önska , I, to wish
sam'tala , I, to converse	öppna , I, to open
skicka , I, to send

IDIOMS.

1. ett par, a couple of; ett par timmar, a couple of hours.
2. om ett år, om en vecka, in a year, in a week; om måndag, next Monday.
3. att må bra, to be well.

LESSON VI.

The Verb (Continued).

THE SECOND CONJUGATION.

97. The verbs belonging to this conjugation are of two classes.

98. Class I. To this class belong all verbs of this conjugation the stem of which ends in -k, -p, -s, -t, and the verbs begynna, to begin; bryna, to whet; kröna, to crown; röna, to experience; synas, to seem.

99. These verbs take the following endings:

-a in the infinitive.

-er in the singular of the present indicative.

-a in the plural of the present indicative.

-te in the imperfect indicative, both numbers.

-ande in the present participle.

-t in the supine.

-t in the gender and neuter forms of the past participle.

NOTE. The archaic second plural will hereafter for the sake of convenience be disregarded in the lists of verbal endings.

100. Class II. To this class belong all other verbs of the Second Conjugation.

101. These verbs take:

-de in the imperfect indicative, both numbers.

-d in the gender form of the past participle. The other endings are identical with those of Class I.

102. Examples:

att resa, to travel; att böja, to bend.

PRESENT INDICATIVE

Sg.	jag	} reser	jag	} böjer
	du		du
	ni		ni
	han		han
Pl.	vi resa		vi böja
	I resen		I böjen
	ni resa		ni böja
	de resa		de böja

IMPERFECT INDICATIVE

Sg.	jag	} reste	jag	} böjde
	du		du
	ni		ni
	han		han

Pl. vi reste	vi böjde
I resten	I böjden
ni reste	ni böjde
de reste	de böjde

PERFECT INDICATIVE

jag har rest, etc. jag har böjt, etc.

PLUPERFECT INDICATIVE

jag hade rest, etc. jag hade böjt, etc.

103. To the Second Conjugation belong most verbs having a soft vowel (e, i, y, ä, ö) in the stem and derived from other words by a change from hard to soft vowel: lysa (from ljus, light), to light; fylla (from full, full), to fill; skylla (from skuld, guilt), to accuse; kröna (from krona, crown), to crown.

NOTE. 1. If the stem of a verb of this class ends in -r no ending is added in the present indicative, singular; thus, jag hör, I hear, instead of jag hörer; jag gör, instead of jag görer. Similarly three verbs ending in -l take no ending. These are tåla, endure; mala, to grind; gala, to crow.

2. If the stem of a verb of this conjugation ends in -nd or -t preceded by a consonant, the d and the t are dropped before a d and a t of the ending; thus, sända, to send, has the imperfect sände, not sändde; the past participle sänd, not sängd, and, according to the new orthography, the supine sänt, not sändt.

Gifta sig, to get married, has the imperfect gifte, not giftte; the supine gift, not giftt; and the past participle gift, not giftt.

3. Verbs in double m or n drop one of these consonants before -de, -d, -te, and -t, but retain the short sound of the vowel: begynna, to begin, begynte; glömma, to forget, glömde, glömt.

104. ORDER OF WORDS. Normal and Inverted.

1. Normal order: First the subject with its modifiers. Second, the verb. Third, the object and other adjuncts of the verb.

2. Inverted order: The subject follows the verb. The inverted order is required:

(a) In direct questions: Läste han boken i går?
Did he read the book yesterday?

(b) When the object or one of the other adjuncts of the verb, adverb, phrase or clause, precedes the verb: i går läste han boken, yesterday he read the book; då han kom, talade han till mig, when he came he spoke to me.

OBSERVE. Inversion occasioned by preceding modifiers of the verb occurs only in principal clauses and in dependent clauses introduced by att.

(c) In the imperative, if the pronoun is expressed: Kom du hit bara, (you) just come here.

EXERCISE VI.

A. Supply the proper endings of the verbs; the post-positive definite article and the plural endings, or both.

1. Är herr Quist hemma i dag? Nej, han har res— till stad— för att träffa några (some) vän—. 2. Så tråkigt (neuter), jag har sök— honom två gång—, men har ej träff— honom ännu. 3. Är det något (anything) viktigt? Ja, jag hör— för en vecka sedan (a week ago), att han ämn— köpa vagn— och några par häst—. Jag tänk— tala med honom om det. 4. Nu behöv— han ej några (any), ty han har sålt (sold) fabrik— —, som han äg—. 5. Vart ha goss— — gått (gone)? De ha gått till muse— för att se på (look at) de nya (plur.) tavl— — (def. pl.), som man berömm— så mycket. 6. Tror¹ (believe) du, att de komma hem till middag—? Det² tror jag, ty de bruka ej försumma något (any) mål. 7. Har ni varit i kyrk— i dag? Nej, vädr— var så vackert, att jag promener— ut på landet. 8. Jag vandr— genom skog—, plock— blomm— och hörde på fågl— — (def. gen. plur.) sång. 9. Det var en härlig predikan, tyck— jag. 10. Ni borde (ought) ha varit i kyrkan i dag, ty pastor Ström höll³ (preached) en ypperlig predikan.

¹Observe the Swedish way of asking a question (93, b). ²Note position of det and inverted order. ³Impf. of hålla, to hold.

B. Answer in Swedish and supply verbal endings.

1. Vem har ni besök— i dag? 2. Varför var han ej hemma? 3. Vad önsk— ni tala med honom om? 4. När ämna— han köpa hästar och vagnar? 5. Varför köp— han dem ej nu? 6. Vad har han gjort med fabrikerna, som han ägde? 7. Äro Karl och Gustav hemma? 8. Varför tror ni, att de komma hem till middagen? 9. Vem predik— i kyrkan i dag? 10. Var det mycket folk i kyrkan?

C. 1. I tried to see you yesterday, but you were not at home. 2. In the afternoon I telephoned twice, but no one (ingen) answered. 3. Where were you the whole day? 4. In the forenoon I visited the museum in order (A, 5) to look at the new pictures, which have been praised¹ so highly. 5. In the afternoon I took a walk (A, 7) into the country. 6. On the way out I met Mr. Quist. He told me that he had sold his (sina) two factories. 7. I thought that he owned only one. 8. You ought to have been (A, 10) in church to-day. Pastor Ström preached (höll) an excellent sermon and the church was crowded. 9. I saw (såg) Mr. Blomberg there, who seldom attends church². 10. Mrs. Blomberg, on the contrary (däremot), attends very often.

¹Use man with the active. ²*går i kyrkan*.

VOCABULARY.

N. B. The two subdivisions of the Second Conjugation will be designated by a and b.

behöva , IIb, to need	på för'middagen , in the forenoon
berömma , IIb, to praise
bruka , I, to use	försumma , I, neglect, miss
en eftermiddag , -ar, afternoon	försöka , IIa, to try
på eftermiddagen , in the afternoon	härlig , glorious, magnificent
	en häst , -ar, horse
fullpackad , crowded	höra , IIb, to hear
en för'middag , -ar, forenoon	höra på , to listen to

köpa , IIa, to buy	en sång , -er, song
(ut) på landet, to (into) the country	sällan , seldom
men , but	söka , IIa, to seek, look for
en middag , -ar, noon; dinner	träffa , I, to meet, see, speak to på middagen, at noon	tråkig , tedious, sad, unpleasant
mycket , highly	så tråkigt , too bad
ett mål , meal; goal	tror , believes
möta , IIa, meet	två gånger , twice
om'tala , I, tell, relate	tycka , IIa, to think
plocka , I, to pick	jag tycker , it seems to me
predi'ka , I, to preach	tänka , IIa, to think
en predi'kan , sermon	vagn , -ar, wagon, carriage
promene'ra , I, to take a walk	vandra , I, to wander, stroll
ringa på' hos , IIb, to ring up	viktig , weighty, important
sedan (adv., prep. and conj.), since	en väg , -ar, road, way
för...sedan , ago	ypertig , excellent
	äga , IIb, to own
	ännu , yet

IDIOMS.

1. för två år sedan, two years ago; för länge sedan, long ago.
2. Jag ser på, hör på, I look at, listen to.
3. att träffa (råka) en person, to see (meet) a person.
4. hela dagen, the whole day.

LESSON VII.

FOURTH DECLENSION.

105. The nouns of this declension take -n in the plural.

106. The postpositive definite article is -t or -et in the singular, -a in the plural, also -en for neuter monosyllables.

107. This declension contains:

(a) A few neuter monosyllables ending in a vowel.

(b) Most neuter nouns of more than one syllable ending in an unaccented vowel, generally -e.

108. Examples of nouns belonging to the Fourth Declension:

ett hjärta, a heart; ett rike, a realm; ett piano, a piano; ett bi, a bee.

NOTE. 1. The words öga, eye, and öra, ear, have the plurals, ögon and öron; def. form, ögonen and öronen.

2. Bi, bo, and similar neuter nouns, may also have the def. sing. form bi-t, bo-t, etc.

Declension of Adjectives.

109. The adjectives have an indefinite and a definite declension.

THE INDEFINITE DECLENSION.

110. The Indefinite Declension has the following endings:

-t in the neuter singular.

-a (-e, see 112, 1) in the plural for all genders.

111. NOTES ON THE SINGULAR.

1. Adjectives ending in -t preceded by a consonant do not take the ending -t in the neuter; as, salt, salt, — neuter, salt; likewise foreign adjectives ending in -t: absolut — neuter, absolut; konkret, — neuter, konkret.

2. Adjectives ending in unaccented -en change n to the neuter t; as, trogen, faithful, — neuter, troget; funnen, found, — neuter, funnet.

3. Adjectives ending in -d preceded by a vowel change d to t in accented syllables before the neuter t: god, good, — neuter, gott; in unaccented syllables d is dropped: kallad, called, — kallat; bred, broad, — brett.

4. If the final d is preceded by a consonant it is eliminated: ond, evil, — neuter, ont; bränd, burned, — neuter, bränt. If the adjective ends in a double d, one is dropped and the other changed to t: trodd, believed, — neuter, trott.

5. Adjectives ending in an accented vowel add -tt: fri, free, — neuter, fritt; blå, blue, — neuter, blått.

6. Adjectives ending in a double n drop one n before the neuter t: sann, true, — neuter, sant.

7. Adjectives ending in -e (especially present participles) do not change in the neuter: älskande, loving, — neuter, älskande; öde, desolate, — neuter, öde. Some adjectives are not used in the indef. form of the neuter; as, lat, lazy; vünster, left, etc.

112. NOTES ON THE PLURAL.

1. The plural generally takes the ending -a for all genders, but -e is always used when the adjective ends in -ad (past participles of the First Conjugation) and sometimes, especially in solemn style, when the adjective modifies a masculine noun.

2. Adjectives ending in an unaccented -al, -el, -en, -er eliminate the vowel of these endings when the plural ending, -a or -e, is added: gammal, old, — gamla; ädel, noble, — ädla; mogen, ripe, — mogna.

USE OF THE INDEFINITE DECLENSION.

113. The adjective is declined in the Indefinite Declension when used attributively with a noun in the indefinite sense, and also when it is used predicatively: ett snäll-t barn är sin moders fröjd, a good child is the joy of its mother; barnet är vac- ker-t, the child is pretty; Karl och Robert äro flitig-a gossar, Carl and Robert are industrious boys.

114. Examples of the Indefinite Declension:

M. F. GENDER	FORM	NEUTER	M. F. GENDER	FORM	NEUTER
Sg.	god	gott		ädel	ädelt
Pl.	goda			ädla
Sg.	gammal	gammalt		trogen	troget
Pl.	gamla			trogna
Sg.	ond	ont		älskad	älskat
Pl.	onda			älskade
Sg.	absolut	absolut		trodd	trott
Pl.	absoluta			trodda

115. PARADIGMS WITH NOUNS.

Sg.	en god gosse	en god flicka	ett gott barn
Pl.	goda gossar	goda flickor	goda barn
Sg.	en ädel konung	en ädel kvinna	ett ädelt namn
Pl.	ädla konungar	ädla kvinnor	ädla namn
Sg.	en älskad man	en älskad moder	ett älskat land
Pl.	älskade män	älskade mödrar	älskade länder

RULES OF SYNTAX.

116. Adjectives agree with the nouns they qualify in number and gender but not in case: ett snäll-t barn, a good child; snäll-a barn, good children; ett snällt barn-s moder, the mother of a good child; snäll-a barn-s mödrar, the mothers of good children.

117. Most descriptive adjectives can be used in the indefinite form of the neuter singular as adverbs; thus, ädel, ädelt, noble, — ädelt, nobly; trogen, troget, faithful, — troget, faithfully.

EXERCISE VII.

A. Supply the proper endings: 1. I går var det mycket kall—men klar—och vacker—. 2. En häftig—¹ nordan blås—, och termometer—vis—åtskillig—grad—under fryspunkt—. 3. Hela dag—arbet—² jag trog—(adv.), men på kvällen åk—² jag skridskor. 4. Det gick (went) ypperlig—(adv.), ty is—var blank—och hård—. 5. Skridskoban—var illuminerad, en stor—musikkår spel—... Han hade mycket att säga om förhållande—i Amerika, som i många hänseende—behag—+ honom. 9. I min väns trädgård växa² god—äpple—. I går var² jag där och plock—några. 10. Äpple—(def. pl.) äro ... (red) och ... (yellow) och mycket ... (sweet). 11. Under träden (the trees) äro säte—och i gren—(def. pl.) bygga fågl—(def. pl.) sina bo—.

¹In order to test the student's knowledge dashes are put even where no endings are to be supplied. ²Note inverted order.

B. Answer in Swedish: 1. Hurudant var vädret i går? 2. Var det lugnt (calm)? 3. Huru många (many) grader visade termometern under fryspunkten? 4. Vad gjorde (did ... do) ni under (during) dagen? 5. Vad gjorde ni på kvällen? 6. Beskriv (describe) skridskobanan? 7. Vem träffade ni där? 8. Var hade han varit? 9. Vad talade han om? 10. Vem tillhör trädgården, där ni var i går? 11. Var äro sätena?

C. 1. The weather is cold to-day, but clear and beautiful. 2. I believe that the thermometer indicates several degrees below the freezing point. 3. I am tired because I have worked faithfully all day. 4. If the ice is good I wish (invert) to skate a couple (of) hours. 5. The ice is excellent, very hard and smooth, and to-night a big band will play¹ in the rink. 6. Do you know² if the rink is illuminated to-night? Surely (ja visst). 7. It is a great pleasure to skate rapidly back and forth. 8. The band plays merry pieces. 9. I like merry music and happy people. 10. There I see a couple (of) old friends. I wish to speak to (vid) them. 11. They have been in America and know the conditions there.

¹Use present tense and invert (104, 2); in, på. ²know, vet.

VOCABULARY.

N. B. Two forms are given of the adjective: the gender and the neuter form; the latter is also the adverb.

IDIOMS: 1. åka skridsko, to skate.

2. fram och tillbaka, back and forth.

LESSON VIII.

FIFTH DECLENSION.

118. The nouns belonging to this declension take no ending in the plural (cf. deer, sheep, swine, in English).

119. The postpositive article is -n, or -en for gender nouns and -et for neuter nouns in the singular and -na (sometimes -ne for masculines in -are) for gender nouns and -en for neuter nouns in the plural.

120. The Fifth Declension includes:

(a) All gender nouns ending in -ande and -are.

NOTE. Kammare, hammare, and källare have also the plurals kamr-ar, hamr-ar, and källr-ar.

(b) Names of peoples and nouns of foreign origin ending in -er.

(c) Most neuter nouns ending in a consonant, except those ending in -eum and -ium which belong to the Third Declension.

(d) The nouns fader, father; broder, brother; man, man; gås, goose; lus, louse; mus, mouse, which modify the vowel in the plural; pl. fäder, bröder, män, gäss, löss, möss; and a few common words of measure; as, fot, foot; tum, inch; mil, mile.

NOTE. Fot has the plural fötter only when signifying a part of the body. Män, gäss, löss, möss have the definite forms männen, gässen, lössen, mössen.

121. Examples of nouns of the Fifth Declension: en bagare, a baker; en ordförande, a chairman; en mu'siker, a musician; ett namn, a name; ett modus, a mode.

INDEFINITE	DEFINITE
Sg. en bagare	bagare-n
Pl. bagare	bagarna (ne) ¹
Sg. en ordförande	ordförande-n
Pl. ordförande	ordförande-na
Sg. en musiker	musiker-n
Pl. musiker	musiker-na
Sg. ett namn	namn-et
Pl. namn	namn-en
Sg. ett modus	modus ²
Pl. modus	modus

¹Observe the elimination of the e of the ending -are. Such forms as domarena or domrarna from domare, judge, to distinguish its plural from the plural domarna of dom, sentence, are growing obsolete. The def. article is generally -na even for words like bagare, cf. 73, note 5.

²Words in -us cannot take the postpositive article. The indef. form is used for the def. (73, note 4, c).

THE DEFINITE DECLENSION.

122. In the Definite Declension the adjective has practically only one ending, -a, which is added to the original form (the indefinite singular of the gender form); sometimes, however, we find -e.

123. The ending -e takes the place of -a in the following instances:

(a) Often in the singular; occasionally in the plural when the adjective modifies a noun denoting a person of the male sex: den god-a (also god-e) gossen; den stor-e (never stor-a) Gustav Adolf, the latter expression is emphatic and formal; den stor-e mannen means the great man. Stora would here because of its greater commonplaceness convey the sense of physical largeness.

(b) When the adjective is used as a noun to denote human beings of the male sex; the adjective then has a genitive in -s: den gamle, the old man; but den gamla, the old woman; de rike, the rich; den gamles hus, the house of the old man.

(c) Always when the adjective ends in -ad; as, den älskade drottningen, the beloved queen.

NOTE. Adjectives ending in -a, -e (se), -om, -s (es) and -tals are indeclinable.

USE OF DEFINITE DECLENSION.

124. The adjective is declined in the Definite Declension when used:

(1) Before a noun with the postpositive article; as, den rike mannen, the rich man; svenska språket, the Swedish language (69).

(2) After a noun in the genitive; as, min farbrors vackra hus, the fine house of my uncle; konungens ädla uppträdande, the noble conduct of the king.

(3) After the possessive and demonstrative adjectives and pronouns; as, mina nya handskar, my new gloves; denne trogne tjänare, this faithful servant.

(4) In expressions of address and in apposition with a personal pronoun; as, Käre vän! Dear friend. Jag olyckliga människa! I unhappy man.

125. Examples of the Definite Declension: ädel, noble; trogen, faithful; älskad, loved.

MASC.	FEM.	NEUTER
Sg. ädl-a(e)	ädl-a	ädl-a
Pl. ädl-a(e)	ädl-a	ädl-a
Sg. trog-n-a(e)	trog-n-a	trog-n-a
Pl. trog-n-a(e)	trog-n-a	trog-n-a
Sg. älskad-e	älskad-e	älskad-e
Pl. älskad-e	älskad-e	älskad-e

NOTE. Adjectives ending in unaccented -al, -el, -en, -er drop the vowel of their last syllable before -a or -e of the def. form.

THE USE OF THE PREPOSITIVE DEFINITE ARTICLE.

126. The prepositive definite article den, det, pl. de (70) is employed when the noun is qualified by an adjective or numeral; in such a case the post-positive definite article must also be used; thus, den vackr-a flickan, the beautiful girl; det snäll-a barn-et, the good child; de tio flitigast-e gossarna, the ten most industrious boys.

NOTE 1. The prepositive article is generally employed when the adjective is used as a noun; thus, den gamle, the old man; den lilla, the little girl; det sköna, the beautiful.

2. It is omitted in a number of set phrases, especially such as serve as names; often before superlatives and adjectives of place; before hel, whole, halv, half, själv, self; thus, svenska språket, the Swedish language; första dagen, the first day; vänstra sidan, the left side; hela natten, the whole night.

EXERCISE VIII.

A. Supply the proper form of the Swedish equivalents of the adjectives given within parenthesis in the following: den — (noble) mannen; min faders — (beautiful) hus; de — (faithful) lärarna; de — (ripe) äpplena; de — (small) gossarna; ett — (free) land; ett — (wet) fält; det — (wet) fältet; det — (respected) namnet; den — (little) flickan; ett — (red) hus; ett — (sweet) barn; — (sweet) barn (pl.); ett — (salt) bad; de — (noble) männen; — (respected) läkare; den — (old [one], m. and f.); de — (ripe [ones]); ett — (small) barn; de — (new) lärarna; den — (new one); den — (free one, m. and f.).

B. 1. I går vaknade jag med en häftig huvudvärk. 2. Jag klädde mig och promenerade i den vackra parken en timme före frukosten. 3. Då jag kom (came) tillbaka, voro min far och mor otåligen, ty de hade väntat länge. 4. Jag mådde inte (did not feel) alls bra och kunde (could) ej äta något av den goda maten. 5. Jag försökte (att) dricka en kopp av det starka kaffet, men kunde inte. 6. På eftermiddagen gick jag till den skicklige läkaren dr Burén. 7. Denne (he, lit., this one) är en gammal vän till¹ min far. 8. Hans mottagningsrum är i det nya huset på hörnet af Kungsgatan och Vasagatan. 9. Jag måste (had to) vänta en hel timma, innan jag träffade honom, ty det var många patienter före mig. 10. "Vad fattas er?" frågade den gamle vänlige läkaren. 11. "Jag har ofta en mycket häftig hufvudvärk", svarade jag. 12. "Är aptiten god eller dålig?" 13. "På morgonen är den mycket dålig." 14. "Hur sover ni?" "Dåligt." 15. "Får (may) jag se på er tunga?" 16. "Här har ni ett recept, det är för aptiten." 17. Dessutom ordinerade han rörelse i friska luften (126, 2).

C. Answer in Swedish: 1. Var ni bra, när ni vaknade i går? 2. Vad fattades er? 3. Vad gjorde ni före frukosten? 4. Varför voro er far och mor otåligen? 5. Hur länge hade ni promenerat? 6. Huru många koppar kaffe drack (impf.) ni? 7. Känner er far dr Burén? 8. Var har han sitt mottagningsrum? 9. Hur länge och varför måste ni vänta? 10. Vad frågade den gamle vänlige läkaren er?

11. Vad ordinerade (prescribed) han?

D. 1. My old father woke up to-day with a very violent headache. 2. He came down for (till) breakfast (def.) but could not eat anything (något). 3. At (vid) noon (def.) his appetite was very poor and we had to¹ telephone for² the famous old physician, Dr. Burén. 4. Our dear father and he are old friends. 5. He came soon in the big red automobile, which he bought last year (i fjol). 6. When he came in, he asked (104, 2) my father, "What ails you, old friend?" 7. When he had examined him he wrote (skrev) two prescriptions, one for the violent headache, the other (andra) for the poor appetite. 8. Besides he prescribed exercise and fresh air.

¹*Have to* when it denotes compulsion is expressed by måste, which is the same in the present and imperfect.

²*For* with the verbs like ask, send, write, call, telephone, is rendered efter.

IDIOMS: 1. en kopp kaffe, a cup of coffee.

2. inte alls, not at all.

LESSON IX.

127. IRREGULARITIES IN DECLENSION:

(a) For the syncopation of the vowel of an unaccented ending before the plural ending, see 81, notes 1 and 2; and 85, note 4.

(b) For the elimination of the endings -us and -um after e and i before the plural ending, see 86, note.

(c) A few nouns of the Second, Third, and Fifth Declensions modify the root vowel in the plural; as, bonde, peasant; pl. bönder broder, brother; pl. bröder dotter, daughter; pl. döttrar fader, father; pl. fäder man, man; pl. män

moder, mother; pl. mödrar son, son; pl. söner (grave accent), and some others (see 85, notes 1 and 2).

(d) A few nouns of the Third Declension double the last consonant. Often there is also a vowel modification; as,

bok, book; pl. böcker
fot, foot; pl. fötter get, goat; pl. getter
nöt, nut; pl. nötter

(e) So also,

gås, goose; pl. gäss.
lus, louse; pl. löss.
mus, mouse; pl. möss.

(f) Some nouns of the Third Declension take only -r in the plural; such are, nouns ending in unaccented -e, a few monosyllabic gender nouns ending in o, å, ö, and some others; as, fi'ende, enemy; pl. fiende-r hustru, wife; pl. hustru-r klo, claw; pl. klo-r ko, cow; pl. ko-r sko, shoe; pl. sko-r

tå, toe; pl. tå-r

(g) Many loan words retain their foreign plural: faktum, fact; pl. fakta; examen, examination; pl. examina.

DECLENSION OF PROPER NAMES.

128. Names of persons, countries, cities, rivers, mountains, and places take an -s in the genitive; ex., jag läser Tegnér's dikter, I am reading the poetry of Tegnér; Sveriges floder äro vackra, the rivers of Sweden are beautiful. (Exceptions 130, a.)

NOTE. If a title precedes the name, the latter only takes the -s as in English: herr Linér's dotter är här, Mr. Linér's daughter is here.

THE CASES.

129. The nominative and the genitive are the only cases that need to be taken into account in the declension of nouns, the objective being identical with the nominative.

130. The genitive is formed, as has been stated before, by the addition of an -s to the nominative, indefinite and definite, singular and plural.

IMPORTANT OBSERVATIONS.

(a) Proper nouns ending in an s-sound (s, x, z) in the nominative have their possessive of the same form, adding only an apostrophe; as, Johannes' evangelium, the Gospel of St. John.

(b) In the case of a common noun ending in an s-sound, -st, or -xt in the nominative, the genitive relation is generally expressed by the prepositions på and till (rarely av); thus, taket på ett hus, the roof of a house; väggarna till ett hus, the walls of a house; sometimes by putting the noun in the definite form and suffixing an s; as, blitzens hastighet, the rapidity of a flash of lightning, instead of en blizts hastighet.

(c) In certain expressions names of localities ending in a vowel use a nominative in apposition where other words would require a genitive; as, Uppsala universitet, the university of Upsala.

(d) A Latin genitive in -i occurs with nouns in -us; as, Kristi liv, the life of Christ. Note also the genitive of Jesus, Jesu.

(e) When several words are used to designate the same person or object, the last word in the group generally takes the -s: Karl den stores rike, the realm of Charles the Great; konungen av Sveriges (also konungens av Sverige) hov, the court of the king of Sweden.

SYNTAX OF THE CASES.

131. The nominative and the objective need no illustration since their functions are the same as in English.

THE GENITIVE.

132. In regard to the genitive it is of prime importance to notice that the form in -s is employed much more freely in Swedish than in English. The genitive relation is rarely expressed by the preposition av, of; thus impersonal nouns, which in English invariably would be construed with of to express the genitive relation, in Swedish take -s; as, bordets ben, the legs of the table; vid månadens slut, at the end of the month.

133. The following uses of the genitive should be noted:

(a) The word modified by the genitive is omitted in expressions like: min klocka är vackrare än min brors, my watch is prettier than my brother's; detta är min systers hatt, min mors ligger där borta, this is my sister's hat, my mother's lies over there.

(b) Somewhat analogous is the use of the genitive designating the house, family, or business of somebody: jag bor hos Lindholms, I live at Lindholm's; Blombergs äro sjuka, the Blombergs are sick.

(c) In a few expressions a genitive is used after the prepositions i and till: gå till sängs, to go to bed; till lands, by land; till sjöss, by water, to or at sea; gå till bords, to sit down at table; i söndags, last Sunday; i höstas, last fall; i våras, last spring.

A temporal expression with i governing the genitive denotes a past period.

NOTE. This use of i and till is limited to a few phrases, which, however, are of very common occurrence.

134. After quantitative nouns of measure and weight, and nouns of value, the nominative is used: en kopp kaffe, a cup of coffee; tio meter tyg, ten meters of cloth; ett kilo smör, a kilogram of butter; för tio kronor socker, ten crowns' worth of sugar.

135. The objective genitive is often expressed by till, sometimes by av; thus, kärleken till fosterlandet, love of country; åsynen av land, the sight of land. The possessive genitive is often expressed by till (or på) when the possessor is an inanimate object: locket till lådan, the cover of the box; kryckan på käppen, the crutch of the cane (never hatten till den unge mannen, but den unge mannens hatt, the young man's hat).

EXERCISE IX.

A. Translate the following sentences and expressions.

1. Where is the leg of the table (in two ways)? 2. The roof of the house (in two ways) is poor. 3. The history of Charles XII. 4. Mr. Lindgren's daughters. 5. The books of Strindberg, the author (place author first). 6. The university of Upsala is very old. 7. He is at sea. 8. Plato was a pupil of Socrates¹. 9. I bought the shoes at Lindholm's. 10. My house and my father's. 11. The literature of Sweden. 12. The speech of the emperor of Germany. 13. The banks of the Mississippi are beautiful. 14. He came (kom) last Monday. 15. A cup of good coffee. 16. The streets of Berlin. 17. The theaters of Paris. 18. The city (of) Berlin².

¹Translate: one of Socrates' pupils. ²Put Berlin in apposition with city.

B. Supply endings where indicated: 1. Känner ni till den svensk—litteratur—väl? 2. Tyvärr icke. Av de klassisk—författ— (pl. def. gen.) arbet—har¹ jag läst Tegnér's Fritiofs saga och Runebergs episk—dikt— (pl. indef.), och av Sveriges modern—författare känner jag till August Strindberg och Selma Lagerlöf. 3. Hur tyck—ni om Strindberg, är han ej mycket pessimistisk? 4. Jo², jag tyck—mycket bättre om Selma Lagerlöfs böcker.

5. Var ni ej på teater— i går kväll? 6. Nej, men jag hade ämn— att gå, ty jag hade hör—, att man skulle (would) spela en av Strindbergs dramer, men så börj— det att snöa, och vi stann— hemma. 7. Det var skada, ty föreställning— var utmärkt; Blombergs och vi voro där. 8. Roll— — (pl. def. gen.) utförande var mycket gott (also, utförandet av rollerna). 9. Herr Palme, som i måndags spelade Fausts roll i Göthes dram, spelade nu Gustav Adolfs. 10. Har ni läst i tidning— om kejsarens av Tyskland tal? 11. Kan ni säga mig vad Sokrates' berömd—³ lärjunge hette?

¹Note the inverted order. ²*Jo* is used in answering a question containing a negative. ³The def. form of the adjective is used after a possessive modifier (124, note 2).

C. Conversation. 1. Vilka av de klassiska författarna har ni läst? 2. Vilka moderna författare känner ni till? 3. Varför tycker ni bättre om Selma Lagerlöf än om Strindberg? 4. Hade ni ej ämnat att gå på teatern i går? 5. Vad spelade man i går kväll? 6. Hurudan var föreställningen? 7. Vem utförde Gustav Adolfs roll?

D. 1. Where are you going¹ to-night, Charles? i am going to Sandell's. 2. What do you wish, sir (min herre)? I wish to buy the works of Topelius (130, d). 3. Does the green house belong to Mr. Williams' mother? No, it is his brother's, I believe. 4. Where do you pass your winters? Sometimes in Italy and sometimes in one of the towns of southern (def.) France (128). 5. I like the climate of Italy better than that of southern France (than southern France's). 6. Where is to-day's paper (the day's paper²)? I wish to read the latest (senaste) speech of the king of England. 7. Are you acquainted with Francis' (130, a) parents? Yes, I met them at Blomberg's last Monday. 8. Have you read Selma Lagerlöf's famous (def.)

book, "Jerusalem"? 9. Unfortunately not, but I have heard that it contains an excellent portrayal of the peasants of Sweden. 10. Where have you bought the chickens and the geese? I have bought them at Lind's. Aren't they fine? 11. What do you wish, sir? I wish a cup of strong coffee, and (*samt*³) bread and butter. 12. I believe you are sleepy, Mr. Brown. Yes, I am very tired. I went to bed so late last night.

¹Translate: Where do you intend to go to-night? ²Also tidningen för i dag.

³*Samt* is interchangeable with och to avoid repetition, though rarely used in conversation; med, with, could be used here.

The Verb (Continued).

THIRD CONJUGATION.

136. To the Third Conjugation, which may be considered a slightly modified form of the Second, belong all weak verbs which end in any other vowel than -a in the infinitive. This conjugation contains comparatively few verbs.

137. The Third Conjugation has the following endings:

- stem vowel in the infinitive: e, o, y, å—not a.
- r* in the singular of the present indicative.
- stem vowel in the plural of the present indicative.
- n* in the archaic second plural.
- dde* in the imperfect indicative, both numbers.
- ende* in the present participle (111, note 7).
- tt* in the supine.
- dd* in the gender form of the past participle.
- tt* in the neuter form of the past participle (111, 4).

138. Examples of verbs of the Third Conjugation: att tro, to believe; att sy, to sew.

Obj.	oss		eder, er		dem

140. REMARKS ON THE PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

(a) The personal pronouns with the exception of the third person lack genitive forms; these forms are supplied by the possessive adjectives. But a genitive form for the second person occurs in a few titles; as, Ers Majestät, Your Majesty; Ers excellens, Your Excellency.

(b) Mig and dig are colloquially pronounced mäj and däj.

(c) In conversational language 'en or 'n is sometimes appended to the verb or to the pronoun subject in a question and used as a sort of enclitic pronoun for honom or den; likewise also 'et or 't for det and 'na for henne. Ex. Jag såg 'en i går. I saw him yesterday. Fick du't? Did you get it?

141. For the use of du and ni in address, see 67, a, b.

142. It is considered more polite in the singular to use the title of the person with or without herr or fru. The definite form of the title is generally used except when it occurs together with the name or is used in independent construction.

Ex.: Kommer doktorn i kväll? Will you come to-night, Doctor? But Kommer doktor Lind i kväll? Are you coming to-night, Doctor Lind? När flyttar ni ut på landet, herr doktor? When are you going to move out into the country, Doctor?

Persons whose titles and names are unknown may be addressed with herrn, frun, or fröken (also damen, the lady); it is impolite to omit name or title in speaking to persons we know: Vill herrn vara så god och säga mig, var Kungsgatan är? Will you kindly tell me, sir, where King's Street is?

NOTE. To combine convenience with politeness one may judiciously intersperse the pronoun ni with the title. The existing objection to this convenient pronoun is gradually disappearing.

EXERCISE X.

A. Supply the endings of the verbs and nouns where indicated.

1. Var tillbring— (impf.) ni era ferier i somras (133, c), herr doktor? 2. Vi bo— på landet som vanligt, vid en härlig liten insjö. 3. När sommar— komm—, förmå— jag inte att stanna i staden längre, jag måste fly ut i naturen för att hämta nya kraft— (pl.) till mitt arbete. 4. Ni flytt— ut ganska sent i år, herr doktor, eller hur? 5. Ja, det bero— på olyckan, som hän— min hustru. Har ni ej hör— om den? 6. Strax innan vi ämna— (att) lämna stad—, voro (93, a) vi ute och kör— i min nya bil; vi kollider— med en spårvagn, och min hustru blev (was) skadad. 7. Nu må— hon ypperligt, men jag kan ej förmå henne att åka i automobil mera. 8. Varför besöker (93, b) ni oss aldrig, herr professor, medan vi bo på landet? 9. Vi ha det så trevligt, vår villa ligger vid sjöstrand—, och från dess veranda ha vi en härlig utsikt över sjön. 10. Vi ha både (both) motorbåt och segelbåt och naturligtvis roddbåt, om ni tyck— om att ro. 11. Väg— — (pl. def.) äro förträfflig— och passande för automobilåkning.

B. Conversation. 1. Var bodde ni i somras? 2. Varför bor ni på landet? 3. Flyttade ni ut tidigt i år? 4. Varför flyttade ni ut så sent? 5. Vad skedde, när ni voro ute och åkte? 6. Vad kolliderade ni med? 7. Varför vill fru Edström ej åka i automobil mera? 8. Var ligger er villa? 9. Hur har ni det på landet? 10. Huru många slags (kind of) båtar har ni? 11. Vad passa vägarna för?

C. 1. Doctor Edström and his family lived at a beautiful little lake last summer. 2. Their villa is situated (ligger) at (vid) the lake shore, and from the porch they have a charming view over the lake and its islands. 3. The doctor does not feel well if he does not spend his (sina) vacation in (på) the country. 4. Last summer they moved out later than usual, for an accident had occurred to Mrs. Edström. 5. They were out riding in their (sin) large new automobile and collided with a street car. 6. Mrs. Edström was seriously injured, and now the doctor cannot make her (Ex. X, A, 7) ride in an automobile. 7. Haven't you heard of that (därom)? I thought you and the doctor were very good friends. 8. I have visited them several times at (i) their home in the country; they have such a pleasant home. 9. Once I stayed a whole week and was out rowing and fishing (ute och rodde och metade) on the lake every (varje) day.

IDIOMS.

1. att vara ute och köra, gå, rida, etc., to be out driving, walking, riding.
2. att gå ut och gå, to take a walk.
3. att ha det trevligt, to have a pleasant home or time.
4. att må bra, illa, to feel well, bad, ill.

LESSON XI.

FUTURE AND FUTURE PERFECT INDICATIVE.

143. The future indicative is formed by combining the present of the auxiliary skola, shall, which is skall (in conversation ska), with the present infinitive; and the future perfect by combining the same auxiliary with the perfect infinitive.

	FUTURE INDICATIVE	FUTURE PERF. INDIC.
Sg.	jag } du } ni } skall (ska) kalla han }	jag } du } skall (ska) ni } ha kallat han }
Pl.	vi } ni } skola (ska) kalla de } I skolen kalla	vi } ni } skola (ska) de } ha kallat I skolen ha kallat

NOTE 1. Pure future is generally expressed either by the present or by the infinitive together with the present of the verb komma, to come (296).

2. The double forms of the English future and future perfect, I shall call, I shall be calling, and I shall have called, I shall have been calling, are to be rendered by the single forms, jag skall kalla and jag skall ha kallat.

THE IMPERATIVE.

144. The imperative is formed by attaching to the stem of the verb the following endings:

SINGULAR	PLURAL
Second Person -a or —	First Person -om Second Person -en or -n

NOTE. Only verbs of the First Conjugation take -a in the second person singular; all other verbs use the mere stem.

145. Instead of the form in -om, which is exceedingly rare, the imperative of the verb låta, let, *låt*om, generally shortened to låt, is used with the reflexive pronoun oss, us, of the first person plural and the infinitive. This form corresponds exactly to the English imperative with let; thus, låt(om) oss kalla, let us call.

146. Instead of the second person plural in -en or -n the second person singular, with the pronoun ni understood, is used as an imperative for the second person plural.

NOTE. The pronouns are generally omitted in the imperative.

147. The conversational language uses a number of expressions which are more polite than the imperative; the most common is vill ni vara så god, will you be so kind; thus, vill ni vara så god och komma (will you have the kindness to come),—also, var så god och, etc.; or the expression, så är ni (du) snäll (then you are kind), may be used after the imperative; as, kom, så är ni snäll (please come), or, kan (can) may be used in a question: kan du komma nu? — equivalent to, come now, please.

148. Examples of the imperative of the verbs kalla, to call; böja, to bend; tro, to believe; gå, to go.

kalla (du, ni), kallom, låt(om) oss kalla, kallen(I) böj (du, ni), böjom, låt(om) oss böja, böjen(I) tro (du, ni), ——— låt(om) oss tro, tron (I) gå (du, ni), ——— låt(om) oss gå, gån (I)

NOTE. Verbs the stem of which ends in a vowel lack the form in -om, and take -n in the second person plural.

149. REMARKS ON THE INFINITIVE.

(a) The present active infinitive ends in -a, but verbs of the Third Conjugation and a few verbs of the Fourth Conjugation the stem of which ends in a vowel take no ending in the infinitive. The sign of the infinitive is att, to. Ex.: att kalla, att tro, att gå.

(b) The perfect infinitive is formed as in English; thus, att ha kallat, to have called; att ha trott, to have believed; att ha gått, to have gone.

(c) There is also a future infinitive formed by combining the present infinitive of the auxiliary verb skola, shall, with the infinitive of the verb; as, att skola kalla. This is rarely used.

(d) The sign of the infinitive is omitted very much as in English. (Further particulars will be given later.)

(e) An infinitive phrase expressing purpose is generally introduced by the preposition för, for; as, jag har rest till Tyskland för att studera tyska där, I have gone to Germany in order to study German there.

The Reflexive Pronoun.

150. There is only one distinctively reflexive form, the objective sig, which is used for all genders and numbers of the third person: himself, herself, itself, themselves; as, han (hon) sätter sig, seats himself (herself); de sätta sig, they seat themselves.

151. Elsewhere the objective case of the personal pronouns is used as reflexive; as, jag sätter mig, I seat myself; vi sätta oss, we seat ourselves.

NOTE 1. In English the reflexive -self must be distinguished from the emphatic -self. This is expressed in Swedish by själv; as, jag själv, I myself; han har gjort det själv, he has done it himself.

2. Själva(e) preceding a noun means even; as, själva konungen kan inte göra det, even the king cannot do it.

EXERCISE XI.

A. 1. Om ni önska taga en liten tur på sjön, barn, så kom med mig. 2. Gå in till Östermans på vägen, Karl, och säg till dem, att jag önsk— låna ... (their) båt. 3. Hoppa nu i båt—, goss—, men försiktigt, så att ni ej stjäl— ... (it). 4. Vem skall ro? Jaså, du Erik, nej, låt Karl ro, jag tror ej, att det skall bli tungt för honom, ty sjön ligger som en spegel. 5. Sluta att ro, Karl, och släpp ned ankar—. Låt oss nu kasta ut rev—. 6. Se bara, hur mycket fisk det är här! Karl har redan ett napp på sin krok. 7. Tycker ni inte, att det är roligt att meta, när man får napp? 8. Var nu snäll och ro i land, så sätta vi oss under det stor— träd— för att äta vår middag.

B. 1. Kära barn, öppna läseböckerna på sidan tjugu, och låt oss läsa Tegnér's vackra dikt. 2. Säg mig, Karl, vad den handlar om, är du snäll. 3. Det var alldeles riktigt. Börja nu och läs den högt och väl för oss, Maria. 4. Var god och ursäkt mig, fröken Forsell, jag kan ej läsa högt; jag är förkyld och har ont i halsen. 5. Det var illa, då skall lilla Klara läsa den. 6. Snälla fröken, tillåt mig att läsa den utantill; jag har lärt hela dikten utantill. 7. Det var bra gjort, Klara. Hör nu på uppmärksamt allesammans, medan Klara läser. 8. Sedan skall jag själv deklamera den för er.

C. Conversation. 1. Vad önskar ni (att) göra i dag? 2. Vem ska vi låna båten av? 3. Varför blir det ej tungt för Karl att ro? 4. Vad måste man göra, innan man kan börja (att) meta? 5. Vem av er har napp på sin krok? 6. När är det roligt att meta? 7. Var skola vi äta vår middag? 8. Varför kan Maria ej läsa högt? 9. Hur har Klara visat, att hon är flitig? 10. Vad ämnar fröken Forsell (att) göra, när Klara har läst dikten?

D. 1. The children wished to go out fishing (ut och meta) yesterday. 2. Since we do not have any boat, we had to (måste vi) borrow one from Österman's. 3. The boys jumped carefully into the boat in order not to upset it. 4. Carl rowed the whole way¹, and it was not very difficult, for the lake was like a mirror. 5. Stop rowing, Carl; and you, Eric, drop the anchor. 6. Let us throw out our lines here, boys, there is (A, 6) plenty of (much) fish here, I think. 7. If you are tired we shall (invert) row ashore and sit down (A, 8) under the big tree to eat our breakfast. 8. Please (B, 2) open the books on page ten, children. 9. Tell me, Carl, who the author of this (denna) beautiful poem is. 10. Quite right, my dear boy. And now Clara will recite the poem for us. 11. When she has done (gjort) this, I myself shall declaim it for you. 12. Why don't you begin, Clara? Have you not learned it by heart? 13. Please excuse me (var god och ursäkta mig), Miss Forsell. I tried to learn it by heart yesterday, but could (kunde) not. I had such a sore throat (så ont i halsen). 14. Please open (var snäll och ...) the window, Carl, I have a headache (huvudvärk, or, ont i huvudet).

¹*Hela vägen*: the prepositive article is omitted.

VOCABULARY.

alldeles , quite, entirely	en läsebok , -böcker, reader
allesammans , all	en middag , -ar, noon; dinner
ett ankare , —, anchor	ett napp , bite
bara , only	någon , något , any
bra , well (often referring to health)	ond , ont , bad, wicked; sore; angry
deklame'ra , I, to declaim	redan , already
eme'dan , because, since	en rev , -ar, line
en fisk , -ar, fish	riklig , -t, right, correct
ett fönster , window	rolig , -t, amusing
förkyld' -kylt, having caught a cold	en sjö , -ar, lake
försik'tig , -t, cautious	sluta , I, to cease
handla om , I, to treat about	som (rel. pronoun, adv. and conj.), who, like, as
hoppa , I, to jump	en spegel , -lar, mirror
hög , -t, high (as adv. also aloud)	stjälpa , Ila, to upset
i går , yesterday	säga , (irr. v.), to say
illa (adv.), bad(ly), too bad	ti'låta (st. v.), to permit
jasd' , so, is that so	tio , ten
kasta , I, to throw	tung , -t, heavy
en krok , -ar, hook	en tur , -er, turn; trip; luck
lära , I Ib, to learn; to teach	uppmärksam , -t, attentive (-ly)
läsa upp' , Ila, to recite	ur'säkt a, I, to excuse
	utantill , by heart

IDIOMS: 1. Det är roligt, It is fun.

2. Jag är förkyld, I have caught a cold.

3. Jag har ont i halsen, I have a sore throat.

Note that long m can be written double only when it is intervocalic. This principle causes sometimes a dropping of one m and sometimes a doubling: uppmärksam, becomes uppmärksamma in the plural — m is here intervocalic; nummer becomes num-ret in the def. form — m is no longer intervocalic.

LESSON XII.

THE FOURTH CONJUGATION.

152. This conjugation contains all verbs that form their imperfect by means of a change of the vowel of the root without any added tense sign. There is frequently also a change of vowel in the supine and past participle. These verbs are called strong verbs.

The verbs belonging to this conjugation are divided into two classes.

153. The first class contains verbs the root of which undergoes but one vowel change. In these verbs the vowel of the supine and past participle is the same as that of the infinitive and the vowel of the plural of the imperfect the same as that of the singular.

Examples:

INFINITIVE	IMPERFECT		SUPINE	PAST PARTICIPLE
	SG.	PL.
hålla , to hold	höll	höllo	hållit	hållen , -et
gripa , to seize	grep	grepo	gripit	gripen , -et

154. The second class contains verbs the root of which undergoes two vowel changes. In these the vowel of the supine and the past participle is always different from that of the infinitive; the vowel of the plural of the imperfect is in most cases the same as that of the supine, in the case of a few verbs like that of the singular of the imperfect and different from that of the supine.

Example:

INFINITIVE	IMPERFECT		SUPINE	PAST PARTICIPLE
	SG.	PL.
finna , to find	fann	funno	funnit	funnen , -et
knyta , to tie	knöt	knöto	knutit	knuten , -et

155. The following table of the most common of the vowel changes in the Fourth Conjugation may prove helpful:

	INFINITIVE	IMPERFECT		SUPINE
		SG.	PL.
1. i, e, e, i.	bita , to bite	bet	beto	bitit
2. a, o, o, a.	fara , to travel	for	foro	farit
3. u, ö, ö, u	njuta , to enjoy	njöt	njöto	njutit
4. y, ö, ö, u.	knyta , to tie	knöt	knöto	knutit
5. i, a, u, u.	finna , to find	fann	funno	funnit
6. ä, a, u, u.	skära , to cut	skar	skuro	skurit

156. The verbs of the Strong Conjugation have the following endings:

- er (-r) in the singular of the present indicative.
- a in the plural of the present indicative.
- en in the archaic second person plural.
- No ending in the singular of the impf. indicative.
- o in the plural of the imperfect indicative.
- ande in the present participle.
- en in the gender form of the past participle.
- et in the neuter form of the past participle.
- it in the supine.

NOTE 1. The difference of vowel in the singular and plural of the imperfect indicative need not occasion the beginner any difficulty, since the singular is invariably used for the plural in conversation; thus, vi fann is the common form, vi funno is rarely heard.

2. The past participle is declined like adjectives in -en, for which see 111, 2, 112, 2, and 125, note.

157. Examples of verbs of the first and second classes of the Fourth Conjugation: att gripa, to seize; att finna, to find.

 5. att visa vägen, to show the way.

LESSON XIII.

THE SUBJUNCTIVE.

REMARK. Note the tendency of substituting compound forms for the simple subjunctive.

PRESENT SUBJUNCTIVE.

158. The simple present subjunctive of all persons, except the archaic second person plural, is formed by adding -e to the stem. The archaic second person plural ends in -en. Much more common is the compound form with må.

NOTE. Verbs the infinitive of which ends in any other vowel than a lack the simple present subjunctive. These include all verbs of the Third Conjugation and a few others; as, gå, to go; stå, to stand; le, to smile; etc.

159. Examples of the present subjunctive: att vara, to be; att älska, to love; att tro, to believe.

SINGULAR.

jag	{	vare,	jag	{	älske,	jag	{	må tro,
du		må vara,	du		må älska,	du		måtte tro
ni		måtte vara	ni		måtte älska,	ni		måtte tro
han			han			han

PLURAL.

vi	{	vare,	vi	{	älske,	vi	{	må tro,
ni		må vara,	ni		må älska,	ni		måtte tro
de		måtte vara	de		måtte älska	de

160. IMPERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE.

(1) In verbs of the Fourth Conjugation the simple imperfect subjunctive is formed by changing the ending -o of the plural of the imperfect indicative to -e (the archaic second person plural having the additional ending -n). The vowel of both numbers of the imperfect subjunctive is thus the same as that of the plural of the imperfect indicative.

NOTE. The singular of the imperfect indicative of the Fourth Conjugation is often used instead of the impf. subjunctive.

(2) In the First, Second, and Third Conjugations the simple imperfect subjunctive is identical with the imperfect indicative.

(3) Compound forms consisting of the imperfect of skall, skulle, are of very common occurrence.

161. Examples of the imperfect subjunctive of the verbs binda, to bind; vara, to be; älska, to love.

INFINITIVE	IMPERFECT		SUPINE	PAST PARTICIPLE
	SG.	PL.
binda	band	bundo	bundit	bunden, -et
vara	var	voro	varit
älska	älskade	älskade	älskat	älskad, -at

Sg. jag bunde, skulle binda, etc.

Pl. vi bunde, skulle binda, etc.

Sg. jag vore, skulle vara, etc.

Pl. vi vore, skulle vara, etc.

Sg. jag älskade, skulle älska, etc.

Pl. vi älskade, skulle älska, etc.

162. PERFECT AND PLUPERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE.

(a) The perfect subjunctive is formed by combining the present or the imperfect of the auxiliary må with the perfect infinitive.

(b) The pluperfect subjunctive is either identical with the indicative or formed by combining the imperfect of skall, skulle, with the perfect infinitive.

Examples of the perfect and pluperfect subjunctives of the verbs skriva and vara.

PERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE.

Sg.	jag må or måtte ha skrivit, etc.	jag må or måtte ha varit, etc.
Pl.	vi må or måtte ha skrivit, etc.	vi må or måtte ha varit, etc.

PLUPERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE.

Sg.	jag hade skrivit, or jag skulle ha skrivit	jag hade varit, or jag skulle ha varit
Pl.	vi hade skrivit, or vi skulle ha skrivit	vi hade varit, or vi skulle ha varit

USES OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE.

163. Classification of uses. The subjunctive—which marks in general the absence of direct or positive assertion—is used regularly in statements of doubtful reality; such as wish, request, purpose, concession, possibility.

164. SUBJUNCTIVE OF WISH.

(a) A realizable wish is expressed by the simple present subjunctive, or by the compound form with må and måtte, må implying greater and måtte less confidence in the realization of the wish.

Ex. Give Gud dig hälsa; also, må or måtte Gud giva dig hälsa! May God give you health. Måtte han vara här! Would he were here! Vi måtte väl komma i tid till tåget! I do wish we might come in time for the train.

NOTE. The wish may sometimes have the force of a command: Gud sade: "Varde ljus!" God said, "Let there be light."

(b) A wish which refers to the present and which is not—at least not immediately—realizable is expressed by the simple imperfect subjunctive; a similar wish referring to the past, by the pluperfect subjunctive.

Ex. Ack, om jag vore ung igen! Would I were young again! O, att han vore här! Would he were here! Hade jag blott vingar! If I only had wings! Hade jag blott haft en enda vän! Had I only had a single friend!

NOTE 1. The simple imperfect subjunctive may also express a very vivid wish referring to the future: Ack, om det snart vore vår! O that spring were here!

2. Note the use of ack, om..., o, att... with the sense of would (that)

Closely related to the subjunctive of wish are the subjunctives of purpose and concession.

165. SUBJUNCTIVE OF PURPOSE.

The compound subjunctive with må and måtte is used in clauses expressing purpose with the conjunctions att, på det att, så att, in order that. After a past tense the subjunctive with skulle may be used.

Ex. Bed till Gud, att han må (måtte) beskydda oss, pray to God that he may protect us; han skyn-dade sig, så att han skulle vara färdig, he hurried in order that he might be ready.

NOTE 1. The compound subjunctive (sometimes the indicative) of få, may (permission), and kunna, can (ability, possibility), are often used in a purpose clause if permission or ability is implied: han bad barnen vara tysta, så att han skulle få sova, he asked the children to be quiet in order that he might sleep; han studerade svenska flitigt, så att han skulle kunna tala det flytande, he studied Swedish diligently in order that he might speak it fluently.

2. If the subject of the purpose clause is the same as that of the principal clause the infinitive with för att (149, e) is used: herr Vallner är ej hemma, han har rest till Stockholm för att besöka sin sjuka bror, Mr. Vallner is not at home; he has gone to Stockholm to visit his sick brother.

166. SUBJUNCTIVE OF CONCESSION.

Concession is expressed by the subjunctive with må (not mätte). Ex.: Det må så vara, that may be; nu må fienderna komma, now the enemy may come.

NOTE. Note the concessive subjunctive in vare sig du vill eller ej, whether you wish or not; vi skola gå, vare sig han kommer eller ej, we shall go whether he comes or not. The expression vare sig (let it be for itself) has practically become a conjunction meaning whether.

167. THE POTENTIAL SUBJUNCTIVE, or subjunctive of possibility, indicates merely the possibility that an action may occur, without any reference to its probability: kanhända vore det så gott att börja arbetet med detsamma, perhaps it would be well to begin the work immediately; med din hjälp förmodade jag nog göra det, with your help, I should be able to do it, no doubt; det kunde vara sant, it might be true.

NOTE. Absolute possibility is denoted by kan (sometimes må). See Senses of Modals (255, b). Ex.: det kan vara sant, it may possibly be true; a very vivid probability is denoted by mätte: det måtte vara mamma, som kommer; it must be mother who comes.

EXERCISE XIII.

A. 1. Någon knackar på dörren; det måtte¹ vara brev-bäraren, ty han kommer alltid vid denna tid. 2. Jag önskar, att det vore han och att han hade med sig en postanvisning hemifrån, så att jag kunde² betala min inackordering och min skolvavgift. 3. Vore³ man bara rik och ej en fattig studerande! 4. Nej, det är inte brevbäraren, utan ett telegrambud. 5. Måtte⁴ de ej vara sjuka där hemma! 6. Vem skulle⁵ ha trott det! Min bror Robert, som reste till Brasilien för att göra⁶ sin lycka, har kommit tillbaka, och nu önska mina föräldrar, att jag måtte⁴ resa hem på ett par dagar. 7. Ack, om jag bara kände⁷ någon, som ville låna mig hundra kronor, så att jag kunde² resa med detsamma. 8. Vore¹ det ej bättre, att du sände dem ett telegram och både dem om pengar? 9. Jag skulle så gärna vilja låna dig, men jag har tyvärr inga. 10. Här kommer brevbäraren med ett rekommenderat brev. Måtte⁴ det bara innehålla nog pengar, så att jag må² kunna betala mina skulder och resa hem.

¹167, note. ²165, 1. ³164, b, 1. ⁴164, a. ⁵167. ⁶165, 2. ⁷164 b, 2.

B. Conversation. 1. Vem tror ni det är, som knackar på dörren? 2. Varför förmodar (suppose) ni, att det är brevbäraren? 3. Vad önskar ni, att han medförde (brought along)? 4. Varför ville¹ ni gärna ha en postanvisning hemifrån? 5. Vad ville ni hellre vara än en fattig studerande? 6. Vad nyheter (news) innehöll telegrammet? 7. Varför hade er bror rest till Brasilien? 8. Vad ville era föräldrar, att ni skulle göra? 9. Varför kunde ni icke resa med detsamma? 10. Vad tjänst hade er kamrat gjort er, om han hade haft pengar?

¹Impf. subjunctive (like the indicative); vilja gärna, to like.

C. 1. Somebody must be knocking at the door. Would you go and open? 2. I wish it were (164, b, 1) the postman, for I expect a money order or a registered letter from home. 3. Only a common letter! I wish that it might contain¹ money, for I am entirely without (any). 4. If my parents would only send² me some money soon so that I could pay (A, 2) my debts. I owe both for board and tuition. 5. Who would (skulle) have believed that he would return so soon. 6. Father (min far) writes that brother Robert has returned from Brazil in order to celebrate (165, 2) Christmas at home. 7. Mother wishes that I too might come (164, a) home, and they promise that they will send money in a few days (om några dagar).

D. 1. Let us study diligently so that our teacher may praise (165) us. 2. Let us hope that it may not rain³, for we have no umbrellas. 3. The old woman asked me to give her something⁴. 4. I did so and she said, "May God bless the good gentleman." 5. The children eat breakfast very early that they may be in school on time (i tid). 6. Be quiet, children, so that your poor father may sleep (får sova, 165, 1). 7. We wish that he might come (164, a); but whether (166, note) he comes or not, we shall go. 8. If we had only not gone out! But who could believe that he would (skulle) come. 9. Their father required (fordrade) that they come⁵ home early. But he may (må, kan) say what he will, they do not obey. 10. What he says might (167) be true. Would that what he says were (164, b, 2) true.

³Use the impf. subjunctive of inhålla (164, b, 1). ²*Om mina föräldrar bara ville*, etc. ⁴Pres. indic. may be used. ⁵Translate two ways: literally and "asked that I", etc. ⁶After a verb of command Swedish often uses the modal auxiliary skola with the pres. inf. (not to be confused with skola in its use as an auxiliary of the future).

LESSON XIV.

IRREGULARITIES OF VERBS.

168. Some verbs of the second class of the Second Conjugation which are derived from other words by means of the suffix -ja drop j in the imperfect, supine, and past participle in which forms the corresponding hard vowel generally reappears. The most common of these verbs are:

INFINITIVE	PRESENT	IMPERFECT	SUPINE	P. PART.
glädja , to gladden	gläder ¹	gladde	glatt	gladd ²
sälja , to sell	säljer	sålde	sålt	såld
skilja , to separate	skiljer	skilde	skilt	skild
smörja , to grease, oil	smörjer	smorde	smort	smord

välja , to choose, elect	väljer	valde	valt	vald
vänja , to accustom	vänjer	vande	vant	vand

¹Plur. glädja. ²The neuter is glatt, sålt, skilt, etc. (111, 3).

169. Such a change of vowel occurs also in the following very common verbs:

INFINITIVE	PRESENT	IMPERFECT	SUPINE	P. PART.
bringa , to bring	bringar	bragte	bragt	bragt ¹
göra , to do	gör	gjorde	gjort	gjord

sätta , to set, put	sätter	satte	satt	satt
töras , to dare	tör(e)s	tordes	torts

¹The neuter is bragt, lagt, satt, etc., (111, 3). ²Commonly pronounced säja.

170. There are besides a small number of verbs which are entirely irregular. The most important of these are:

INFINITIVE	PRESENT		IMPERFECT	SUPINE	P. PART.
	SG.	PL.
bedja , to ask, pray	beder , ber	bad	bådo	bett	bedd

tiga , to be silent	tiger	teg	tego	tegat
veta , to know	vet	visste	visste	vetat

¹Only in compounds. ²The neuter is sett, bett, fånget (111, 2, 3).

UNREAL CONDITIONS.

171. (a) In a conditional sentence where both the condition and the conclusion are contrary to fact the verbs of both clauses are put in the subjunctive. The imperfect subjunctive is used when the statement refers to the present, the pluperfect when it refers to the past.

Ex. Om han vore här, skulle han ge mig rätt, if he were here, he would agree with me; om han hade varit sparsam, så hade han ej varit fattig, if he had been economical he would not have been poor.

(b) In the conclusion the subjunctive forms with skulle are very often used, this usage corresponding exactly to the English usage of should and would (skulle translates both).

Ex. Jag skulle tro honom, om han sade det, I should believe him, if he said it; jag skulle ha köpt huset, om jag hade haft pengar, I should have bought the house if I had had money.

NOTE 1. If om is omitted, the conditional clause has the inverted order: hade jag pengar, så vore jag glad, if I had money, I should be glad.

2. If the conclusion follows it is frequently introduced by så (translated by then or left untranslated).

3. The compound conjunction som om, as if, very often introduces an unreal or uncertain condition. If om is omitted, the clause must have the inverted order: han talar, som om han skulle vara rik, or, som skulle han vara rik.

EXERCISE XIV.

A. Complete the following by adding a clause expressing condition or conclusion.

1. Hade jag bläck och penna, så ... 2. Om han hade tid, så ... 3. Om jag inte vore så trött, så ... 4. Om hon icke vore förkyld, så... 5. Det skulle vara mycket trevligt, om ... 6. Regnar det i morgon, så ... 7. De hade gärna gått med oss, om ... 8. Jag skulle ha rest till Stockholm, om ...

B. 1. Skulle ni göra en resa till Sverige, om ni hade tillfälle? 2. Det skulle jag visst göra! Om min bror ej hade blivit sjuk så hastigt, hade jag rest för en månad sedan. 3. Om jag visste, att han snart skulle bli bra, så skulle jag lösa biljett nu. 4. Senare blir det svårt att få en, ty båtarna äro så upptagna på sommaren. 5. Vart har Karl gått? Han har gått för att köpa morgontidningen, som du bad om. 6. Jag har en nyhet, som säkert skall glädja dig. Jag såg vår gamle vän Agrell på gatan i morse. 7. Han hade just anlänt med londonångaren och sade, att han skulle hälsa på¹ hos dig i dag, om han finge tid. 8. Han talade, som om han hade gjort goda affärer i England och förtjänt mycket pengar. 9. Vet du om herr Anderson har sålt sin lilla villa vid Djursholm? 10. Ja, han sålde den i går och fick mer, än han hade betalt för den. 11. Om han ej hade sålt den, så skulle jag ha hyrt den för sommaren. 12. Hade Karl önskat det, så hade man säkert valt honom till ordförande i föreningen. 13. Vem valde man i stället? Det² vet jag ej, men Karl sade, att han skulle föreslå herr Lindell.

¹*Hälsa på* with main stress on på signifies to pay a visit, with stress on hälsa it means to greet. ²Notice word order, det tror jag ej; det generally comes first in expressions of this kind.

C. Conversation. 1. Vad skulle ni göra, om ni hade tillfälle? 2. Varför reste ni ej för en månad sedan? 3. Varför skulle det vara fördelaktigt (advantageous) att lösa biljett nu? 4. När äro båtarna mest upptagna? 5. Vad vill du, att Karl skall göra för dig? 6. Var har du lagt tidningen? 7. Vad har vår vän Anderson gjort med sin präktiga (fine) villa vid Djursholm? 8. Bor han ej på landet om somrarna längre? 9. Vad skulle du ha gjort, om han ej hade sålt den? 10. Varför valde man ej Karl till ordförande i klubben? 11. Hade man valt honom, om han hade önskat det?

D. 1. I should like¹ to take a trip (B, 1) to Sweden next summer. 2. If I had money and time I should certainly go with you. 3. Would it not be fine (trevligt), if you could accompany me? 4. You could not choose a better (bättre) occasion. 5. I should do it if I could only sell my house. 6. We should also of course visit Germany and England. 7. I think you would enjoy yourself very much in Stockholm. 8. My wife does not dare to go along; she is afraid of² the passage. 9. I never get (blir) sea-sick; I have grown accustomed³ to (vid) the sea. 10. Have you heard whether Mr. Anderson will go⁴? 11. He would have gone a month ago, if he had gotten a ticket. 12. Why did he not get a ticket? The boats were all full, I think (tror jag). 13. The news, which you brought me about Agrell made me very happy. 14. I thought that he had died long ago. 15. We used to be very good friends and I was sure (säker på) that he would have written me, had he been alive⁵. 16. He has been in England ever (ända) since he left Stockholm, but now it looks as if he intended to stay in Sweden. 17. I am glad to hear that. I wish he would call so that we might have a chat.

¹Skulle gärna or skulle tycka om att. ²To be afraid of—att vara rädd för. ³To grow accustomed—att vänja sig vid; accustomed to, van vid. ⁴English go must often be translated by resa, fara, åka. ⁵Use the pluperfect subjunctive of leva.

LESSON XV.

The Possessive Adjectives and Pronouns.

172. The possessive adjectives and pronouns are:

SINGULAR		PLURAL
MASC. FEM.	NEUTER	ALL GENDERS
min	mitt	mina , my
din	ditt	dina , thy, your
(hans)	(hans)	(hans) , his
(hennes)	(hennes)	(hennes) , her
(dess)	(dess)	(dess) , its (gen. of den , det)
vår	vårt	våra , our
eder (er)	edert (ert)	edra (era) , your
(deras)	(deras)	(deras) , their
sin	sitt	sina , his, her, its, their

173. The genitive of the corresponding personal pronoun is used as a possessive in the third person masculine, feminine, and neuter. These forms are invariable. The other possessives are declined according to the Indefinite Declension of adjectives and agree in gender and number with the noun they modify. Ex.: min son, my son; mitt barn, my child; mina böcker, my books; hennes son, her son; hans böcker, his books.

174. The reflexive possessive sin is used for all numbers and genders of the third person but must be used only when the possessor is the subject of the verb; as, Karl tog sin hatt, Carl took his (own) hat; but, Karl tog hans hatt, would mean that he took somebody else's hat. Gossarna visade sina leksaker, the boys showed their (own) toys; gossarna visade deras leksaker, the boys showed the toys of some other children.

175. The possessives are used also as pronouns; as, här är min bok, din ligger där, here is my book, yours lies there; mina ögon äro blå, era äro bruna, my eyes are blue, yours are brown.

FURTHER REMARKS ON THE POSSESSIVE.

176. The possessives are often combined with the adjective egen, eget, pl. egna, own; as, mina egna ord, my own words.

177. They are never preceded by the article except in such expressions as: de dina, your family, people; de mina, my family, people; de våra, our family or our party.

178. SUBSTITUTE FOR THE POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES. The definite form is often used instead of the possessive adjective, provided there is no ambiguity, particularly when the thing possessed is a part of the body or an article of clothing; as, han har förlorat hatten, he has lost his hat; jag har ont i hjärtat, I have a pain in my heart.

NOTE. The possessor especially in reflexive constructions is often represented by an object pronoun: han bröt av sig benet, he broke his leg; tag av dig hatten, take off your hat; han föll och slog sig i huvudet, he fell and struck his head.

POSITION OF ADVERBS.

179. The position of the adverb in a sentence depends largely on its relation to the verb and also on emphasis. Only a few special rules need be given.

(a) There are in Swedish a number of adverbs which are called movable adverbs. In an independent clause these follow the simple verb and stand between the auxiliary and infinitive or participle in compound tenses. In a dependent clause these adverbs precede the simple verb and the auxiliary of a compound verb. Such movable adverbs are especially the adverbs of negation: ej, icke, inte, not; aldrig, never; certain indefinite temporal adverbs, as, alltid, always; jämt, continually; snart, soon; någonsin, ever; a number of other non-descriptive adverbs like väl, I suppose; nog, possibly, to be sure; tyvärr, unfortunately. Ex.: han är icke sjuk, he is not sick; han säger, att han icke är sjuk, he says he is not sick; hans bror reste snart till Amerika, his brother soon went to America; hans bror, som snart reste till Amerika, his brother, who soon went to America; han kan nog ha rätt, he may possibly be right; jag medger, att han nog kan ha rätt, I admit, that he may possibly be right.

(b) Descriptive adverbs as a rule follow the infinitive or the participle when the verb is a compound. No adverbs except those mentioned above can stand between the verb and the subject: he often used to come is in Swedish, han brukade ofta komma.

EXERCISE XV.

A. Turn the following sentences into dependent clauses by prefixing the parenthesized words, noting the change of position of the adverbs.

1. (Han säger, att ...) Han har aldrig sått vete på sin åker.
2. (Jag tror, att ...) De ämna inte ännu plantera sin potatis.
3. (Lantbrukaren sade, att ...) Man måste först uppluckra jorden med en harv, innan man kan så.
4. (Jag är säker på att ...) Vetet kan aldrig växa utan regn och solsken.
5. (Säger ni, att ...?) Ni skola säkert plantera er potatis och er majs nästa vecka. 6. (Vet ni om ...?) De skola snart så sin havre. 7. (Jag fruktar, att ...) Det dåliga vädret kommer möjligen att förhindra arbetet på fälten.

B. Supply the possessive adjectives and pronouns indicated in the following. 1. Här är ... (our) hus, där är ... (his). 2. Herr Wallin är en av ... (my) vänner. 3. Fönstren till ... (her) rum äro stora. 4. Huru många rum har ... (your) hus? 5. Karl har givit mig ... (his)¹ pengar. 6. Ha barnen fått ... (their)¹ läxor än? 7. Passa ... (your) skor? 8. ... (his) rock passar honom. 9. Jag har funnit ... (my) böcker. 10. Var äro ... (yours, polite). 11. ... (their) faders trädgård är stor, men ... (his) hus är mycket litet. 12. Han tycker om ... (our) matsal, men ej om ... (his own)¹. 13. De ha lagt² ... (my) böcker på ... (their)¹ bord (sing).

¹174. ²Supine of lägga, to lay (169).

C. 1. I morgon om vädret är vackert, skola vi företaga vår utflykt. 2. Mamma skall packa våra korgar i kväll, på det att (så att and subj. or indic.) de må vara färdiga tidigt i morgon. 3. Hennes syster, som är på besök¹ i vårt hem med sin lilla² dotter, skall följa med oss. 4. Vi tycka mycket om deras sällskap och önska, att de måtte stanna länge hos oss. 5. Vi skola stiga upp mycket tidigt och fara med den elektriska spårvagnen till järnvägsstationen. 6. När vi komma dit, går en av oss till biljettkontoret och köper våra järnvägsbiljetter, och sedan stiga vi på tåget. 7. Efter en halv timmes resa stiga vi av och gå till en vacker plats i skogen. Var och en bär sitt paket eller sin korg. 8. Där packa vi upp våra korgar och duka på gräset, medan en av edra systrar kokar kaffet. 9. När vi ätit och druckit, springa vi omkring och leka. 10. Flickorna ploc-ka blommor och pryda med dem sina³ hattar. 11. På kvällen taga vi tåget tillbaka till staden. 12. Mätte det bara ej regna i morgon! 13. Min bror Erik kläder (klär) sig. 14. Han tvättar sig om händerna⁴ och i ansiktet, borstar tänderna samt kammar håret. 15. Sedan tar han på sig rocken, sätter på sig hatten och är färdig att gå ut.

¹Is visiting. ²Plural and definite form of liten. ³Express the possessive idea in a different way (178). ⁴Also, tvättar händerna och ansiktet.

D. Conversation. 1. När göra ni er utflykt? 2. Varför packade er mor edra korgar på kvällen? 3. Vem var på besök hos er? 4. Behagar deras sällskap er? 5. Hur komma ni till stationen? 6. Är det en hästspårvagn eller en elektrisk spårvagn? 7. Varför går ni till biljettkontoret? 8. Hur länge räcker resan? 9. Vad göra ni med korgarna? 10. Vad göra ni efter maten? 11. Varmed pryda flickorna sina hattar?

E. 1. I wish that all our picnics might be as (så) agreeable as (som) ours was yesterday. 2. The weather was not very pleasant when we woke up, but the sun soon¹ began to shine. 3. Mother had packed our baskets in (på) the evening in order that they might be ready early in the morning². 4. Her sister who is on a visit with (hos) us likes to go on (med på) excursions. 5. We took the street car to the station since we had much to carry. 6. When we had bought our tickets we boarded (inverted) the train and rode (for) half an hour (en halv timma). 7. We unpacked our baskets in the woods and set the table in the grass. 8. Who made the coffee? My sister Mary. She makes (kokar) very good coffee. 9. When we had eaten we had a great deal of fun (mycket roligt), we played games and sang. 10. In the evening we returned to the city by train. 11. I wish that you had been with us.

F. 1. Wash³ your hands and brush your teeth, Eric.
 2. Put on your coat and 'hat. Carl, and let us go out.
 3. Where do you have your hat? 4. Does he have his own (176) hat or mine? 5. Take off your (178, note) hat when you come into the room. 6. Eric struck Carl in the head. 7. Carl struck his head while (medan) he was skating.

¹In English adverbs may often precede the simple form of a verb, in Swedish never, except as stated in 179, a. ²*Tidigt på morgonen; sent på kvällen*, late in the evening. ³*Tvätta dig om händerna* (B, 14).

 5. att koka kaffe, to make coffee.

LESSON XVI.

THE PASSIVE.

180. The passive is formed from the active either by adding s to the corresponding form of the active, or by combining the corresponding tense of the auxiliary bliva (sometimes vara and varda) with the perfect participle of the verb.

THE PASSIVE IN -S.

181. This passive is less common in conversation than that formed by means of the auxiliary verb bliva, for which see 188. This -s is a remnant of the reflexive pronoun sig (old form sik) extended by analogy to the first and second persons.

NOTE 1. The r in the present indicative singular endings -ar, -er, -r is always eliminated and quite often the e in the ending -er; as, active jag kallar, passive jag kallas, I am called; active jag griper, passive jag gripes, I am seized; det finnes or det finns, there is found or there is.

2. The pres. ind. pl. (with the exception of the archaic second person in -ens) of the Second and Fourth Conjugations ends in -as (s is added to the corresponding active form) and not in -es, an error to which beginners are liable: människor finnas, there are (are found) men.

3. In the compound forms s is added to the supine or infinitive: han har dödats, he has been killed; rågen skall sås (from så) i morgon, the rye will be sown to-morrow.

182. Examples of the passive of the verbs att kalla, to call; att gripa, to seize; att binda, to bind.

(1) kallas, to be called.

INDICATIVE

SUBJUNCTIVE

PRESENT

Sg. jag kallas , etc.	jag kalles or må kallas , etc.
Pl. vi kallas , etc.	vi kalles or må kallas , etc.

IMPERFECT

Sg. jag kallades , etc.	jag kallades or mätte , skulle kallas , etc.
Pl. vi kallades , etc.	vi kallades or mätte , skulle kallas , etc.

FUTURE

Sg. jag skall kallas
Pl. vi skola kallas

PERFECT

Sg. jag har kallats , etc.	jag må ha kallats , etc.
Pl. vi ha kallats , etc.	vi må ha kallats , etc.

PLUPERFECT

Sg. jag hade kallats , etc.	jag hade kallats or mätte ha kallats , etc.
Pl. vi hade kallats , etc.	vi hade kallats , or mätte ha kallats , etc.

FUTURE PERFECT

Sg. jag skall ha kallats , etc.
Pl. vi skola ha kallats , etc.

INFINITIVES

Present,	att kallas
Perfect,	att ha kallats
Future,	att skola kallas

(2) gripas, to be seized bindas, to be bound

PRINCIPAL PARTS

gripa , grep , grepo , gripit , gripen	binda , band , bundo , bundit , bunden

PRESENT

Sg. *jag gripes, bindesjag gripes, bindes*Pl. vi gripas, bindasvi gripes, bindes

IMPERFECT

Sg. *jag greps, bandsjag grepes, bundes*Pl. vi grepos, bundosvi grepes, bundes

The compound forms are conjugated like kalla; thus, jag må bindas, måtte bindas; vi måtte ha bundits; vi skola bindas; de ha gripits, etc.

NOTE. In verbs with present in -er e is very often eliminated in conversation; thus jag grips, I am seized; jag hörs, I am heard.

REMARKS ON THE PASSIVE.

183. The agent of a passive action is expressed by the preposition av. The agent may be either personal or impersonal. Instrument is usually expressed by med (medelst): han dödades av sin fiende med ett svärd, he was killed by his enemy with a sword.

184. SUBSTITUTE FOR THE PASSIVE. When some personal agent is implied but not expressed, Swedish prefers the indefinite pronoun man, one, they, with the active voice; as, man kallar mig, instead of jag kallas, I am being called; man säger or det säges, it is said.

NOTE. Sometimes a reflexive construction is employed; thus, blyet böjer sig lätt (blyet böjes lätt), lead is easily bent (can easily be bent). This construction generally conveys an idea of possibility.

185. THE APPARENT OR FALSE PASSIVE.

Since English uses the verb to be and the past participle to represent the subject both as undergoing the action of the verb, as in the door is shut

(is being shut), which is a real passive, and also as being in the state or condition resulting from the action, as in the door is shut (has been shut before), which may be called a false passive, great care must be taken to distinguish between the true passive and the apparent or false passive. The latter is expressed in Swedish by vara, to be, and the past participle of the verb, which as any other adjective agrees with the subject in number and gender; as, dörren är stängd, the door is (in the state of being) shut; dörren stänges, or man stänger dörren, the door is being closed.

186. IDIOMATIC MEANINGS OF THE PASSIVE.

(a) The passive in -s has very often a reciprocal meaning. Ex.: de mötas ofta, they meet one another often (literally, they are met often); barnen klappas och kyssas, the children caress and kiss one another (literally, are caressed, etc.).

(b) Sometimes it is used absolutely, denoting habit, characteristics, etc. Ex.: Hästen biter (pronounced with short i), the horse bites (has the habit of biting); pappa, Karl knuffas, papa, Carl is pushing me.

NOTE 1. It is best to avoid using the -s form of a verb which is often used in the reciprocal or even absolute sense when it is not accompanied by an agent or other modifier which obviates the ambiguity; de knuffades can hardly mean anything else than they pushed one another, (reciprocal) or, they pushed (absolute); on the contrary, de knuffades...av honom, or,...åt sidan, they were pushed...by him, or...to the side, have passive force. In the first case we would invariably say, de blevo knuffade. (The teacher should give other examples.)

2. When used in the absolute sense verbs of the Second and Fourth Conjugations take -s, not -es (181, 1); there is also a shortening of the vowel: katten rivs (pronounced with short i), the cat scratches; rives would mean is being torn. The passive in its true as well as its reciprocal use generally takes -es and there is no shortening of the vowel.

187. IMPERSONAL PASSIVE.

The passive voice, especially the form in -s, is often used impersonally. Even intransitive verbs that lack personal passive forms may thus be used: det talas för mycket här, there is too much talking here; det har inte spelats i dag, there has been no playing to-day; här ätes och soves jämt, here they eat and sleep all the time.

NOTE 1. Man with the active would be less stiff in such cases.

2. Note such impersonal passive expressions as, det har berättats mig, I have been told.

EXERCISE XVI.

A. Continue through all persons of the singular and plural.

1. Man tackar mig, man tackar dig, etc. (I am being thanked, etc., pres., impf., and perf.) 2. Man kallar mig, etc. (I am being called, etc., pres., future, and pluperf.).

Turn the following sentences into the passive form.

3. Har han sålt huset¹? 4. Den store författaren von Heidenstam höll ett tal den första maj. 5. Jag har betalt räkningen. 6. Vem skall möta honom vid stationen? 7. En hund bet mig i benet. 8. En poliskonstapel sköt hunden med en revolver. 9. Man arresterade ägaren till hunden (also hundens ägare). 10. Rätten (the court) bötfällde (fined) honom.

Turn into the active with man as subject:

11. Skall huset² säljas? 12. Har han valts till ordförande? 13. Dansades det här i går?

¹The subject in the active becomes the agent in the passive (183). ²The subject becomes object; for construction with man, see 184.

B. 1. Detta är ett vetebröds historia. 2. På hösten plöjer bonden en del av sin åker och sår vetet; detta kallas vintervete. 3. Medan vädret ännu är varmt, gror vetet. 4. Då vintern kommer med köld och snö, slutar vetet att växa. 5. Om den unga brodden ej täcktes med snö, så skulle den frysa bort, men snön skyddar den mot kölden. 6. På våren, när snön har smälts av solstrålarna, börjar vetet att växa, och på sommaren mognar det. 7. Då avmeja bönderna det och köra det till logen, där det tröskas. 8. När vetet har tröskats, köres det till kvarnen, och där males det till mjöl, som sedan av bagaren förvandlas till bröd.

C. 1. Vill du ha en skiva av detta vetebröd till ditt kaffe, Erik? 2. Nej, giv mig hellre en skiva av rågrödet, så är pappa snäll. 3. Det har legat på bordet sedan i går och är torrt. 4. Brödet är ej så gott, som det brukar vara, denna gång har Anna ej lyckats riktigt.

D. Conversation. 1. Vad gör bonden på hösten? 2. Plöjer han hela sin åker? 3. Varför gror vetet på hösten? 4. När mognar vetet? 5. Vad tjänst (service) gör snön det unga vetet? 6. Vid vilken årstid börjar brodden åter att växa? 7. Av vem har vetet avmejats? 8. Vart forslar man vetet? 9. Vad gör man med det där? 10. Till vem skall vetet säljas? 11. Vad gör han med det? 12. Av vilket bröd vill ni ha en skiva?

E. 1. The field has been plowed by the farmer. 2. I do not believe that the wheat has been sowed yet. 3. What is the wheat called that is sowed in the fall? 4. It is called winter wheat and it is regarded as (som) the best (bästa). 5. This wheat sprouts in the fall before (innan) the winter comes. 6. It is protected by the snow, which covers it; otherwise it would¹ be damaged by the frost. 7. It begins to grow again² in the spring and ripens in the summer. 8. The farmer says that the wheat will be cut to-morrow and he hopes that the weather will be (use pres.) fine. 9. The wheat which was threshed yesterday has been hauled to the flour mill to-day. 10. It has been bought by the miller, who will grind it to flour, which he will sell to the baker.

F. 1. Is there any (något) bread in the house? I am so hungry. 2. Yes, there is (här är) a loaf of white bread here, but it is dry. 3. This (detta) bread is excellent. Sister Anne has had good luck with (lyckats med) her bread this (denna) time.

¹Use skulle and invert. ²*Äter* directly after main verb.

NOTE. When the next lesson has been mastered, go back and substitute the passive with bliva wherever it is possible.

(en) köld (no pl.) cold, frost	så , III, to sow, to plant
köra , IIb, to drive, to haul	torr, -t , dry

tröska , I, to thresh	en vår , -ar, spring
(ett) vete , wheat	åter , again
en vinter , -rar, winter	en ägare , —, owner

¹*g* is hard in loge (g, k and sk are always hard before a soft vowel in an unaccented ending.)

LESSON XVII.

PASSIVE WITH AUXILIARIES.

188. The passive voice can also be formed by combining the corresponding tense of the auxiliary verb bliva (bli), to become (also, to remain), with the past participle (not the supine) of the verb, which agrees in number and gender with the subject. Occasionally the verbs varda, to become, and vara, to be, are used as auxiliaries.

189. Passive of the verbs tro, to believe; binda, to bind:

PRESENT

Sg. jag blir trodd, bunden	jag blive trodd, bunden
vi bli(va) trodda,	vi blive trodda, bundna
bundna

IMPERFECT

Sg. jag blev trodd, bund-	jag bleve trodd, bunden
den
Pl. vi blevo trodda,	vi bleve trodda, bundna
bundna

FUTURE

Sg. jag skall bli(va) trodd, bunden
Pl. vi skola bli(va) trodda, bundna

PERFECT

Sg. jag har blivit trodd, bunden	jag må ha blivit trodd, bunden
Pl. vi ha blivit trodda, bundna	vi må ha blivit trodda, bundna

PLUPERFECT

Sg. jag hade blivit trodd, bunden	jag hade blivit trodd, bunden
Pl. vi hade blivit trodda, bundna	vi hade blivit trodda, bundna

FUTURE PERFECT

Sg. jag skall ha blivit trodd, bunden
Pl. vi skola ha blivit trodda, bundna

PRESENT INFINITIVE

att bli(va) trodd, bunden

PERFECT INFINITIVE

att ha blivit trodd, bunden

NOTE. The other subjunctives are formed as shown above; thus, jag må bli(va) trodd, vi skulle ha blivit bundna, etc.

190. OTHER AUXILIARIES OF THE PASSIVE.

(1) Varda (vart, vordo, vorden), which is conjugated with the verb vara instead of hava in the perfect tenses. Ex.: Jag varder kallad, I am called; han vart kallad, he was called; vi äro vordna kallade, we have been called; du skall varda kallad, thou wilt be called. The beginner may disregard this formation of the passive entirely since it is obsolete; the imperfect tense, however, is of comparatively frequent occurrence.

(2) Vara is generally used only in the apparent or false passive (185), that is, to express a condition or state; as, huset är brunnnet, the house is burnt.

Sometimes, however, it comes very near expressing a true passive: han är omtyckt av alla, he is liked by all; jag är plågad av mygg, I am troubled by mosquitoes.

191. Too much stress cannot be laid upon the fact that in the overwhelming majority of cases passive action is not expressed in Swedish by vara. to be, and the past participle as in English, but by bliva and the past participle, or by the passive in -s (note also construction with man, 184); thus, the house was built in a month, is not huset var byggt på en månad, but huset byggdes, or huset blev byggt (also, man byggde huset).

NOTE. But since vara plus the past participle indicates a state or condition regarded as complete and permanent, and as resulting from the action of the verb (185) its present plus the past participle is often used as an equivalent for the English perfect passive and its imperfect plus the past participle as an equivalent for the English pluperfect passive. As: brevet är skrivet, the letter has been written; posten var redan utburen, the mail had already been distributed.

FURTHER REMARKS ON THE PASSIVE.

192. The passive in -s is preferred to the passive with bliva in expressions denoting a common rule, a general fact, an injunction or direction; as, sådana brott straffas med fängelse, such crimes are punished with imprisonment; flaskan förvaras på is, the bottle should be kept on ice; de här skorna skolas, these shoes are to be repaired; jag kallas Johan, I am called John; but jag blir kallad feg, om jag ej gör det, I shall be called a coward if I do not do this; on the contrary, han kallas feg av var man, he is called a coward by everybody.

NOTE. The passive with bliva is more common in conversation than the -s form. These two passives are often interchangeable; sometimes, however, they express different shades of meaning. For instance, when no agent is mentioned, the passive with bliva seems to imply a definite agent, while the -s form very often imparts a sense of indefiniteness: floden fylldes seems to point to a slow natural process, whereas floden blev fylld would imply action on the part of some definite agent. If the agent is expressed, both forms may be used without any difference in meaning.

193. The present of bliva has generally a future sense; this is also the case in the passive: frukten blir skadad av frosten, the fruit will be damaged by the frost. To express the present, use either the present of the passive in -s, or man with the active, or make the agent the subject.

Deponent Verbs.

194. Many verbs have only the passive -s form. These deponent verbs are active in meaning; many are even transitive. They are conjugated like the passive of other verbs except that some have imperative forms, which are wanting in the passive. Some have a present participle in -s, others one without. Most deponent verbs lack this form.

Ex.: latas (from lat, lazy), to be lazy; vredgas (from vred, angry), to be (grow) angry; våras (from vår, spring), to turn spring; brottas, to wrestle; andas, to breathe; lyckas, to succeed; minnas, to remember.

EXERCISE XVII.

A. Conjugate the following both as indicated and with the -s form of the passive.

1. Jag har blivit berömd av min lärare; du har blivit berömd av din lärare, etc. 2. Jag skall icke bli klandrad av min fader, etc. 3. Jag kom ej; ty jag hade ej blivit kallad; du kom ej, ty du, etc. 4. Jag skulle ha blivit klandrad, om jag ej hade hjälpt honom; du skulle ha blivit klandrad, om du ej hade hjälpt honom, etc. 5. Om jag hade blivit agad mera, när jag var liten, så hade jag blivit en bättre människa; om du, etc. — Use also the active with man, leaving out "av min lärare" and "av min fader."

B. 1. Är¹ hela huset förstört? Ja, allt är¹ uppbränt. Utom några gamla möbler har intet blivit² räddat. 2. Vet man hur elden uppstod? Icke säkert, men man tror, att den har blivit² anlagd. 3. Kan herrn säga mig, om museet är¹ stängt hela söndagen? Nej, det är det inte, men det öppnas³ ej förrän på eftermiddagen. 4. Vill du taga de här⁴ skorna till skomakaren, Karl, det här paret skall halvsulas⁵, och på det här skola klackarna lagas⁵. 5. Du ser så trött ut. Har du ej sovit gott? Nej, jag har plågats av en så svår tandvärk hela natten. 6. Jag brukade också plågas av tandvärk, men nu ha alla mina ihåliga tänder blifvit plomberade⁵. 7. Herr Lind dödades vid järnvägsolyckan, som skedde i går. 8. Jag skulle ha tagit samma tåg, men man rådde mig att ej resa. 9. Här äro vi hos urmakaren, han har blivit rekommenderad² till mig av en vän, och jag hoppas, att han lyckas laga min klocka. 10. Vad är fatt med den? Den har stannat. Jag tror att fjädern är¹ avbruten, dessutom behöver verket nog att rengöras. 11. Nu har den blivit rengjord, uppdragen och justerad; den saktar sig⁶ ej mer. 12. I dag blev jag väckt av min vän Berggren, innan det dagades. 13. Vi rodde ut på sjön, fiskarna nappade bra, och innan klockan sju voro tjugu stora abborrar upptagna¹.

¹See 190, 2, and 185. ²-s form can be used. ³192. ⁴*De här*, these; de där, those. ⁵192, note. ⁶*En klocka fortar sig* or saktar sig, gains or loses time.

C. I have heard that Mr. Anderson's house has been destroyed by fire. Has nothing been saved? 2. I do not believe that they succeeded in saving anything except some old pieces of furniture. 3. I have seen in the paper that Mr. Lind was killed in the railroad accident which happened yesterday. 4. I knew him well, but I was never introduced to him. 5. Just think (tänk bara), I should have taken the same train if I had not been advised by a friend not to go. 6. Now I shall not be troubled² by toothache any longer, for my hollow tooth has been filled³. 7. Where does the shoemaker live? I have a pair of shoes that need to be repaired². 8. These shoes are to be half-soled². 9. My watch, which had stopped, has been repaired³ by the watchmaker. 10. It has been cleaned and regulated³ and I hope that it will keep good time⁴ now. Mr. Halldin is an excellent watchmaker; he was recommended³ to me by a friend. He is a man who deserves to be recommended².

LESSON XVIII.

Demonstrative Pronouns.

195. The demonstrative pronouns are: den, det, this, that; denne(a), detta, this; densamme(a), det-samma, the same. They are declined as follows:

SINGULAR		PLURAL
MASC. & FEM.	GENDER FORM	NEUTER	ALL GENDERS
Nom. den	den	det	de
Gen. dens	dess	dess	deras
Obj. den	den	det	dem

SINGULAR		PLURAL
MASC.	FEM. & GENDER F.	NEUTER	ALL GENDERS
N. denne(a)	denna	detta	dessä
G. dennes	dennas	dettas	dessas
N. densamme(a)	densamma	detsamma	desamma
G. densammes	densammas	detsammas	desammas

NOTE. Dens refers only to persons, dess only to things, except occasionally in poetry. Det is pronounced dä or de in conversation.

196. These are used also as adjectives, but have then no genitive. There is besides a demonstrative adjective samme, same, which is used more frequently than densamme and inflects as follows:

SINGULAR			PLURAL
MASC.	FEM. & GEND. F.	NEUTER	ALL GENDERS
samme(a)	samma	samma	samma

197. The following adjectives partake of the nature of demonstratives and may also be used as pronouns in the plural and in the neuter singular: sådan, sådant, sådana, such; likadan, -t, -a, like, alike; dylik, -t, -a, such, similar. Ex.: en sådan gosse, such a boy; dylikt har jag aldrig sett förr, I have never seen such a thing (or things) before.

198. Den här, this, and den där, that, used originally only in conversation, are rapidly finding their way into the written language. They are declined as follows:

SINGULAR		PLURAL
MASC. FEM. GENDER FORM	NEUTER	ALL GENDERS
Nom. and Obj.:
den här, där	det här, där	de här, där
(Genitive lacking.)

Ex. Den här hästen är vacker, den vill jag köpa, this horse is fine, I wish to buy it; det där huset tillhör visst herr Carlén, I think that house belongs to Mr. Carlén; de där rosorna äro härliga, those roses are beautiful. (After den här and den där, the noun takes the definite form.)

199. The former and the latter are expressed by den förre(a) (neut. det förre, pl. de förre) and den

senare (neut. det senare, pl. de senare) : Anna och Emma äro systrar; den förra är ljus, den senare mörk, Anna and Emma are sisters; the former is a blonde, the latter a brunette.

NOTE. When used substantively, these expressions take an -s in the genitive: den förras (Annas) lynne är glättigare än den senares, the disposition of the former is merrier than that of the latter.

200. REMARKS ON THE DEMONSTRATIVES.

(a) The forms in -e must be used when the demonstrative is used as a pronoun and refers to persons of masculine gender; they are generally preferred, at least in the written language, when the demonstrative is used adjectively before a noun denoting a person of masculine gender: denne är min bror, this one is my brother; det är samme man jag såg i går, it is the same man I saw yesterday.

(b) After samme a following adjective has always the definite form but a following noun generally the indefinite; after denne the adjective is always definite and the noun generally indefinite in the written language but very often definite in the spoken: jag har sett samme(a) lille(a) gosse förr, I have seen the same little boy before; denna ståtliga kyrka är den nya Vasakyrkan, this stately church is the new Vasa church.

(c) Sådan is regularly preceded by the indefinite article: en sådan man.

NOTE. In exclamations, however, the order may be reversed in case of sådan and its equivalents sicken, slik, and tocken; thus, sådant ett elände! oh, such misery! Sicken en stackare! Such a miserable creature! (Never en sicken stackare!)

(d) The demonstrative pronouns den, det, and denna, detta, referring to things in a general way, and depending upon a preposition, are sometimes translated by där (sometimes här), with the preposition added: därmed, with that, or those; härmed, with this, or these; jag har talat med honom därom, I have talked with him about that thing, or those things; jag litar därpå, I rely on that.

201. SOME USES OF THE DEMONSTRATIVES.

For they, this, that, these, those, when used as subjects and referring to a predicate noun, Swedish uses the neuter singular det, detta, det här, det där, irrespective of the gender and number of the following noun, if the demonstrative idea is not very emphatic or if one person or thing is not contrasted with another; as, detta är min bror, this is my brother; detta är vackra blommor, these are beautiful flowers; but denne är min bror, this one is my brother; de här äro vackra blommor, de där fula, these are beautiful flowers, those are homely ones.

202. Den is often used as antecedent to a restrictive relative (he who); as, den, som sagt detta, talar icke sanning, he who said this does not speak the truth (222, d).

NOTE. De is often used indefinitely; de därhemma, the people at home.

203. Idiomatic expressions with demonstratives: En sådan dumbom han är! (or, sådan en dumbom, etc.) What a stupid fellow he is! Det gör detsamma, it does not matter; med detsamma, immediately.

EXERCISE XVIII.

A. Fill out the blanks as suggested.

1. Smek ej ... (that)¹ katten, Anna, ... (it) rivs (186, b). 2. ... (it) är visst ... (the same) katt², som rev ... (me) i går. 3. Är ... (this)³ ... (your) gosse, fru Anderson? Ja, och ... (detta or dess)³ är ... (my) flickor. 4. Vilka äro ... (yours)? ... (those)¹ i parken. 5. Äro ej Maria och Elisabet ganska lika? Nej, det är ... (such, 200, c) skillnad på dem, att man ej kan se, att de äro systrar. 6. ... (the former) är ljus, ... (the latter) mörk. 7. Är ... (this)³ ... (your, familiar) ring? Ja, ... (it) är ... (mine). 8. Av vem har du fått ... (this) vackra ring—² (def. or indef.?)? Jag har fått den av min far till julklapp. 9. ... (it) är så ovanlig; jag tror ej, att jag någonsin sett en precis likadan. 10. Jag blev så glad, när jag fick ... (it), jag hade länge önskat mig ... (a similar one, 197). 11. Är ... (this, 200, a) Smith, som du talar om, ... (the same) person², som vi lärde känna på ... (that)¹ resa— (def. or indef.?) till Stockholm för ett par år sedan? Ja, han är ... (the same one, 200, a). 12. ... (He who, 202) talade var ... (the same) gamle herre² (use man), som vi träffade i går kväll på bjudningen hos Linds. 13. Vad sade han ... (about that, 200, d)? Han sade, att han var glad ... (because of it, translate, over it).

¹198. ²200, b. ³201.

B. 1. This¹ is a beautiful flower; where did you find it? I found it in that² little flower bed. 2. Please take a seat³. That chair² is not comfortable; take this one². 3. I believe I shall take that one² by (vid) the window, thank you (tack så mycket, first). 4. Doesn't that² little girl take after her mother? Yes, she has the same eyes⁴, the same mouth⁴, and the same voice⁴. 5. Have you ever seen such a (200, c) sturdy old man? 6. He is almost eighty years old, but it does not matter (203); he does the same heavy work as he used to do. 7. Let us take a walk; such a fine autumn day as (som) this is rare. 8. I must work till six o'clock; after that (sedan) I can take a walk. 9. Which (vilken) Mr. Smith do you mean? The one who (202) lives on King's Street. 10. That is the same Mr. Smith whom I used to know. He was such a good man. 11. Are these¹ your sisters? Yes, and those are my brothers. 12. You have such a beautiful ring, Anna; where (var...ifrån?) did you get it? 13. Yes, it is very pretty. I got it as a Christmas present from my brother. 14. I wish I had one like it (197). 15. In that (200, d) you are right, Carl, but please do not talk any more about it. 16. Our teacher was angry with (ond på) us yesterday. 17. He told us that he had never seen such compositions before. 18. Those who (202) had more than ten errors had to rewrite theirs.

¹201. ²198. ³Either var så god och sitt ner, or var så god och sätt er (also.... tag plats). ⁴200, b.

LESSON XIX.

COMPOUND VERBS.

204. There are two kinds of verb compounds in Swedish: inseparable and separable.

INSEPARABLE VERB COMPOUNDS.

205. The following prefixes always form inseparable verb compounds; that is, compounds of which the component parts are never separated: be-, bi-, ent-, er-, för-, gen-, här-, miss-, sam-, um-, und-, van-, veder-, å-.

206. Noun Prefixes. Verb compounds of which the first member is a noun are generally inseparable; as, kors'fästa, to crucify; impf. korsfäste; supine, korsfäst; past part., korsfäst; land'sätta, to put ashore; landsatte, landsatt, landsatt; hals'hugga, to behead; halshögg, halshuggit, halshuggen.

NOTE. If the noun is compounded with a preposition, this compound prefix may be separated from the verb. Thus: landsätta, to put ashore, satte i land, etc.; ådagalägga, to manifest, lade ådaga; lagt ådaga; ådagalagd; the present and past participles of such verb compounds are always inseparable when used as attributive adjectives: den landsatte passageraren, the landed passenger; when equivalent to a clause or when used in the predicate, they are sometimes separable: satta i land vid kajen, skyndade vi till tullhuset, landed at the pier, we hurried to the custom-house; vi ha blivit satta i land, we have been landed.

SEPARABLE VERB COMPOUNDS.

207. Adjective Prefixes. Adjectives used as prefixes generally form separable verb compounds: fri'köpa or köpa fri', to ransom; friköpte or köpte fri, friköpt or köpt fri; but frikalla, to acquit, not kalla fri; frikallad, frikallat. For the present and past participle see 206, note.

NOTE. If the adjective is separated it agrees with the object in gender and number; as, han vitmålade huset, he painted the house white; but han målade huset vitt. It is best for beginners to regard the adjective prefixes as inseparable.

208. Adverb and preposition prefixes. Adverbs and prepositions used as prefixes form both separable and inseparable verb compounds. Separable verb compounds of this class often change their meaning when the adverb or preposition follows the verb.

(1) Separable, with no difference of meaning: utelåsa or låsa ut, to lock out; fö'regå or gå fö're to precede; genomläsa or läsa genom, to read through; från'taga or taga från', to take from or deprive of; av'hugga or hugga av', to cut off, etc.

(2) With difference of meaning: the sense is literal when the parts of the verb compound are separated; figurative when not separated: av'gå, to resign; graduate; gå av', to break; an'lägga, to establish, organize; lägga an', to aim; fram'hålla, to point out; hålla fram', to stretch forth; un'derhålla, to entertain; hålla un'der, to hold beneath; fram'gå, to appear, become evident; gå fram', to go forth.

209. Compound verbs are conjugated exactly like corresponding simple verbs.

210. If the separable affix is an adjective or phrase (206, 207) the object is placed between the verb and the affix; if an adverb or a preposition, often after; as, man satte honom i land, they landed him; but han högg av handen, he cut off his hand.

211. The stress accent falls always on the prefix, if a phrase, on the noun, except in the case of be-, ent-, för- [see 36 (a)], which never take the accent. The musical accent is grave.

NOTE. Care should be taken not to confuse för-, the inseparable prefix, and före-, the separable prefix. The latter takes the accent and imparts an entirely different meaning to the verb. Thus: fördra'ga, to endure; fö'redraga, to prefer, present; förstå', to understand; fö'restå, to manage; to impend.

212. When the affix is separated and happens to stand before a noun, care must be taken not to confuse it with a preposition introducing a phrase; the affix is always accented, the preposition rarely. Ex.: han bröt' av brödet och åt, he broke a piece off the bread and ate, but han bröt av' brödet, he broke the bread in two.

213. Synopsis of the verbs av'bryta, to interrupt, and stänga in'ne, to shut in.

ACTIVE

Pres.	jag av'bryter	jag stänger in'ne
Impf.	jag avbröt	jag stängde inne
Future	jag skall avbryta	jag skall stänga inne

Perf.	jag har avbrutit	jag har stängt inne
Plupf.	jag hade avbrutit	jag hade stängt inne
Fut. P.	jag skall ha avbrutit	jag skall ha stängt inne

PASSIVE

Pres.	jag avbrytes, or blir avbruten	jag stänges inne, or blir innestängd
Impf.	jag avbröts, or blev avbruten	jag stängdes inne, or blev innestängd
Future	jag skall avbrytas, or skall bli(va) avbruten	jag skall stängas inne, or skall bli innestängd
Perf.	jag har avbrutits, or har blivit avbruten	jag har stängts inne, or har blivit innestängd
Plupf.	jag hade avbrutits, or hade blivit avbruten	jag hade innestängts. or hade blivit innestängd
Fut. P.	jag skall ha avbrutits, or skall ha blivit avbruten	jag skall ha innestängts, or skall ha blivit innestängd

EXERCISE XIX.

A. Translate. 1. He has interrupted me. 2. I had broken off a piece. 3. Hold the glass beneath the water. 4. You must entertain your friends. 5. Which do you prefer, to stay here or to go with us? 6. He will comply with my request. 7. He will come after. 8. They (man) have landed the passengers. 9. The landed passengers wished to view the city. 10. I can't endure that man. 11. Had you recognized (two ways) him? 12. He was (blev) recognized. 13. They ransomed him. 14. The ransomed one thanked his friends.—Put the verbs in different tenses.

B. Nikolaus den förste av Ryssland önskade att iakttaga sitt folks liv. För att kunna (165, 2) göra detta brukade han företaga långa spatserturer förklädd i en vanlig officerskappa, så att man ej skulle (165) igenkänna honom. En gång hade han gått ut till en liten förstad. När han skulle återvända, varseblev han (blev han varse), att han ej hittade. Nu återstod för honom endast att anförtro sig åt en droska. Han ropade på en, steg in och befallde kuskens att köra honom till slottet. Då de hade anlant dit, steg tsaren ut. Då han skulle betala, blev han varse, att han givit ut alla sina pengar. "Var god och vänta", sade han till kuskens och ämnade gå in, "jag skall skicka ut pengarna genast." "Nej, lille far", avbröt kuskens honom, "så ha officererna redan ett par gånger bedragit mig, de ha underlåtit att skicka ut pengarna. Kvarlämna din kappa som (as) pant; om du skickar ut pengarna, så skickar jag in den." Kejsaren efterkom kuskens begäran och gav honom sin kappa som pant.

C. Conversation. 1. Varför företog kejsaren av Ryssland långa spatserturer? 2. Varför kände man ej igen honom? 3. Vart begav han sig en gång? 4. Vad varseblev han, när han skulle återvända? 5. Vad gjorde han? 6. Vad befallde han kuskens? 7. Varför kunde han ej betala kuskens genast? 8. Hur ville han uppgöra saken (settle the matter)? 9. Av vilka (whom) hade kuskens förut blivit bedragen? 10. Varför ville han, att kejsaren skulle kvarlämna kappan? 11. Efterkom kejsaren hans begäran?

D. 1. We must disguise ourselves¹ if we do not wish to be recognized². 2. Have you observed the conduct of this man? 3. Yes, I have, and I do not understand how people can entrust money to³ him; he spends⁴ too much for amusements. 4. Now we have arrived at (till) the palace. Please⁵ step out of the carriage. 5. Get into the carriage. I shall order the cabman to drive to the theater. 6. I did not know that I had lost my money; I became aware (of) it when I was going (skulle) to pay for the ride (åktur). 7. How did you settle the matter (C, 8)? I settled it in this way, that I asked the cabman to wait and said that I should send out the money. 8. Did he comply with your request? In a way (på sätt och vis), but he asked for (bad om) my watch as security and said he would return it when he got the money. 9. The man had a good reason for this request, he had been cheated so often in the same way (på samma sätt). 10. He interrupted me while I was speaking and asked for the money which he had entrusted to me.

¹Förkläda oss, reflex. verb. ²Use passive with bliva, also construction with man; passive with -s would hardly ever be used in such a case. ³An indirect object is often preceded by åt or till, which are not always interchangeable: säga åt or till, but skriva till. ⁴The separable forms are, as a rule, used more than the inseparable, at least in the simple tenses: han ger (giver) ut. ⁵Var så god och stig ur, or, stig ur, är ni snäll.

VOCABULARY.

N. B. The past participle is practically always inseparable, even when the verb is separable. The supine of a separable verb is separable. The teacher should point out the difference in meaning of the two kinds of verbs, if any.

	vända å'ter (unusual)

IDIOM: att varsebliva en sak, to become aware of a thing.

LESSON XX.

The Interrogative Pronouns and Adjectives.

214. The interrogative pronouns are: vem, who; vad, what; vilken, which, who; vilkendera, which one; vad för en, what kind of, what.

DECLENSION.

SINGULAR

MASC. & FEM.	NEUTER	MASC., FEM. & GENDER F.	NEUTER	MASC., FEM. & GENDER F.	NEUTER
vem	vad	vilken	vilket	vilkendera	vilketdera
vems	—	vilkens	vilkets	vilkenderas	vilketderas

PLURAL

Nom. *vilka*Gen. vilkas

Vad för en has a neuter vad för ett and a plural vad för ena, but no genitive.

215. The interrogative adjectives are: vad, vilken, vilkendera, vad för en, and hurudan, of what nature, how. Their declension is identical with that of the interrogative pronouns but they lack the genitive case: hurudan has the neuter form hurudant and the plural hurudana.

216. REMARKS ON THE INTERROGATIVES.

(a) Vem refers only to persons and is never used as an adjective. Ex.: Med vem talade du? (or vem talade du med?) With whom did you speak? Vems bok är detta? Whose book is this?

NOTE. When vem is subject in an indirect question it is followed by som: vet du vem som var här? do you know who was here?

(b) Vad is used both as a pronoun and as an adjective; when used pronominally it is always neuter; adjectively it may be used for all genders like the English what. This use being rather restricted, the student should use vilken and vad för en: Vad talar han om? What is he talking about? Vad rätt har du att göra detta? What right have you to do this?

NOTE. When what is subject in an indirect question it is often represented by vad som in Swedish: jag vet ej vad som är bäst, I do not know what is best; but jag vet ej, vad (object) han har sagt.

(c) Vad för en is used both as a pronoun and as an adjective, the latter use prevailing. As an adjective it drops ena in the plural. Ex.: Vad för blommor har du där? What kind of flowers have you there? Sometimes it has the meaning of vilken: vad för en konung hade Sverige då? What king did Sweden have then?

NOTE. För may be separated from vad: vad är det för en blomma? What kind of (a) flower is that?

(d) Vilken and vilkendera are used both as adjectives and as pronouns; hurudan (hurdan) only as an adjective. Ex.: Vilken har varit här? Who has been here? Vilket hus har du hyrt? Which house have you rented? Vilkendera önskar du? Which one (of several objects) do you wish? Vilketdera huset är hans? Which house (of these houses) is his? Hurudant är vädret? How is the weather (of what nature)?

217. If the interrogative pronoun is governed by a preposition this may as in English either precede or stand at the end of the clause: med vem talade du? or vem talade du med? with whom did you speak?

218. With prepositions, vad may in certain cases be replaced by prepositional compounds with var, where: varav, varmed, vartill, etc.: varmed har man belönat honom? With what have they rewarded him? Varav lever han? What does he live on?

Relative Pronouns and Adjectives.

219. The relative pronouns are som, vilken, vad, den, and the genitive form vars.

220. For inflection of vilken and vad see 214, and for inflection of den see 195.

221. The relative adjective is vilken.

222. REMARKS ON THE RELATIVES.

(a) Som is by far the most common of the relative pronouns; it is indeclinable and is used for all genders and all cases with the exception of the genitive, which is supplied by vars and vilkens (vilkets, vilkas). Ex.: min vän, som är här på besök, skall resa i morgon, my friend who is here on a visit will leave to-morrow; mannen, vars barn äro sjuka, är mycket fattig, the man whose children are sick is very poor.

(b) Vilken when used as a pronoun often employs the genitive form vdrs instead of vilkens. It is not used very often in conversation except when the antecedent is a clause (when it is indispensable) or when a preposition must stand before the relative. Ex.: han har blivit vald, vilket förvånar mig, he has been elected, which fact surprises me (here som would be incorrect); fyra gossar, av vilka en var min kusin, drunknade i går, four boys of whom one was my cousin were drowned yesterday.

(c) Vad is used as a compound neuter relative including its antecedent, also after the indefinite pronoun allt. It has no plural. Ex.: vad han säger, är sant, what he says is true; det är allt, vad jag har sett, that is all I have seen (som may be used).

NOTE. When vad is the subject of the sentence or clause it is generally combined with som; thus, vi skola säga vad som är rätt, we ought to say what is right.

(d) Den is used as a definite relative only in the objective case; as such it is of comparatively rare occurrence. In the nominative together with som it corresponds to he who, the one who (which), who— ever. In solemn style it is sometimes combined with där, den där, he who, whoever. Ex.: dessa äro de regler, dem (more common som) ni måste följa, these are the rules which you must follow; den som säger detta, är dum, whoever says this is stupid; den där vet det rätta, han göre det rätt är, he that knows the right, let him do right.

223. The prepositions which govern the relatives are generally placed at the end of the clause; when used with som, always. Ex.: damerna, som du talar om, känner jag, I know the ladies that you speak about; huset, vilket (i vilket) han bor i, är gammalt, the house in which he lives is old.

224. In Swedish as in English the relative is often omitted when objective. Ex.: Vem var det, du mötte i går? Who was it you met yesterday?

225. When the relative is governed by a preposition and refers to things, a compound of the relative adverb var, where, and the preposition may be used; as, bordet, varpå boken ligger, or bordet, som boken ligger på, är mitt, the table which the book lies on is mine; huset, som han bor i, or vari han bor, är hans fars, the house which he lives in is his father's.

EXERCISE XX.

A. Translate orally. 1. Who goes there? 2. Who is he? 3. What do you have in your (178) hand? 4. Of whom¹ are you speaking? 5. Of what are you speaking? 6. What book do you mean? 7. What² new house is that? 8. Do you know at (vid) what time the train leaves (går)? 9. What sort of a man is he? 10. Do you understand what he says? 11. I do not know what is best (bäst). 12.

Which drama of Strindberg do you like best? 13. In what (218) does the difference consist? 14. Do you know what kind of teacher he is? 15. How is the weather?

¹Translate in two ways: preposition before and at the end of the clause.

²Transl.: what kind of a new house is that? or which is that new house? ³To like best, tycka bäst om.

B. Translate orally. 1. He is a man who knows everything. 2. That is the lady who has the pretty daughters. 3. That is not the man I mean. 4. He who (222, d) is rich is not always happy. 5. That is all¹ I know about the matter. 6. Whoever (222, d) does such a thing (något sådant) is not a good man. 7. The man whom (224) I spoke about is a professor at (vid) the University of Uppsala². 8. The house in which (225) he lives is his father's. 9. There is³ no poet whose life is so interesting.

¹Relative may be omitted; see 222, c. ²Uppsala universitet. ³There is, there are, in a general sense must be rendered by det finnes (finns), in a limited sense by det är.

C. En apotekare, som¹ hade råkat i tvist med en officer, blev av denne utmanad till duell. Den sak, om vilken de voro oense, var en obetydlighet, och apotekaren, som var en förståndig man, önskade att förhindra duellen. Tidigt på morgonen av den dag, på vilken duellen skulle utkämpas, gjorde apotekaren ett besök i officerens bostad och sade helt lugnt till denne: "Emedan jag är den, som har blivit utmanad, så² tillkommer det mig att välja vapnen. Här äro två piller, av vilka det ena³ är förgiftat, det andra däremot oskadligt. Var så god och välj det ena och svälj det; jag sväljer det, som återstår, och en av oss måste dö." Officieren, som blev mycket överraskad av apotekarens förslag, vars ändamål naturligtvis var att förhindra duellen, kastade ut pillerna genom fönstret och försonade sig med honom.

¹Note the frequent use of som. ²Note the frequent use of så to introduce the principal clause when it follows the dependent. ³*det ena.... det andra*, one... the other.

C. Conversation. 1. Med vem hade apotekaren råkat i tvist? 2. Vartill blev han utmanad av officeren? 3. När gick apotekaren till officeren? 4. Varför hade apotekaren beslutat förhindra duellen? 5. Vad tillkom honom och varför? 6. Vad för vapen föreslog (proposed) apotekaren? 7. Visste apotekaren, vilketdera pillret var förgiftat? 8. Vad skulle hans motståndare (opponent) göra med det piller, han valde? 9. Vad var ändamålet med detta förslag? 10. Vad gjorde officeren med pillerna? 11. Uppnådde (attained) apotekaren sitt ändamål?

D. 1. Do you know what kind of a man the druggist is with whom the officer got into a quarrel? 2. Yes, I know him well (väl). He is a man whose friendship I esteem very highly. 3. I do not know what¹ the quarrel consisted in¹, but according to what I have heard it was about a trifling matter. 4. The druggist, who was a very sensible man, wished to prevent the duel. 5. By what means (transl.: through what) did he succeed in preventing it? 6. He went to the house of the man who had challenged him and had a talk with him. 7. He reminded him of an old custom according to which it is the right of him (C, 5) who has been challenged to choose the weapons. 8. When the officer asked him what kind of weapons he would choose he held out a couple of pills. 9. Of these there was one which was poisoned²; the other was harmless. 10. The druggist asked the officer which one of the two he would (ville) take and swallow. 11. He himself would (skulle) swallow the one that (222, d) remained. 12. The proposition which the druggist made surprised the officer and he threw the pills out through the window. 13. The druggist, whose (222, a) purpose it was to prevent the duel, succeeded in this (200, d).

¹Translate in two ways (218). ²True or apparent passive?

3. Det tillkommer mig, I have a right to it, or it is my privilege.

LESSON XXI.

PRESENT PARTICIPLE.

226. The present participle is formed by adding -ande to the stem of the verb if the infinitive ends in -a, otherwise -ende. Ex.: kallande, from kalla, to call; leende, from le, to smile; syende, from sy, to sew.

NOTE 1. The present participle is indeclinable, but if used as a noun, it takes -s in the genitive: en döendes ånger, the repentance of a dying person.

2. Deponent verbs form their present participle either with or without the -s; as, minnandes, remembering; åldrande, aging, from minnas and åldras, many lack a present participle.

227. The present participle is used:

(1) as an adjective: ett sovande barn, a sleeping child;

(2) as an adverb: han talte flytande, he spoke fluently;

(3) as an adverbial predicative: hon gick tiggande från hus till hus, she went begging from house to house.

NOTE. The conversational language often prefers a finite verb to the present participle used as an adverbial predicative. Ex.: hon gick från hus till hus och tiggde, instead of hon gick tiggande, etc.

228. The present participle is not used in Swedish to form a progressive tense as in English. When the idea of continued action is especially prominent, it is expressed by means of the verb hålla på', to keep on, continue, and the infinitive preceded by att: han höll på att skriva, då jag kom in, he was writing when I entered. Sometimes the preposition med, with, is inserted before the infinitive: han höll på med att läsa.

NOTE. Sitta, to sit; gå, go; stå, stand; ligga, lie, and similar verbs are used with a finite form of some other verb to express progression: jag sitter och skrifver, I am writing; ligga och lata sig, lounging about, idling; stå och hänga, hanging around (idly). Note the following use of hålla på: jag höll på att falla, I came near falling.

229. The English present participle very often must be rendered by a subordinate clause either temporal, causal, or relative, according to the sense: the boy, hearing us come, ran away, gossen sprang sin väg, när han hörde oss komma; being sick he had to go home, emedan han var sjuk, måste han gå hem.

230. The English verbal in -ing is often equivalent to the infinitive: running is a useful exercise, att springa är en nyttig övning; he went away without seeing me, han gick bort utan att se mig.

NOTE. When the verbal is modified by a possessive adjective, Swedish uses a noun clause with att instead of att with the infinitive: He came without my seeing him, han kom utan att jag såg honom; their having come home was a surprise, att de hade kommit hem var en öfverraskning.

231. Nouns in -ning and -ande (added to the verbal stem) correspond to the English verbals and abstract nouns in -ing. Ex.: allt detta talande är onödigt, all this talking is unnecessary; mycken skrivning är tröttande, much writing is tiresome.

232. After the verbs höra and se Swedish uses the infinitive, never the present participle, as in English: jag såg honom komma, I saw him coming.

PAST PARTICIPLE.

233. The past participle is formed in five different ways according to the class or conjugation to which the verb belongs.

234. In the First Conjugation the ending is -ad.
In the Second Conjugation, Class I, the ending is -t.

In the Second Conjugation, Class II, the ending is -d.

In the Third Conjugation the ending is -dd.

In the Fourth Conjugation the ending is -en (-n, -et).

235. These endings are added to the stem of the verb. In the Fourth Conjugation there may or may not be a change of vowel; thus, kallad, böjd, köpt, sydd, skriven, funnen.

NOTE 1. Deponent verbs as a rule lack the past participle, so do many intransitive verbs.

2. It may be of assistance for the beginner to notice that the past participle of weak verbs may be found by dropping the e of the imperfect.

236. The past participle is used as an adjective and agrees in number and gender with the noun or pronoun which it modifies or of which it is a complement. It is declined in accordance with the rules governing the declension of adjectives.

237. STRONG DECLENSION.

	SINGULAR		PLURAL
	GENDER FORM	NEUTER	ALL GENDERS
I.	älskad	älskat	älskade
II. Class I.	köpt	köpt	köpta(e)¹
II. Class II.	böjd	böjt	böjda(e)
III.	sydd	sytt	sydda(e)
IV.	skriven	skrivet	skrivna(e)

238. WEAK DECLENSION.

älskade	älskade	älskade
köpta(e)¹	köpta	köpta(e)¹
böjda(e)	böjda	böjda(e)
sydda(e)	sydda	sydda(e)
skrivna(e)	skrivna	skrivna(e)

¹Masculine nouns denoting persons often take the -e form of the adjective.

239. The past participle is used only adjectively as an attributive, an appositive, or a predicate modifier. In the last function it is used with bliva (varda) to form the compound passive and with vara in the apparent passive (185): de slagna ryssarna flydde, the defeated Russians fled; hären, besegrad och uppriven, drog sig tillbaka, the army, defeated and shattered, withdrew; huset har blivit målat, the house has been painted; brevet är skrivet, the letter is written; rocken är lagad, the coat is mended.

240. The past participle should not be confused with the supine, which is used only with the auxiliary verb hava to form the perfect tenses and is indeclinable.

NOTE. With some verbs of motion vara may be used with the past participle to form the perfect tenses; as, han är bortrest, he has left; han är anländ, he has arrived.

EXERCISE XXI.

4. Supply the present participle, the past participle, or the supine of the verbs indicated, according to the context; also the definite and plural endings. 1. Den ... (förlora) ring— har blifvit ... (finna) 2. Barn— stod ... (gråta)¹ framför den ... (stänga) dörr—. 3. Ester är en ... (förtjusa)¹ liten flicka. 4. ... (sova)¹ hund— (pl.) bitas ej. 5. Ert ... (vänta länge)² brev har ... (komma). 6. ... (vända)¹ sig till mig, bad tiggare— om en slant. 7. Jag har ... (hitta) alla de ... (förlora) brev— (def. pl.), edert ... (inbegripa)². Express in more idiomatic Swedish by expanding the participles into clauses. 8. Icke havande erfarenhet nog, vet jag ej vad jag bör göra. 9. Nyheterna mottagna i går ha gjort oss alla glada. 10. Havande läst brevet, kastade jag bort det. Translate: 11. I heard him singing³. 12. He came driving. 13. Reading and writing are taught at school.

¹Pres. part. ²Past part. ³After verbs like se, höra, känna, Swedish uses the infinitive of the dependent verb, not the pres. part.

Note the inverted order in an independent clause following a dependent.

B. 1. När jag gick hem från kyrkan i går, träffade jag fröken Lind, dotter till en gammal skolkamrat. 2. Emedan det är länge sedan jag såg henne, kände jag knappast igen henne. 3. Hon var förtjusande vacker i sin nya vinterhatt, vilken hon sade var en julklapp från hennes far. 4. Hon omtalade för mig, att hennes far ofta hade uttryckt en önskan att få träffa mig. 5. Jag svarade, att jag ej skulle lämna staden utan att ha besökt dem. 6. Det glädde mig, att han mindes mig. 7. Han är en mycket intressant man, som talar många främmande språk flytande och är väl beläst. 8. Då vi höllo på att samtala, kommo hennes vänner ut ur kyrkan. 9. När jag såg dem komma, sade jag adjö och lämnade henne.

C. 1. Emedan jag ville röka en cigarr, gick jag in i rök-kupén. 2. Mannen, som står där borta, är konduktörn, fråga honom, när tåget går. 3. Han kom springande, men när han såg mig, stannade han och hälsade.

D. 1. Going¹ home from church last Sunday, I met Miss Wallner. 2. Stopping² she wished me a merry Christmas and a happy New Year. 3. She looked³ charming in her new winter hat. 4. Seeing¹ me look at it, she told me that it was a Christmas gift from her father. 5. Her father is a very learned and cultured man and a celebrated author. 6. He speaks fluently six foreign languages and is very well-read. 7. Not having⁴ seen him for many years, I expressed my desire of calling (inf.) on him. 8. Smiling² kindly she said that her father would like to see me, hav-ing⁵ often talked about me and wondered where I was. 9. Thanking² her I asked her to greet her parents from me.

E. 1. Is this a compartment for smokers? No, smoking is prohibited here. 2. How much did you have to (måste ni) pay for overweight? Nothing; they checked my baggage without weighing (230) it. 3. Having asked¹ the conductor if it was the express train for (till) Stockholm, we boarded the train. 4. My stopping and talking (230, note) caused me to (gjorde att jag) come too late to the train. 5. Having bought¹ a time-table, I went into the waiting room.

¹Translate by a temporal clause. ²Expand into a coordinate clause. ³To look (appearance) — se ut. ⁴Causal clause introduced by enär, emedan, or då. ⁵Clause introduced by ty.

 4. Jag sade adjö till honom, I said good-bye to him.
 5. att ha främmande, to have company.

LESSON XXII.

The Verb (Continued).

IMPERSONAL VERBS.

241. The impersonal verb form, like the reflexive, is used more extensively in Swedish than in English. The impersonal subject is det, which is never omitted except in a few archaic expressions.

242. Important impersonals are:

(1) Those referring to processes of nature:

det regnar , it rains	det fryser , it freezes
det snöar , it snows	det töar , it thaws
det blixtrar , it lightens	det dagas , it dawns

(2) Those expressing merely abstract action; as, det knackar på dörren, there is a knock on the door;
det rör sig i skogen, something moves in the forest;
det går i korridoren, somebody is walking in the hall.

(3) Verbs in many idiomatic phrases, the person or thing referred to often appearing as object:

det gäller mitt liv, my life is at stake det gäller honom, it concerns him det lönar mödan, it is worth the while det går mig väl, I am doing well det gör mig ont om dig, I feel sorry for you hur står det till med dig? How are you?

243. THE IMPERSONAL PASSIVE. Many verbs, even intransitives, may form an impersonal passive either with det as the subject or with the subject omitted; as, det skrattades och sjöngs, there was laughing and singing; här ätes, ser jag, you are eating, it seems (I see); det frågas ofta, the question is often asked.

244. Other uses of det:

Det corresponds in general to the English it, but has some idiomatic uses, as already shown in part.

(a) Det stands for the introductory there and serves to bring the verb before the logical subject; as, det levde en gång en konung, once there lived a king; det sprang ett par gossar över fältet, literally, there ran a couple of boys across the field.

NOTE. The verb does not as in English agree with the logical subject but is always in the singular. This form is often resorted to for emphasis.

(b) Det finns, det gives, and det är:

1. There is, and there are, expressing mere existence, are rendered by det finns, det gives, and det är.

2. Det finns, more seldom det gives, expresses existence within a space of extended or indefinite limits, whereas det är expresses existence within a definite space of relatively small extent: det fanns ännu ärliga män, there were still honest men; det gives intet val, there is no choice; det finns, or gives en Gud, there is a God; det är ett par herrar vid dörren, there are a couple of gentlemen at the door. Note the singular of the verb, irrespective of the number of the following noun.

(c) Det is used expletively to represent another word, phrase, or clause already used, and of which the repetition is avoided (it is then rendered by so or not translated). Ex.: han var rik, nu är han det ej längre, he was rich, now he is so no longer; vet du vad han sade? Ja, det gör jag; do you know what he said? Yes, I do; är han här? Ja, det tror jag; is he here? Yes, I think so.

REFLEXIVE VERBS.

245. Reflexive verbs “reflect” the action upon the subject. Hence the object is always the pronoun corresponding to the subject.

246. A reflexive verb has no peculiarity of conjugation. The pronoun object is placed immediately after the verb.

247. The reflexive form is used much more widely in Swedish than in English, often giving rise to secondary significations which require their own peculiar translations. Examples:

erinra , to remind	erinra sig , to remember
inbilla , to make believe	inbilla sig , to imagine
uppföra , to perform, erect	uppföra sig , to behave
tro , to believe	tro sig , to presume, dare
fatta , to seize	fatta sig , to compose one-self

Some verbs are used only reflexively; as, befinna sig, to be (as to health, condition) tilldraga sig, to take place beflita sig, to apply one-self begiva sig, to betake one-self

248. Conjugation of the reflexive verb: att inbilla sig, to imagine.

	PRESENT INDICATIVE	IMPERFECT INDICATIVE
Sg.	jag inbillar mig du inbillar dig han inbillar sig ni inbillar er (eder)	jag inbillade mig , etc.
Pl.	vi inbilla oss I inbillen er (eder) ni inbilla er (eder) de inbilla sig	vi inbillade oss , etc.

PERFECT	PLUPERFECT
jag har inbillat mig , etc.	jag hade inbillat mig , etc.

FUTURE	FUTURE PERFECT
jag skall inbilla mig , etc.	jag skall ha inbillat mig , etc.

IMPERATIVE	INFINITIVES
2nd Sg. inbilla dig (familiar)	Present: att inbilla sig
2nd Pl. inbillen er (archaic)	Perfect: att ha(va) inbillat sig
2nd Sg. and Pl. inbilla er	Future Perfect: att skola ha inbillat sig
1st Pl. låt(om) oss inbilla oss , etc.

NOTE. The reflexives may be intensified by själv: han älskade sig själv och icke sina medmänniskor: he loved himself and not his fellow men. The student should, however, avoid the use of själv with the reflexives, this construction being very limited.

249. Note such idiomatic reflexive constructions as: jag skar mig i fingret, I cut my finger; Karl har brutit av sig benet, Carl has broken his leg; sätt på dig hatten, put on your hat. The postpositive definite article is often used instead of the possessive with nouns which denote parts of the body and articles of clothing. The possessor may be represented by an object pronoun.

250. THE RECIPROCAL PRONOUN is varandra, each other, one another, which is indeclinable: vi träffade varandra, we met each other; vi älskade varandra, we loved one another.

NOTE. The reciprocal idea may, as has been stated before, often be expressed by the -s form of the verb: vi träffas, we meet one another; hästarna bitas, the horses bite one another; sång och glädje följas åt, song and joy accompany one another. When no agent is mentioned the -s form of the passive must often be avoided since it may give a reciprocal meaning to the verb (186).

EXERCISE XXII.

A. Continue the following: 1. Jag skall kläda mig varmt, så att jag ej förkyler mig, du ... dig ..., så att, etc. 2. Innan jag mottog främmande, måste jag kläda om mig, innan du ..., måste du ... dig, etc. 3. Om jag inte uppför mig bättre, så måste jag skämmas, om du, etc. 4. Jag hade befunnit mig bättre, om jag hade skyddat mig mot kölden, du, etc. 5. Om jag ej ändrar mig, och det ej regnar, så kommer jag, om du, etc.

Translate: 1. I think so. 2. We shall see one another soon. 3. Hurry, Carl, we are waiting for (på) you. 4. There are two industrious boys in this room. 5. Can you tell if there is a postoffice in (vid or på) this street? 6. Stay at home, boys, it is freezing and snowing.

B. 1. Det går på verandan, nu knackar det på dörren; skynda dig, Anna, att öppna. 2. Jag måste gå och kläda om mig; det passar ej att taga emot främmande, klädd som jag är. 3. Jag tror, att det är herr Edgren, bed honom stiga in i förmaket och sätta sig, det dröjer endast ett par minuter, tills jag är färdig. 4. Jag hoppas ni ursäktar, att jag har låtit er vänta, herr Edgren. 5. Hur står det till? Så tråkigt¹, att min man icke är hemma, det skulle ha glatt honom att få träffa er. 6. Jag mår förträffligt, fru Sterner. Men hur befinna ni er nu för tiden (nowadays)? 7. Jag hörde för någon tid sedan, att Karl hade förkylt sig mycket svårt. 8. Vi må alla bra nu, men vädret ändrar sig så hastigt nu för tiden, att det är omöjligt att skydda sig mot förkylning. 9. I går snöade det, i dag regnar det, nu blixtrade det till och med, tror jag. 10. Säg till (åt) gossarna, att de uppföra sig litet bättre, Anna, Erik skriker ju, som om det gällde livet. 11. De kunna väl² roa sig utan att väsnas så; herr Edgren och jag kunna knappast höra varandra. 12. Adjö, fru Sterner; det var tråkigt, att Karl ej var hemma, men vi träffas väl senare.

¹It is too bad that, etc.; boken är tråkig, the book bores me. ²Väl — I suppose, I should think, very likely, etc.

C. 1. I think the weather has changed¹; it is becoming cloudy, it looks as if it would (skulle) rain soon. 2. It is quite (ganska) chilly and we must dress warmly if we intend to go out, otherwise (annars) we shall catch cold. 3. Somebody is walking² on the porch; now there is a knock². Please look and see (se efter) who it is, Anna. 4. Father, it is Mr. Lind. How are you, Mr. Lind? I am very glad³ to see you. 5. The pleasure is mutual, Mr. Lennart, it is long since we met. 6. Why do the boys make such a noise (B, 11), Anna? Tell (B, 10) them to behave better when there is company. 7. If I am not mistaken¹, it is Carl that is yelling; he ought to be ashamed to behave¹ so badly. 8. Who is that lady you greeted? It is the wife of Mr. Brown. 9. We do not know one another well, but we always greet one another when we meet (250). 10. Who is Mr. Brown? He is a man who always lacks³ money and who wants to borrow from everybody. 11. He used to be much respected, but he is no longer so (244, c.). 12. There are not many (många) in this town who would lend him money. 13. Has he presumed⁴ to ask you to lend him? 14. No, he knows that it is not worth while³. 15. Good-bye, I must hurry; there is much work for me at home.

¹Use reflex. verb. ²242, 2. ³Use an impersonal construction, 242, 3. ⁴Presume — tro sig.

3. att skämmas för något, to be ashamed of something.
4. att ta emot' främmande, to receive company.
5. Hur står det till med er bror? How is your brother?

LESSON XXIII.

Verbal Auxiliaries.

MODAL AUXILIARIES.

251. The modal auxiliaries are:

INFINITIVE	PRESENT		IMPERFECT SUPINE
	SING.	PLUR.	SG. AND PL.
kunna , can	kan	kunna	kunde	kunnat
må , may	må	må	mätte
böra , ought to	bör	böra	borde	bort
skola , shall	skall (ska)	skola(ska)	skulle	skolat
vilja , will	vill	vilja	ville	velat
måste , must	måste	måste	måste	måst
tör , is likely	tör	töra	torde

The modals are conjugated regularly; some of them, however, are defective. The following remarks will suffice:

(a) The archaic second person has the ending -en: I skolen (må takes only -n in 2nd pers. pl.: I mån).

(b) The singular form is practically the only one used in conversation.

(c) The compound tenses are formed regularly: jag har skolat, han hade kunnat. Skola, må, tör, måste, and böra lack future and future perfect; må and tör lack perfect and pluperfect.

(d) The subjunctives of the modals except of kunna and vilja are not formed with må, måtte, and skulle. The imperfect and pluperfect subjunctives only are in use (except in the case of vilja and kunna) and they are like the indicative: kunna and vilja may form a present subjunctive with må or mätte and the present infinitive; an imperfect subjunctive with skulle and the present infinitive; a perfect subjunctive with må or mätte and the perfect infinitive; a pluperfect subjunctive with skulle and the perfect infinitive. The imperfect and pluperfect subjunctives generally used are identical with the imperfect and pluperfect indicative: imperfect subjunctive, jag skulle kunna, vilja, or jag kunde, ville; perfect subjunctive, jag må, måtte ha kunnat, velat; pluperfect subjunctive, jag skulle ha kunnat, velat or jag hade kunnat, velat.

SOME USES OF THE MODAL AUXILIARIES.

252. The modal auxiliaries have more complete forms in Swedish than in English. The Swedish modal must for that reason sometimes be translated by a paraphrase; as, jag måste arbeta i går, I had to work yesterday; jag har kunnat göra det, I have been able to do it.

253. The modal auxiliaries govern, as in English, the simple infinitive: han säger, att han ej kan komma, he says that he cannot come; jag måste gå nu, I must go now.

NOTE. They are generally accompanied by an infinitive, but sometimes a complementary verb may be implied; when an adverb of direction is used a verb of motion may be omitted after skola, vilja, and måste: jag måste hem, I must go home; jag vill in, I want to come in.

254. In the pluperfect subjunctive of skola and böra, Swedish prefers a construction made up of the imperfect subjunctive of the modal and the perfect infinitive of the verb to one consisting of the pluperfect subjunctive of the modal and the present infinitive, conforming thus with the English usage. The treatment of kunna is identical, except that when we wish especially to emphasize the pluperfect time of the ability or possibility we use the pluperfect subjunctive of kunna. Ex.: han skulle ha gjort det, he should have done it; ni borde ha kommit, you ought to have come; jag kunde ha skrivit, I could have written; but jag hade kunnat skriva, I might have been able to write.

NOTE. Vilja, on the other hand, would in a similar case always be put in the pluperf. and the depending verb in the present infinitive: jag hade velat skriva brevet, and not jag ville ha skrivit; han hade velat gå, om hans mor ej hade varit sjuk, he would have wished to go, if his mother had not been sick.

SENSES OF MODAL AUXILIARIES.

255. Kunna. Originally it meant to know how, to be skilled in. This use is still retained in the verb when used independently: han kan svenska, sin läxa; he knows Swedish, his lesson.

(a) Ability: han kan läsa, men han vill ej, he can read but he does not want to.

(b) Possibility: det kan nog hända, that may happen; jag kunde nog göra det, I could perhaps do it.

(c) Permission: nu kan ni gå, now you may go. In this sense it is often used as a mild command.

(d) Willingness: det kan jag giva (ge) er genast, I can give you that at once.

(e) Habit, custom: hon kunde gråta i timtal, när

hon tänkte på sitt döda barn, she would cry for hours when she thought of her dead child.

NOTE. Habit and custom are more often expressed by the verbs bruka and pläga and the infinitive, or by the present or imperfect of the verb: när han såg mig, brukade han fråga, or, frågade han, whenever he saw me he would ask.

256. Må.

(a) Auxiliary: the present and imperfect are used as auxiliaries to form the present subjunctive.

(b) Desire: må Gud välsigna vårt arbete, may God bless our work; vi måtte väl komma i tid till tåget, may we only come in time to the train (would that we might etc.).

NOTE 1. Måtte expresses a more vivid wish than må.

2. From this sense of må springs its use in purpose clauses and some other clauses introduced by att: han bad, att jag måtte stanna (also, bad mig att stanna) he asked me to remain.

(c) Permission, possibility: må (not måtte) may be used with the sense of kan: det må så vara, that may be so; occasionally in the sense of få (263, a): det må du ej göra, you may not do that.

NOTE. Here belongs the expression måhända, perhaps.

(d) Supposition, expressed by the imperfect of the modal måtte (not må): det måtte ha varit hemskt, it must have been uncanny; du måtte vara mycket trött, I dare say, you are very tired.

EXERCISE XXIII.

A. Continue: 1. Jag visste icke, vad jag ville, du visste icke, vad du ville, etc. 2. Jag hade kunnat göra en resa, om jag hade velat, du hade, etc. 3. Jag skulle vilja gå ut, men jag måste stanna hemma, du skulle, etc. 4. Jag skulle ha spelat tennis, om jag hade kunnat, du, etc. 5. Om jag hade velat fara med tiotåget, så hade jag måst skynda mig, om du, etc. 6. Jag borde ha frågat min far först, om han ville låta mig gå med, du borde, etc. 7. Jag ville gärna veta, om jag skulle kunna göra det, du, etc. 8. Måtte jag ej ha kommit för sent! måtte du, etc.

B. 1. Min vän Karl frågade mig i går morse, om jag ville fara med honom till staden. 2. Jag sade åt honom, att jag hade mycket arbete, som jag borde göra, men att jag önskade, att han måtte fråga min far, om jag kunde fara med. 3. Måtte pappa bara tillåta det! tänkte jag, när Karl avlägsnade sig för att bedja honom om lov. 4. Vi skulle kunna ha så roligt tillsammans. 5. Naturligtvis skulle vi bevista det stora fotbollspelet, som skulle utkämpas mellan två av de bästa fotbollagen i staden. 6. Jag har ofta bett pappa, att han måtte låta mig spela fotboll, men jag har ej kunnat övertyga honom om att det är en nyttig idrott. 7. Jag brukar ofta säga, att om han blott förstod spelet, så måste han finna det intressant. 8. "Det må så vara", sade han en gång, "jag har blott sett ett enda spel och kunde alls inte bli på det klara därmed. 9. Det syntes mig vara litet för mycket för ett spel och litet för litet för ett slagsmål." 10. Karl kom tillbaka och sade, att han hade måst lova, att vi skulle vara tillbaka så tidigt, att jag kunde vattna blomsterrabatterna och kiippa gräsmattan. 11. Det måtte ha varit svårt för Karl att få pappas tillåtelse.

C. Conversation. 1. Vad frågade Karl er i går morse? 2. Varför trodde ni ej, att ni skulle få följa med? 3. Vad önskade ni, att Karl skulle göra? 4. Varför avlägsnade Karl sig. 5. Vad skulle ni gå till, om ni finge resa till staden? 6. Mellan vilka skulle spelet utkämpas? 7. Vad har ni ej lyckats övertyga er far om? 8. Varför tror ni ej, att er far finner spelet intressant? 9. Hur många fotbollspel har er far bevistat? 10. Har Karl lyckats att få er fars tillåtelse till resan? 11. Vad måste ni göra, när ni kommer hem?

D. 1. I should like to go to town with my friend Carl. 2. A football game will be played between the two best teams in town and I should like very much¹ to attend it. 3. But I do not know whether (om) I may² go, for my father has given me much work to do before evening. 4. But it seems to me that he ought to allow me to go this time (gång). 5. I have had (perf. of måste) to stay at home all summer³ in order to take care of the garden, water the flower beds and cut the lawn. 6. I have always wished to play football, but my father does not think that it is a useful sport. 7. If Carl were only here, he would be able to get my father's permission. 8. I am so glad that you came, Carl. Would you go and ask father (pappa) whether I may² go? 9. You see, I ought (borde) really to work to-day. I should have done (254) this work yesterday. 10. What did papa say? Did he give his permission? 11. Yes, you may² go with me; but you will have (pres. of måste) to be back early. 12. He must be very rich, for he spends much money. 13. I wish he would come soon so that we could⁴ begin to eat. 14. Now I must say good-bye to you, but we might meet⁵ again to-morrow.

LESSON XXIV.

SENSES OF MODAL AUXILIARIES (Continued).

257. Böra.

(a) Duty: jag bör göra vad som är rätt, I ought to do what is right.

NOTE 1. The imperfect borde is generally used with present meaning and has the same signification as bör (ought) if unaccented: du borde skämmas, you ought to be ashamed of yourself. If accented it implies that one does not do what one ought to, for instance: jag borde gå hem och arbeta, I ought (that is, if I were to do my duty) to go home and work.

2. In the sense of duty böra is weaker than skola.

(b) Calculation: tåget bör vara här om tio minuter, the train ought to be here in ten minutes.

(c) Fitness: så bör det vara, thus it ought to be.

258. Skola. Originally it signified duty or obligation.

(a) Auxiliary:

1. The present (skall) is used as an auxiliary with the infinitive to form the future tense: jag skall gå, I shall go; jag skall hava gått, I shall have gone.

2. The imperfect (skulle) is used with the infinitive as one mode of forming the imperfect and pluperfect subjunctive.

(b) Condition or contingency: om ni skulle se honom, så hälsa honom från mig, give him my greetings, if you should see him; han sade, att han skulle komma, he said that he would come.

(c) Duty or necessity, when proceeding from the speaker: du skulle ha gått, när han bad dig, you should have gone when he asked you; du skall icke stjäla, thou shalt not steal; om vi ska göra det, så låt oss göra det snart, if we are to do it, then let us do it soon.

(d) Threat or promise: det ska du inte ha gjort för inte, I will remember you for this (i. e. repay you in kind).

(e) Intention: han skulle ha kommit i går, he intended to come yesterday.

(f) Report: han skall vara kolossalt rik, he is said to be enormously rich.

(g) Wish: vi skulle allt ha en trädgård, i vilken alla slags blommor skulle växa, I wish we had a garden in which all kinds of flowers might grow.

259. Vilja.

(a) Will, intention, purpose: han ville visst icke göra dig ond, he did not at all intend to make you angry; han vill hem, jag kan ej kvarhålla honom, he is determined to go home, I cannot keep him.

(b) Wish, entreaty or request: han ville gärna hjälpa, he was anxious to help; vill ni komma närmare or vill ni vara så god och komma närmare, please come a little closer (vill is very often used thus to express a mild command); jag ville gärna ha en kopp till, I should like another cup.

NOTE 1. The imperfect subjunctive of vilja with the adverb gärna, willingly, is generally used to express a request politely as above, sometimes with väl and a negative: ni ville väl inte göra det för mig? Would you do that for me?

2. Vilja is often used with an object, especially a pronoun: Vad vill han dig? What does he have to say to you? han vill mig väl, he wishes me well, he is well disposed toward me. Its signification seems to forbid its use with any other than animate subjects, but it is often used figuratively with inanimate: min klocka vill ej gå, my watch does not run (won't run); blommor vilja ej växa i sådan jord, flowers do not grow in such soil.

REMARK. Do not translate will and would by vill, ville, if they are only a sign of the future or the subjunctive. Will and would denoting habitual action are generally expressed by the simple tenses, present and past, or by the verbs bruka and pläga (255, e).

260. Måste.

(a) Physical necessity: jag måste ha mat, annars svälter jag ihjäl, I must have food, or else I shall starve to death.

(b) Logical necessity: det måste vara sant, that must be true.

(c) Moral necessity: barn måste lyda sina föräldrar, children must obey their parents.

261. Tör.

Probability, supposition: the imperfect torde is used with present sense and is of much more frequent occurrence than the present tör: det torde vara ganska svårt, very likely it is quite difficult;

han torde vara sjuk, ty han lovade säkert att komma,
I suppose that he is sick, for he promised surely to come.

OTHER VERBAL AUXILIARIES.

262. The causative auxiliary låta, to let, make, or cause (to do or to be done). It has three main significations:

(a) to allow, to give permission: han lät pojkarna leka, he allowed the boys to play.

(b) to have somebody do a thing: *jag har låtit
Karl hämta brödet*, I have had Carl fetch the bread.
When the verb has this signification the subject of the infinitive is often omitted: jag har låtit göra en rock, I have had a coat made.

NOTE. In the latter case it is best to render låta by have and the infinitive by the passive participle.

(c) Låta is used to paraphrase the first person plural of the imperative: låt oss gå; also occasionally as a substitute for the passive; as, det låter sig göra, that can be done; han har låtit övertala sig, he has been persuaded.

NOTE. In this reflexive construction the passive infinitive is also permitted:
the reflexive always precedes the infinitive: han har låtit sig öfvertalas, he has been persuaded.

263. Få, to get, to receive, is also used as an auxiliary in a variety of meanings.

(a) Permission: nu får du gå, now you may go.
In this sense it is more common than either kunna
'255, c) or må (256, c).

(b) Necessity: som gosse fick han ofta göra en
Swedish Grammar

mans arbete, as a boy he often had to do a man's work.

NOTE 1. Very often the word lov, permission, is used euphemistically with få when it denotes necessity: du får lov att studera nu, you must study now.

2. Måste has a more general and absolute meaning than få; thus, we must all die, must be rendered by, vi måste alla dö.

(c) With the verbs veta, höra, and se, få is used in an inchoative sense resembling the English get; as, hon fick veta det i går, she received news of it yesterday (learned to know); kommer han? du får se, you will see (learn).

NOTE. When used independently få presents many striking analogies with get. Få tag på, to get hold of; få igenom en sak, get a thing through, etc.

264. Lär is used only in the present indicative to denote a supposition based on report. In this sense it is more common than skola (258, f): han lär vara sjuk, they say he is sick.

NOTE. The same idea is more commonly expressed by the use of the adverb visst, certainly, surely; han är visst sjuk. The adverbs allt, nog and väl express the idea conveyed by torde (261).

EXERCISE XXIV.

A. Continue: 1. Jag bör vara hemma om en timma, ty min far har sagt, att jag måste hjälpa honom, du bör vara, etc. 2. Om jag ändå skall göra det, så borde jag göra det strax, etc. 3. Jag skulle gärna vilja ha kaffe, om jag blott finge lov af min läkare att dricka det, du skulle gärna, etc. 4. Som gosse hade jag nog fått arbeta tungt, om jag hade kunnat, men jag var så klen, som gosse hade du, etc. 5. Jag skulle ha låtit göra mig en kostym, om min far hade velat ge mig pengar att betala den med, etc. 6. Om han hade velat avlägsna sig, så kunde jag ha gått till sängs tidigt, etc. 7. Jag lät honom vänta på svar, ty jag var ej på det klara med hvad han ville, du lät honom, etc.

B. En bonde hade kommit till en marknad och ville köpa något. Han stod vid ett av marknadsstånden och såg, hur folk köpte glasögon. Handlanden gav dem en bok med fin stil i, sedan satte de på ett par glasögon och sågo uppmärksamt i boken. "Kan ni läsa den här stilen bra?" frågade handlanden, och när den andre svarade ja, så köpte han glasögonen. Bonden ville också köpa sig ett par glasögon. Han steg fram till disken, satte på sig det ena paret efter det andra och såg i boken, men lade åter bort dem. Handlanden ville hjälpa honom och erbjöd honom olika glasögon, men bonden sade gång efter annan: "Jag kan inte läsa med dem." Till sist frågade honom en annan bonde, som under tiden hade kommit dit: "Men säg mig, kan du verkligen läsa?" "En sådan dumbom du är", svarade den första bonden, "skulle jag väl köpa mig glasögon, om jag kunde läsa?"

C. Conversation: 1. Vem hade kommit till marknaden? 2. Vad ville han gärna göra? 3. Vad gjorde man vid ett av stånden? 4. Vad gjorde handelsmannen för att kunna se, vad för glasögon han måste ge dem? 5. Av vem bör man låta undersöka sina ögon, innan man köper glasögon? (ögonläkaren). 6. Vad för stil kunna de, som ha svaga ögon, bäst läsa? 7. Vad tyckte bonden, att han också skulle ha? 8. Vad gjorde han alltså? 9. Vad fick handelsmannen lov att ge honom? (one pair after another). 10. Hade bonden velat köpa glasögon, om han hade kunnat läsa? 11. Vad trodde han, att glasögonen skulle sätta honom i stånd¹ att göra.

¹Sätta i stånd, to enable; vara i stånd, to be able.

D. 1. A peasant who was unable¹ to read wished to buy a pair (of) spectacles. 2. He thought (trodde) that all he had to have in order to be able (165, 2) to read was a pair (of) spectacles. 3. He said to himself: "I ought to have spectacles, and if I can get a pair that fits me I shall be able to read." 4. The peasant would not have wished (254, note) to buy glasses, had he been able to read. 5. A wise man would (258, b) have had (262, b) his eyes examined by an oculist before buying² glasses. 6. The dealer let him try one pair after another, thinking³ that he would find a pair which would fit him. 7. The young man is not permitted (263, a) to read because his eyes are weak. 8. The doctor says that he may read a short while to-morrow. 9. What do the children wish (to have) for Christmas? They want many things, but we can't afford to give them much. 10. Then they will have (use pres. of modal) to be satisfied with little. 11. Carl asked my father, "May we go to town?" and my father answered, "You may go, but you must be back before six o'clock." 12. Your father must have a great deal to do now. Several times I have wished to see him, but I have not been able¹ to. 13. Yes, he is having (262, b) a house built in the country, and must superintend the work. 14. Where have you had your suit made? I should like (259, b) to have the address of your tailor. 15. He can make clothes that fit; he is said (258, g) to have studied his art in London.

³Causal clause with emedan, enär or då.

2. Vad vill du ha till julklapp? What do you wish for Christmas (present)?

3. att låta sy en rock, to have a coat made.

¹More commonly used separably.

²Note how final m of a word when the preceding vowel is short is doubled on its becoming intervocalic by the addition of an ending (3).

LESSON XXV.

Indefinite Pronouns.

I. USED AS PRONOUNS ONLY.

265. Man (indeclinable) is used only in the nominative as an indefinite personal subject and, lacking an exact equivalent, is variously translated one, they, you, we, people (cf. German man, French on). Ex.: man säger, att han har skrivit en ny bok, they say that he has written a new book; man förtalar mig, people slander me.

(a) In the oblique cases the corresponding forms of en are used, ens for the genitive, en for the objective; the reflexive is sig. Thus: vad man ger, bringar en lycka, what one gives brings one luck; man skulle icke berömma sig själv, one should not praise oneself. The reflexive possessive is sin, sitt, otherwise ens is used: ens vänner äro ofta värre än ens fiender, one's friends are often worse than one's enemies; man bör vörda sina föräldrar, one ought to honor one's parents.

(b) When man is the subject of a transitive verb it is usually best to render the sentence by a passive: man har behandlat honom illa, he has been badly treated.

266. Allting (gen. -s; no plur.), everything.

267. Någonting (gen. -s; no plur.), something, anything.

268. Ingenting (gen. -s; no plur.), nothing, Ingenting as well as någonting in a negative sentence are often intensified by a following (sometimes preceding) alls; as, har du sett någonting? Ingenting alls, have you seen anything? Nothing at all; jag såg alls ingenting, I saw nothing whatever.

NOTE 1. Ingenting and någonting are followed by an adjective in the indefinite form of the neuter: har ni någonting gott att äta? do you have anything good to eat? Likewise något and intet.

2. Ingenting is usually placed before the supine of a compound tense, någonting, after; likewise intet is placed before and något after; Jag har ingenting (intet) sett, jag har sett någonting (något). In a dependent clause ingenting and intet come immediately after the subject: han säger, att han ingenting har sett.

269. Envar (gen. envars; no plur.); var och en (neut. vart och ett, gen. vars och ens; no plur.), sometimes en och var, everybody, every one: var och en (envar) har sina fel, everybody has his faults; envars (vars och ens) rykte bör respekteras, everybody's reputation should be respected.

NOTE. Var och en is sometimes used adjectively.

II. USED AS BOTH PRONOUNS AND ADJECTIVES.

270. En (neut. ett, only as adj., gen. ens, plur. ena, def. form ene, ena), one, a, an: man tror ens egna vänner bäst, one has most confidence in one's own friends; han är en av mina bästa vänner, he is one of my best friends. In less elegant conversation en is used in the nominative with the same sense as man; in the oblique cases it always takes the place of man. It is not used after adjectives like the English one: the red apple and the green one, det röda äpplet och det gröna.

271. Den ene (-a) (fem. den ena, neut. det ena), the one, is often used in correlation with den andre (-a), etc., the other: den ene kommer, den andre går, one comes, the other goes.

272. En och annan (neut. ett och annat, gen. en och annans; no plur.), one now and then, one here and there: en och annan säger så, one now and then says so (some say so).

273. Ende (-a) (plur. and def. enda), only, is used as an adjective: han var enda sonen, he was the only son. When used as a pronoun it is always preceded by the definite or indefinite article and takes an -s in the genitive: dessa voro de enda, som voro där, these were the only ones who were there; jag har ej sett en enda av dem, I have not seen a single one of them.

274. Någon (neut. något, gen. någons, någots; plur. några; gen. någras), some, some one, any, anyone, a few, something, anything: har du några pengar? have you any money? någon har frågat efter dig, some one (has) asked for you; jag har hört något vackert om dig, I have heard something nice about you; någons hatt ligger här, somebody's hat lies here.

NOTE 1. The words for any and some when used in a partitive sense are often omitted: har ni tändstickor? do you have any matches?

2. Some when it means a little is translated by litet (lite).

275. Ingen (neut. intet, inget, gen. ingens, intets; plur. inga, gen. ingas), no one, none, nobody, nothing; as adjective, no: jag har inga pengar (also jag har icke några pengar), I have no money; ingens karaktär kan vara renare än hans, nobody's character can be purer than his.

NOTE. The paraphrase icke någon, några is more common than ingen, inga; at the beginning of a statement ingen is preferred. Inget is becoming more and more common for intet.

276. All (neut. allt, gen. allas, allts; plur. alla, gen. allas), all, everything: Gud har skapat allt, God has created everything; alla hans döttrar voro vackra, all his daughters were pretty; all jorden är Guds verk, all the earth is the work of God.

NOTE 1. When all in English means whole it must be rendered by hela without the prepositive article: jag har arbetat hela dagen, I have worked all day; hela Paris, all Paris.

2. For the use of alls see 268, for the use of allra see 316.

3. Observe the following idiomatic uses of hel: som ett helt, as a whole; helt och hållet, wholly, completely; på det hela taget, taken as a whole, on the whole.

EXERCISE XXV.

4. Supply the missing indefinites: 1. Är ... (anybody) där? Jag ser ... (nobody). 2. Men jag ser ... (somebody's) hatt hänga där. ... (nobody) har kommit, så vitt¹ jag vet. 3. ... (one) borde låsa dörren, annars kan ju vem som helst komma in, och ... (one) hör det icke.

4. ... (somebody) kunde till och med komma och stjäla bort ... (one's)² saker, utan att man visste det. 5. Brevbäraren har varit här med ... (a few) brev för dig. 6. ... (one) var ofrankerat, och jag måste betala fyrtio öre, ... (the other) var rekommenderat. 7. Har du ... (any) frimärken att låna mig? Jag har skrivit brev ... (all) dagen till ... (every one) i familjen, och jag har inte ... (a single) frimärke kvar. 8. Hur skall ... (one) få ... (one's)² post, när ... (one) är ute och reser? 9. Låt adressera dina brev poste restante till ... (some) av de städer, du ämnar besöka. 10. ... (everybody), som är ute och reser, har svårighet med posten. 11. Middagen måste vara färdig nu. Var god och tag plats bredvid mig. 12. ... (no) ceremonier, som ni ser; vi äro blott ... (some) vänner. 13. Behagar ni ... (some) soppa? Soppan är utmärkt. Skulle ni vilja ge mig ... (a little more). 14. Behagar ni en kopp kaffe till?

¹*Så vitt* (vitt, neuter of vid), as far as; note omission of some (as). ²*Sin* or ens (265, a).

B. I am at home to no one¹; I wish to rest a little. 2. If anyone asks for me, say that I shall be² at home again at seven o'clock (klockan sju). 3. One (271) of those two Americans asked for (after) you; he left no card, and I cannot recall his name. 4. Have you ever seen anything so annoying? Here I have waited for (på) him all week, and now when I am out (for) a few minutes he comes. 5. Do you have anything good to eat? Yes, this chicken is excellent. 6. Should you like a wing or a leg? 7. If you will allow² me, I shall take a little of this fruit. 8. Take what you want without ceremony; here one helps oneself (248, note). 9. Try this wine; it is ten years old and of with (till) the fruit. 10. Thank you, not now; I shall the best quality. One generally³ takes a glass (of) wine taste your wine another time; but I shall take another apple. 11. One single apple like⁴ this is worth more to me than all (the) wine in the world. 12. Now, when we have eaten, we shall see the sights of (bese) the city. I haven't seen anything of Stockholm yet. 13. Where shall we go? Everybody who visits Stockholm must of course visit the famous Skansen and the Northern Museum. 14. Let us all go there. What do you prefer, car, cab, or automobile?

¹Translated: not...for anybody. ²Use the present tense. ³Adverbs cannot stand between subject and verb except adverbs of negation and a few others in a dependent clause (179, a). ⁴Translate: one such apple as (som) this.

VOCABULARY.

2. Var god och tag plats, please sit down.

3. Skulle ni vilja ha en kopp kaffe till? Would you like another cup of coffee?

LESSON XXVI.

Indefinite Pronouns (Continued).

277. Mången (neut. månget, gen. mångens; pl. and def. många, gen. mångas), many a in the singular and many in the plural. Ex.: många vackra blommor växa i trädgården, many beautiful flowers grow in the garden; mången rik är olycklig, many a rich person is unhappy.

278. Mycket (indeclinable), much: hur mycket pengar har du på dig? how much money do you have about you? icke alls mycket, not very much.

279. Annan (neut. annat, gen. annans; pl. and def. andra, gen. andras), other. Like the English other it is preceded either by the definite or indefinite article in the singular: har ni en annan bok? Have you another book? Vad göra de andra? What are the others doing?

NOTE 1. Någon annan, något annat means somebody else, something else.

2. En annan means another, a different one; en till means one more: var god och giv mig en annan bok, please give me another book; jag ville gärna ha en kopp till, I should like another cup.

3. Varannan signifies every other: varannan dag, every other day.

280. Somlig (neut. somligt; pl. somliga, gen. somligas), some, is used as a pronoun or an adjective generally only in the neut. sing. and plur. of all genders: somliga människor, some people; somliga önska det här, andra det där, some want this and some that.

NOTE 1. Note the correlatives somliga.... andra, some.... others.

2. The English some is generally to be rendered by någon, några, in speaking of individuals or individual things; by litet (lite), in speaking of quantity.

281. Flera(e) (gen. fleras), more, several.

282. Flesta(e) (gen. flesta), most, the majority.

Flera and flesta are used as comparative and superlative of många. When flera does not express comparison it signifies several, quite a few; flesta is always preceded by the article, but the noun it modifies does not take the postpositive article: flera voro här i dag än i går, more were here to-day than yesterday; på fleras begäran sjöng han sången, at the request of several he sang the song; de flesta rösta nog för honom, the majority will doubtless vote for him.

283. Få (gen. fås), few. It is very often preceded by några: några få voro här, a few were here.

284. Varannan (neut. vartannat; no plur.), every other: varannan dag ha vi tyska, we have German every other day.

NOTE. Om vartannat, topsy-turvy; var (vart) tredje, var (vart) fjärde; every third; every fourth.

285. Endera (neut. ettdera), one of two, either; någondera (neut. någotdera), either; ingendera (intetdera), neither; vardera (vartdera), each.

These take an s in the genitive when used pronominally. They are rarely used as adjectives. Ex.: ingendera av oss fick något, neither of us got anything; han kan komma endera dagen, he may come one of these days; här ha ni ett äpple vardera, here you have an apple each.

286. Var (neuter vart; no plur.)
varje (indeclinable) varenda (neut. vartenda, no pl.) } each, every

Varje is only used adjectively. Varenda used as a pronoun is followed by en, ett. Ex.: varje lärjunge måste göra sin plikt, every pupil must do his duty;

jag har givit bort vartenda ett, I have given away every one.

NOTE. Varje may sometimes be used with the sense of any: varje penna är god nog, any pen will do.

287. Vilken (neut. vilket, plur. vilka) som helst and vad som helst (neuter) are used pronominally and adjectively with the sense of whosoever, whatsoever, whichsoever, anyone at all, anything at all, any at all; vem som helst, whosoever, anyone (at all), is used only pronominally.

When these words are used as adjectives, som helst generally follows the noun; when used as pronouns, som may be dropped before a relative clause. Ex.: vilken penna som helst är god nog, any pen is good enough; vem som helst kan komma, anyone at all may come; läs vad bok som helst, read any book you please; vid vilken tid som helst, at any time; välj hvad helst, som passar, chose anything that suits you.

1. Någon, ingen, hurudan, and conjunctive adverbs like när, hur, så, likewise form compounds with som helst to become especially indefinite; as, är det någon som helst orsak, varför du icke kan din läxa? Nej, ingen som helst, is there any reason whatsoever why you do not know your lesson? No, no reason whatever; kom när som helst, come at any time; kör så fort som helst, drive as fast as you please.

2. The particle än is also used with the relatives and certain conjunctive adverbs to impart an indefinite force: vem det än är, whoever it may be; vad du än gör, gör det väl, whatever you do, do it well; vad svar han än gav, whatever answer he gave; hur fort det än går, så hinna vi ej fram i tid, no matter how fast we go, we won't be there in time.

3. Note the difference in meaning between han gjorde vad som helst, and vad han än gjorde.

288. Båda, bägge (gen. bådas, bägges), both, are plural forms. When båda is preceded by the prepositive article it means two; as, de båda flickorna äro systrar, the two girls are sisters; but båda systrarna kommo, both sisters came.

OBSERVE. Vi båda, ni båda, de båda, both of us, both of you, both of them.

EXERCISE XXVI.

A. En grosshandlare behövde en gång en springpojke på sitt kontor och satte fördenskull en annons i tidningen. Många gossar infunno sig på kontoret nästa dag. Somliga av dessa hade medfört goda rekommendationsbrev, men grosshandlaren skickade bort dem alla utan att se på deras rekommendationer och behöll en enda liten gosse, som icke hade något som helst skriftligt intyg. En av hans vänner, som var närvarande, frågade varför han just valde en, som ej hade någon rekommendation, då de flesta andra hade medfört sådana. "Jo", svarade grosshandlaren, "han hade ej så få rekommendationer, ehuru de ej voro skriftliga. Han torkade av fötterna vid dörren och tog upp en knappål från golvet, följaktligen måste han vara både renlig och noggrann. Dessutom tog han av sig mössan och svarade raskt och riktigt, därför måste han vara både förständig och uppmärksam. Han väntade stilla och tyst, medan var och en av de andra trängde sig fram, och är följaktligen också blygsam. En människas uppförande betyder mycket mer än vilken rekommendation som helst."

B. Conversation. 1. Vad behövde grosshandlaren? 2. Vad gjorde han för att få en springpojke? 3. Medförde hans annons något resultat? 4. Vad hade de flesta medfört? 5. Brydde sig grosshandlaren om deras rekommendationsbrev? (bry sig om = to care for). 6. Vem valde han för platsen? 7. Vad var det, som förvånade en av hans vänner, vilken var närvarande? 8. Vilka fem goda egenskaper (qualities) ägde gossen? 9. Varigenom (through what) visade gossen, att han var renlig? Artig? Förständig och uppmärksam? 10. Vad brydde sig gross-handlaren mer om än (than) om rekommendationsbrev?

C. 1. Are there¹ many advertisements in the paper to-day? No, only a few (283). 2. I should like to know if there is anyone who wants an errand boy. 3. It seems as if every other (279, 3) advertisement is about errand boys. 4. The next morning there were many boys in (på) the office; it was full of boys who wanted the place. 5. The letters of recommendation of most were very good. 6. Some of the boys had many recommendations each. 7. But the merchant dismissed every one of them and kept a small boy who did not have any² recommendation whatsoever. 8. Which one of you got the place? Neither. 9. Every boy who did not have any letter of recommendation was dismissed, and neither of us had any. 10. I believe that he will³ soon need another (279, 2) boy in his office; the one that (den som) he has is neither⁴ polite nor⁴ tidy. 11. The conduct of both boys was good, but it seemed as if the little boy behaved better. 12. Do you have any reason whatsoever² for not having⁵ done this yet? 13. I did not know that it should be ready so soon; when I asked you, you said that I could do it at any time. 14. How fast shall I drive? You may drive as fast as you please².

¹Är det or finns det (244, b). ²287, 1. ³Use present or kommer att and infinitive. ⁴Varken....eller. ⁵Translate varför du icke har, etc.

LESSON XXVII.

Use of the Tenses.

289. In general the tenses are used as in English, but the following points should be noticed.

PRESENT.

290. The Present for the Future. In both languages the present is used with the meaning of the future but this use is much more extensive in Swedish, and a Swedish present must often be rendered by the future. In fact Swedish employs the present instead of the future almost always when some adverbial expression of time accompanies the verb and prevents a misunderstanding: jag går till posten och är tillbaka om tio minuter, I am going to the post office and shall be back in ten minutes.

NOTE. For the progressive present see 228 and note.

IMPERFECT.

291. The Imperfect for the Present. The imperfect of the verb vara is used in a present sense, especially in exclamatory expressions, to denote intensity of feeling, such as pleasure, enthusiasm, disgust, etc. It is usually combined with the impersonal det. Ex.: Det var förtjusande vackert! How charmingly beautiful! Det var förfärligt, hvad det blåser! How fearfully it storms! Det var roligt, att du kommer, I am glad that you are coming. Det var då löjligt! Isn't that ludicrous?

NOTE. For the progressive imperfect see 228 and note.

292. The imperfect is used in certain expressions with a present or imperative meaning to give a tinge of modesty or politeness: herrarna begärade komma in, please come in, gentlemen; jag önskade veta om herr X är tillbaka, I should like to know if Mr. X. is back. This might perhaps be regarded as a subjunctive (167).

PERFECT.

293. The Perfect for the Future Perfect. As in English the perfect is often employed with the meaning of the future perfect when no misunderstanding can arise: när han har varit i Sverige ett år, så talar han svenska flytande, when he has been in Sweden a year, he will speak Swedish fluently.

FUTURE.

294. For the present taking the place of the future see 290.

295. The future expressed by the auxiliary skola and the infinitive often conveys the idea of a resolution, decision, or even command: jag skall betala, I will pay, is equivalent to a promise; du skall betala is equivalent to an exhortation or command.

296. Pure futurity is often expressed by the present of the verb komma+the infinitive of the verb preceded by att: jag kommer att betala, I am going to pay. In this case the present could not be used since there is no adverbial expression of time to obviate the misunderstanding. We may say, jag betalar i morgon. If we wish to translate, for instance, you will laugh when you read the book, we must say ni kommer att skratta, när ni läser boken and not ni skall skratta, när ni läser boken, since the latter has almost the force of a command. The present of skratta may also be used but is not quite as good in this case as kommer, etc.

297. Stå i begrepp is occasionally used with the infinitive to express immediate futurity; it is equivalent to the English to be about to, or on the point of, but is used much less extensively: jag står i begrepp att resa till Europa, I am on the point of leaving for Europe.

FUTURE PERFECT.

298. The future perfect is used very little in Swedish, its place being taken by the perfect (293).

299. Omission of the Auxiliary in the Perfect and Pluperfect. In a dependent clause the auxiliary hava is frequently omitted: när du gått (har gått), skall jag börja att arbeta, when you have gone, I shall begin to work.

THE USES OF THE INFINITIVE.

300. The simple infinitive (without att) is used much more frequently in Swedish than in English. Thus, att is omitted:

(a) With the future auxiliary skall, the modals, and låta, få, lära.

(b) When the infinitive has a subject in the objective, a construction very common in Swedish; as, jag bad honom komma, I asked him to come; jag hörde honom sjunga, I heard him sing; jag såg honom komma, I saw him coming.

(c) Very often when the infinitive is used predicatively after a verb in the passive: han hördes säga, he was heard to say; han säges ha dött, he is said to have died; de synas trivas, they seem to get along well.

(d) After many verbs which in English require to before the infinitive which they govern, like, ämnar, to intend; hoppas, to hope; bruka, to use; pläga, to use, etc., especially when euphony demands.

301. The infinitive with att is used:

(a) As subject or object of a sentence: att felar är mänskligt, to err is human. In this case the infinitive is often translated by a verbal noun or a gerund in English.

(b) As a modifier of nouns and adjectives: kons-ten att bli rik, the art of growing rich; detta är lätt att förstå, this is easy to understand.

Note expressions like: rum att hyra, rooms for rent; ved att såga, wood to be sawed, where the noun is really the object.

(c) As predicate after vara, bliva, finnas, stå, etc. Swedish uses here the active infinitive where either the active or the passive is used in English: Vad är här att göra? What is here to be done? Han står ej att övertala, he is not to be persuaded.

302. Prepositions with a t t Infinitive. When it refers to the subject of the leading verb the att infinitive may be preceded by almost any preposition, in which case the English generally requires a verbal noun; as, han lekte i stället för att göra sitt arbete, he played instead of doing his work; genom att hjälpa andra hjälper man ofta sig själv, by helping others, we often help ourselves; jag är glad över att kunna hjälpa dig, I am glad that I can help you.

NOTE. When the subject of the infinitive is not the same as that of the leading verb, Swedish uses an att clause preceded by the preposition: genom att han lånade mig pengar, kunde jag köpa huset, by his lending me money, I was able to buy the house; han gick, utan att jag fick tala med honom, he went without my getting a chance to speak to him.

EXERCISE XXVII.

A. Ett skepp, som seglade från Smyrna till Marseille med dyrbar last, förföljdes av sjörövare och ansågs vara förlorat. Kaptenen kom då på den tanken att låta besättningen gå ned under däck. På däck lämnade han blott en enda matros, som han noga föreskrev, vad han skulle göra. När sjörövarnas skepp närmade sig och dess kapten befälde, att man skulle stryka flagg, ropade matrosen med jämrande röst: "Jag har ej så mycket styrka kvar; ni få bemäktiga er skeppet; vi komma från Smyrna, och kaptenen samt hälften av besättningen ha dött i pesten på överresan. Sex man äro ännu kvar, men komma säkert att dö, om ni ej hjälper oss. Skynda er att stiga ombord, ty ni allena¹ kan rädda oss." "Far din väg, din² dum-bom!" ropade sjörövaren till svar, "tror du verkligen, att jag skulle vilja närma mig ditt fartyg!" Därpå avlägsnade han sig så fort³ han kunde.

¹Note the weak form of the adjective after a personal pronoun. ²Note the use of the personal pronoun of the second person in expressions denoting contempt; transl. you big fool. Other expressions of the same kind: din skurk, din åsna, etc. ³Note omission of som, as.

B. Conversation. 1. Varifrån kom skeppet? 2. Vart seglade det? 3. Vad för slags last hade det? 4. Var det ett segelfartyg eller ett ångfartyg (steamer)? 5. Av vem förföljdes det? 6. Kunde det undkomma (escape) sjörövarefartyget? 7. Vart skickade kaptenen hela besättningen med undantag av¹ en enda matros? 8. Vad befallde kaptenen på det andra fartyget honom att göra? 9. Vad hade blivit av kaptenen? 10. Hur många av besättningen voro kvar? 11. Vad gjorde sjörövarna, när de hörde detta?

¹With the exception of.

*C. Supply the proper Swedish equivalent for the English future, namely, the present, future with skall, or kommer att, in the first six sentences.*

1. I morgon ... (resa, 1st plur.) till Stockholm. 2. Om en vecka ... (vara, 1st plur.) tillbaka, och då ... (besöka, 1st plur.) dig. 3. Det där gamla fartyget ... säkert förölyckas. 4. I morgon ... (fara) till Chicago, och då ... (köpa, 1st sing.) en ring åt dig. 5. Du ... (göra) allt ditt arbete, Erik, innan du får gå ut och spela boll. 6. När ni läser min dåliga svenska, så ... (skratta, 2nd sing., polite) åt mina många fel. 7. Hela besättningen ... (dö, progressive present). 8. I går när min kusin kom för att besöka mig, ... (packa, progressive imperfect, first person) min koffert.

Change the following three sentences according to 299.

9. Om jag hade vetat, att han var sjuk, så hade jag besökt honom. 10. Den gamle herrn, som nyss har stigit i vagnen, är min lärare. 11. Vi sakna våra vänner, som nyss ha rest till New York.

In the following supply the proper infinitive, the att infinitive or the simple, of the verbs indicated. 12. Genom ... (narra) sjörövarna räddade kaptenen sitt fartyg. 13. Han bad matroserna ... (gå) ned under däck. 14. Han ansågs ... (vara) rik. 15. Sjørövaren hördes ... (ropa) till matrosen på däcket.

D. 1. But say, this is (291) a beautiful ship! Do you know to what port it is going to sail? 2. Shall¹ we go on board? I know the captain, and shall¹ introduce you to him, if you wish. 3. He is a fine man and I am sure (säker på) that you will like² him. 4. He has just returned from America and the passage was very difficult. 5. It was only by maneuvering³ the ship skillfully that (som) he saved it. 6. He does not believe that his trip will be² stormy. 7. He asked us to come on board, for (ty) he did not wish to leave the city without having³ spoken to us. 8. When the sailor had (299) told the pirate that half of the crew had died of the plague, the pirate sailed away without taking³ possession of the ship. 9. He was on the point (297) of going out when I entered. 10. Did he do all this work? Well, I call that working (301, a). 11. We must walk fast in order to get (komma) home before night (def. form). 12. Mr. Lind was kind enough to lend me a book. 13. He is very much interested in playing³ tennis. 14. The water is warm enough for bathing³ (till att bada i).

¹Here the future implies a decision: skola or komma att? ²Here pure futurity.

LESSON XXVIII.

Comparison of Adjectives

303. Most adjectives form their comparative by adding -are to the stem of the positive, and the superlative by the addition of -ast.

304. Examples:

rik	rikare	rikast	rich
ädel	ädlare	ädlast	noble
trogen	trognare	trognast	faithful
vacker	vackrare	vackrast	beautiful
ringa	ringare	ringast	humble, small

NOTE. Positive stems in unaccented -el, -en, -er, drop the e of these syllables in the comparative and superlative. Positive stems in -a drop the a.

305. The following adjectives form their comparative and superlative by the addition of -re and -st and modify the stem vowel if it is strong:

grov	grövre	gröfst	coarse
hög	högre	högst	high
låg	lägre	lägst	low
lång	längre	längst	long
stor	större	störst	great, large
trång	trängre	trängst	narrow, tight
tung	tyngre	tyngst	heavy
ung	yngre	yngst	young

NOTE. Grov, trång and låg are also compared regularly; låg then has a moral signification.

306. The following are compared irregularly:

dålig	sämre	sämst	bad
gammal	äldre	äldst	old
god, bra	bättre	bäst	good
liten	mindre	minst	little, small
mycken	mera	mest	much
många	flera(e)	flesta(e)	many

NOTE 1. The plural of liten is små and is compared like liten, but also has the comparative smärre.

2. God and dålig are also compared regularly.

307. Some adjectives derived from adverbs, especially such as designate place, have no positive. These have a comparative in -re, generally inverted in the superlative -erst.

bakre	bakerst	farther back, rear
bortre	borterst	farther
främre	främst	farther in front
förre(a)	först	former
inre	innerst	inner
nedre	nederst	nether, lower
undre	underst	under
yttre	ytterst	outer
övre	överst	upper

308. Adjectives which do not easily take the endings of comparison may be compared by using mera and mest together with the positive (such are adjectives in -e, -ad, -s, isk and all participles). Ex.: öde, desolate, mera öde, mest öde; älskad, mera älskad, mest älskad.

NOTE. This is also the case when two qualities of the same object are compared with one another: han är mera trött än sömnig, he is more tired than sleepy.

DECLENSION OF COMPARATIVES AND SUPERLATIVES.

309. The comparative is invariable except that it takes an -s in the genitive when used as a noun: den äldre brodern, the older brother; det äldre barnet, the older child; den äldres rättigheter, the rights of the older.

310. The superlative is not declined in the predicate when not preceded by the definite prepositive article; when preceded by this article it is declined like an adjective in the weak declension. Ex.: han var den flitigaste i klassen, he was the most diligent one in the class; han var äldst, he was the oldest.

NOTE. Superlatives in -ast take only the ending -e: det vackraste barnet, but det yngsta barnet, den yngste gossen.

311. Than is rendered by än: han är äldre än jag, he is older than I.

EXERCISE XXVIII.

A. Insert comparative and superlative forms respectively in the blanks.

1. Jag är trogen, du är ..., han är ... 2. Vi äro ädla, ni äro ..., de äro ... 3. Detta huset är stort, det där är ..., och det gröna där borta är ... 4. Detta är en förtjusande utsikt, men utsikten från berget på andra sidan floden är ..., och utsikten från den höga bergstoppen (peak) där borta är ... 5. Karl är liten, Erik är ..., Ernst är ... 6. I dag är det många i kyrkan, men förra söndagen var det ... 7. Han är en låg människa, jag har sällan sett en ... 8. Vilken av de två bergstopparna är den ... (lowest)? 9. Hur gammal är Erik? Det vet jag ej säkert, men han är ... (older) än Karl, och Alfred är den ... (oldest) av gossarna. 10. Vem är ... (most musical), Anna eller Klara? 11. Anna är ... (comparative) än Klara. 12. Har du sett en ... (more desolate, öde) trakt än denna?

B. 1. Är icke katedralen i Köln en av de äldsta, största och högsta kyrkor i världen? 2. Jo, det finns endast få, som äro äldre, större och högre. 3. När tycker ni, att det är intressantast (310) att resa? På sommaren, ty då äro dagarna längre, man kan se mer, och det är mycket angenämare. 4. Hur lång tid tar det att komma från New York till Liverpool? De snabbaste ångarna göra överresan på mindre än sex dagar. 5. Det är ett misstag, att de europeiska tågen skulle vara långsammare än de amerikanska. 6. I flere länder i Europa äro snälltågen bland de snabbaste, som det över huvud taget finns. 7. Har man ej flere klasser därborta än här? Jo, det är vanligen tre klasser; i Tyskland har man till och med fyra. 8. I Sverige resa endast de allra rikaste (316) i första klass, och de flesta fara i tredje. 9. Man reser bekvämare (318) i andra klass där än i vår första. 10. Vem bor i huset därborta? Två av våra närmaste släktingar, en farbror och en kusin. 11. Den förre bor i främre delen av den övre våningen, den senare i den bakersta delen av den undre våningen; resten av huset står tomt. 12. Jag skulle gärna vilja hyra huset, om dess yttre vore vackrare, dess inre däremot behagar mig. 13. Skulle du vilja göra en längre¹ tur i min bil i eftermiddag? Ja, med största nöje².

¹Translate: extended; längre means here rather long. ²Note the indefinite form of the noun.

C. 1. There are large and high churches in most cities, but there are business buildings in New York which are larger and higher than the largest and highest churches in the world. 2. My oldest brother is the most diligent boy in the class. 3. In point of¹ studies he is at the head (främst, 310), but in sports he is poorer than most of them. 4. We had the most beautiful weather on our trip to-day; it was less warm than on our former trip. 5. Have you no nearer and better friend in this city than he? No, he is my nearest and best friend. 6. I do not know whether I shall travel first or second class. Would you advise me? 7. If I were you (i ert ställe) I should² rather travel second; that class is more comfortable than our first and only the wealthiest travel first class here. 8. The fastest steamers are not always to be preferred³; a slower and larger steamer rocks less. 9. Don't you think that the interior of this house is much more beautiful than the exterior? Yes, but it is more beautiful than modern (308). The house next to ours is for rent (301, b, note). Why don't you rather rent that? It has many more modern improvements (nutida bekvämligheter).

¹Use impersonal form of gälla. ²Translate så (171, B, 2) skulle jag hellre, etc. ³*att föredraga* (301, c).

VOCABULARY.

en affärsbyggnad , -er, business building	en klass , -er, class
angenäm , -t, agreeable	långsam , -t, slow (not lonesome; to be lonesome=
(en) bekvämlighet , -er, comfort	att ha tråkigt)
bekväm ', comfortable	ett miss'tag , —, mistake
bredvid ', next to, at the side of	modern ' -t, modern
därborta , over there	ett nöje , -n, amusement, pleasure
endast , only	en rest , -er, remainder
europeisk , -t, European	en släkting , -ar, relative
en farbror , -bröder, uncle	snabb , -t, quick, rapid
fattig , -t, poor	ett studium , -er, study
fö'redraga (insep., see draga), prefer	till och med , even
gunga , I, to rock, to swing	tom , -t, empty, vacant
gälla , IIb, to have a value; to be a question of	en tur , -er, trip
hellre , rather	vanligen , usually
i'drott ¹ , -er, sport	en ångare , —, steamboat
en katedral ', -er, cathedral	över huvud taget , on the whole
	en överresa , -or, trip across

LESSON XXIX.

312. A comparison of equality is expressed by lika(så)...som, (just) as...as; or by så...som, so (as)...as, the latter generally after negatives; lika or så is occasionally omitted: han är lika gammal som jag, he is just as old as I; hon är ej så lycklig, som hon brukade vara, she is not as happy as she used to be; han är tapper som ett lejon, he is as brave as a lion.

NOTE. A comparison of equality with adverbs is expressed in the same way; where there is no equality the correlative as...as must be rendered by så...som only: han skriver lika bra som du, he writes as well as you; kom så fort som möjligt, come as soon as possible.

313. The comparison below the positive is formed by using the adverbs mindre, minst (less, least): han är den minst framstående av de tre bröderna, he is the least prominent of the three brothers.

314. The adverb the with a comparative is expressed by dess, desto (sometimes ju); the correlatives the...the by ju (normal order)...dess, desto or ju (inverted order); as, jaså, han kommer, desto bättre, so, he is coming, so much the better; ju längre han stannade här, dess (ju) fattigare blev han, the longer he remained here, the poorer he became.

315. The comparative and the superlative are sometimes used absolutely; the comparative then denotes a rather high degree and the superlative a very high degree; as, en större penningssumma, a rather large sum of money; jag gör det med största nöje, I shall do that with the greatest pleasure; min bästa vän, my dear friend (in speaking or writing to some one) ; käraste du (kära du is perhaps more common), in speaking to very intimate friends.

316. Distributive Superlative. The superlative is often strengthened by the adverb allra (old gen. plural of all) : den allra största, den allra vackraste, the greatest, prettiest of all (the very greatest, prettiest).

Adverbs.

317. The indefinite forms of the neuter singular of most descriptive adjectives can be used as adverbs. Ex.: adj., god, good; adv., gott; adj., vänlig, friendly; adv., vänligt; adj., hastig, rapid; adv., hastigt.

NOTE. Some adverbs are formed from adjectives in -lig by means of the ending -en; trolig-en, probably; möjlig-en, possibly.

318. COMPARISON OF ADVERBS. Adverbs form their degrees of comparison like the adjectives. Very few except those ending in -t can be compared.

Examples:

hövligt	hövligare	hövligast	politely
ädel	ädlare	ädlast	nobly
troget	trogna	trogna	faithfully
tungt	tyngre	tyngst	heavily

319. The following adverbs are also compared:

bra , väl	bättre	bäst	well
gärna	hellre	helst	willingly
illa	värre	värst	badly
nära	närmare	närmast	near
länge	längre	längst	long
före	förr	först	before
fort	fortare	fortast	fast
ofta	oftare	oftast	often
sakta	saktare	saktast	slow
fram	främre	främst	forth

320. The comparative and the superlative of adverbs are invariable. Apparent exceptions are a few idiomatic absolute superlatives; as, de voro i det närmaste ett hundra, they were very nearly one hundred; han kämpade i det längsta, he fought as long as possible; han hälsade mig på det hövligaste, he greeted me most politely; han kom med det snaraste, he came as soon as possible.

321. So also the Swedish equivalent for the English, as...can, could: hon gick det tystaste hon kunde, she walked as quietly as she could; han läste det tydligaste han kunde, he read as plainly as he could (also så tydligt han kunde; note omission of som, as).

322. As...as possible is expressed by så...som möjligt; så snart som möjligt, as soon as possible.

323. The English more and more=allt+the repeated comparative as in English (a single comparative may be used): stormen rasade allt häftigare och häftigare, the storm raged more and more violently.

EXERCISE XXIX.

A. 1. Går du ofta på¹ teatern, Karl? Högst (at the most) fem eller sex gånger om året (338, note). Jag går mycket hellre på föreläsningar och konserter. 2. Konser-ten i går var troligen den mest lyckade (308) sedan säsongens början, salongen var i det närmaste² fullsatt. 3. De olika numren på programmet mottogos med det allra varmaste bifall. 4. Jag tyckte, att fröken Forsell sjöng lika bra som fru Jungstedt, fast den senare är mera om-talad (308). 5. Vad skall ni göra under de stundande helgdagarna? Jag skall avlägga ett kortare (315) besök hos min bror. 6. Hälsa honom på det hjärtligaste² och säg honom, att jag skall skriva till honom med det allra snaraste². 7. Kära du, måste du verkligen resa? Jag är så ledsen; men kom igen så fort du kan (321). 8. Ju oftare du kommer, och ju längre du gör ditt besök, desto bättre, ty du är alltid en mycket välkommen gäst hos oss. 9. Hur går det för Erik i skolan? Icke så bra som det gjorde i början; han var visserligen icke den allra bästa i sin klass, men han var flitigare än nu och gjorde sitt bästa. 10. Nu synes han mera lat än dum (308, note), han arbetar utan det ringaste intresse och är alls icke uppmärksam i klassen. 11. Karl däremot studerar det flitigaste han kan och är främst i sin klass. 12. Jag har hoppats i det längsta², att Erik skulle bli uppflyttad i år, men det troligaste är, att han får sitta kvar.

¹*På* is used in the sense of to in a number of phrases: att gå på teatern, på torget, to go to the theater, to market. ²320.

B. Conversation. 1. Vart går ni helst, på teatern eller på en föreläsning? 2. Var auditoriet vid konserten i går talrikt? 3. Fann ni konserten lyckad? 4. Applåderade åhörarna de olika numren¹? 5. Vem sjöng bäst, fröken Forsell eller fru Jungstedt? 6. När ämnar ni (att) avlägga (ett) besök hos er bror? 7. Har ni skrivit till honom än? 8. Gör en jämförelse (comparison) mellan Eriks och Karls arbete i skolan.

¹Indef. form nummer; one m is dropped in the def. form since the long m-sound is no longer intervocalic.

C. 1. Do you attend the theater oftener now than you used to (do), Carl? 2. No, extremely¹ seldom, and when I do attend, I attend mostly² the opera. 3. I have never before been as occupied as I am now; the more (314) I do, the more there is to do, it seems. 4. Aren't you working a little (274,²) harder than you used to? 5. Perhaps. I wish to have a certain work ready as soon as possible in order to get my vacation. 6. Where do you intend to spend it? At a watering place? 7. No, I have been at watering places several (flera) times before. This summer I prefer to take a trip to northern Sweden. 8. A friend of mine has given me a most (högst) interesting account of the beautiful sceneries of Lapland. 9. Are you going alone? No, we shall be four, perhaps more (flera). 10. Would (skulle) you permit me to go with you if I could be ready as soon as you? 11. With the greatest (315) pleasure, the (314) more we are, the merrier it will be.

D. 1. Is Eric as diligent as he was in the beginning? 2. No, I do not know what is the matter with him, it seems as if he were growing lazier and lazier (323). 3. Is he not here yet? Perhaps he will come a little later. 4. No, he wrote me most politely that he would rather come another time. 5. He sent the most cordial (316) greetings to all his friends. 6. My dear (315) friend, can't you come to see me a little oftener than you do? Come as often as you please (287, 1).

1,000,000. en million

REMARKS ON THE CARDINALS.

325. The cardinals are indeclinable when used as adjectives with the exception of en, which has the neuter ett: det är tjuguett barn i rummet; but tjuguen gossar.

326. When used as nouns they take an s in the genitive but are otherwise indeclinable: de fyras åsikt, the opinion of the four; de adertons sammankomst, the meeting of the eighteen (the Swedish Academy).

NOTE. The numbers, million, milliard, billion, etc., are declined as nouns of the Third Declension: tre millioner människor. Hundra and tusen may also be used substantively and then take the form hundra and tusende with plural in -n: det tjugonde århundradet, the twentieth century; det första tusendet, the first thousand.

327. The form tu is used for två in certain set phrases; such as, på tu man hand, in confidence between two; de unga tu, the engaged or newly married couple; ett, tu, tre (in counting time, also in the sense of suddenly); cf. adv. itu: riva itu, tear in two.

328. Tvenne and trenne are sometimes used for two and three but never in connection with other numerals. Båda and bägge are occasionally used with två for the sake of emphasis: båda två, both; in such expressions as vi båda, de bägge, etc., we two, they two, båda and bägge have the force of numerals.

329. Hundra and tusen are always preceded by ett (in counting ett may be left out): ett hundra femtioåtta; ett tusen ett hundra sextiofem; och, and, is not used between the hundreds and the tens.

330. The forms tretti, fyrty, femti, etc. are used mostly in compounds: femtiåtta, sextitre.

NOTE. Fyrtio is pronounced as if it was written förtio. Aderton is generally pronounced arton.

REMARKS ON THE ORDINALS.

331. The ordinals are used as indeclinable adjectives, except förste(a) and andre(a) which follow the weak declension. They are usually preceded by the prepositive definite article, but may sometimes be used without it: den första, den andra, den tredje; but första dagen (also den första dagen) i veckan är söndagen, the first day of the week is Sunday; det är andra gången han är här, it is the second time he is here.

332. In compound ordinals only the last number takes the ordinal ending, den ett tusen två hundra sextiofjärde.

333. The ordinals take the genitive -s: Karl den tolvtes död, the death of Charles XII.

334. The cardinals are occasionally used instead of the ordinals; these follow the noun: på sidan tio, on page ten.

335. The ordinals are often abbreviated, the last letter or letters being used with the numbers to indicate the ordinal. Ex.: den 5:e, den 8:e; the number may be used alone after the article: den 5 februari.

EXPRESSIONS OF TIME (O'CLOCK).

336. The following phrases illustrate the manner of telling the time of day:

Hur mycket är klockan? what time is it?

Klockan är tio, it is ten o'clock.

Klockan är halv tio, it is half past nine.

Klockan är en kvart över fyra, it is a quarter past four.

Klockan är en kvart före (till, i) fyra, it is a quarter of four.

Klockan är tre kvart på fyra, it is a quarter of four.

Klockan är tjugu minuter före tre, it is twenty minutes of three. *

Klockan är tjugu minuter över tre, it is twenty minutes past three.

Klockan har just slagit fyra, it has just struck four.

På slaget tre, at three o'clock sharp.

Precis tre, at three o'clock sharp.

Vid niotiden, about nine o'clock.

Fram åt tiotiden, towards ten o'clock.

Han kom klockan tio, he came at ten o'clock.

EXPRESSIONS OF MEASURE AND PRICE.

337. After nouns of measure the thing measured is used without preposition: hon köpte fyra meter svart tyg, she bought four meters of black cloth; giv mig ett glas friskt vatten, give me a glass of fresh water.

338. After an expression of price a noun of measure requires the def. postpositive article instead of the indef. article in English: detta tyget kostar tre kronor metern, this cloth costs three crowns a meter; tio kronor stycket, ten crowns a piece.

NOTE. This distributive use of the def. article is found after other expressions of quantity, but the noun is then preceded by a preposition (generally om, på, or i): två gånger om året, two times a year; han förtjänar trettio kronor i veckan, he earns thirty crowns a week.

EXERCISE XXX.

A. 1. Practice orally. En gång ett är ett, två gånger ett är två, etc. En gång två är två, två gånger två är fyra, $3 \times 2 = 6$, $4 \times 2 = 8$, etc. 2. Read in Swedish: $2 \times 12 = 24$, $3 \times 12 = 36$, $4 \times 8 = 32$, $6 \times 7 = 42$, $7 \times 9 = 63$, $7 \times 10 = 70$. 3. Addera 1,563, 2,348, 11,213. 4. Subtrahera 15,113 från 19,213. 5. Multiplicera 580 med 213. 6. Give the different expressions for: It is a quarter past 12¹; 12.30; 1.45; 3.15; 4; 5.25. 7. Name the numbers 40, 41, 50, 53, 64, 67, 78, 89, 94, 100, 104, 205, 209, 371, 498, 1,000, 1,001, 75,012, 2,098,427.

¹At a quarter past twelve, klockan en kvart efter tolv; klockan is often abbreviated to kl.: kl. 12.15.

B. I denna stad bo 2,656,342 människor, men den är ändå ej på långt när så stor som London, ty där bo nära 7,000,000 människor eller nära tre gånger så många. 2. Hur många invånare har staten Minnesota? Omkring 2,000,000, tror jag. 3. Minnesotas befolkning är ej vidare¹ talrik, när man tar i betraktande, att det är en av de största staterna i Unionen. 4. Med vilket tåg resa vi till Stockholm i morgon? Det går ett tåg ... (a quarter past seven), om vi stiga upp ... (at six or half past five), så kunde vi äta frukost på hotellet. 5. Säg till upppassaren att vi önska räkningen. Här är den, jag fick den för några minuter sedan. 6. Den är väl tämligen så hög, förmodar jag. Åh nej, icke så värst, 22 kronor och 37 öre, 10 kronor för rummet, 8 kronor och 50 öre för supén och frukosten och resten för diverse småsaker. 7. Då äro naturligtvis icke drickspengarna till betjäningen inbegripna? Nej, dessa får man betala särskilt. 8. Hur mycket belöpa de sig till? 2 kr. eller 2.50² räcker. 9. Skynda dig, är du snäll, annars försumma vi tåget. 10. Det brådskar ej, vi ha ännu en kvarts timme på oss (to spare), innan det går; klockan har just slagit sju. 11. Jag har köpt en hel del (en massa) saker på torget i dag: 1 kilo mejerismör, 4 tjog ägg, en skinka på fyra kilo och diverse grönsaker. 12. Vad kostar smöret och äggen? Smöret kostar 2.50 kilot³ och äggen 1.50 tjoget.

³Also per kilo, per is abbreviated to pr.

C. 1. In the city of London live almost 7,000,000 people, or more than three times as many as (312) in our state. 2. Was your bill at the hotel very high? No, it was not as high as I expected; it amounted (B, 8) to about thirty-six crowns, the tips not included¹. 3. Did you have breakfast at the hotel before you started? No, we only had time to drink a cup of coffee and eat a sandwich. 4. Did you oversleep? Yes, we slept to a quarter past six and the train was² to leave at ten minutes past seven. 5. How many minutes do we have to spare (B, 10) before the train leaves? 6. Let me see, only fourteen minutes; it is nine minutes of five by (enligt) my watch. Hurry, please, or we shall miss the train. 7. (In a store.) What can I do for you? I should like to look at some view cards of² Stockholm. 8. We have cards at (till) various prices. This kind is ten öre apiece (338) or a crown a dozen, that, five öre apiece, or fifty öre a dozen. 9. I owe you three crowns and seventy-five öre, I believe; here is a fifty-crown bill, can you change it? 10. Yes, here are forty-six crowns and twenty-five öre in change (tillbaka). 11. How much is a crown? A crown is one hundred öre; in American money a crown is about twenty-eight cents. 12. I wish to change one hundred and forty crowns into (i) American money.

¹Use the plur. of the p. part. of inbegripa. ²*Skulle*. ³Use över or translate the whole expression stockholmsvyer.

2. icke på långt när, not by far.
3. icke vidare mycket, not very much.
4. utan vidare, without further ado.
5. Vad behagas? What do you wish? What can I do for you?
6. Jag är skyldig honom tio kronor, I owe him ten ten crowns.

LESSON XXXI.

The Numerals (Continued).

NUMERAL FORMATIONS.

339. From the cardinals are formed:

(a) The variatives by the use of slags (the genitive of slag, meaning kind): två slags, two kinds of; tre slags, three kinds of; många slags blommor, many kinds of flowers.

(b) The multiplicatives by the addition of dubbel (neut. dubbelt, pl. dubbla) for the adjective and dubbelt for the adverb; more rarely by the addition of -faldig (-t, -a) for the adjective and -falt for the adverb: dubbel, double; tredubbel, triple; fyr-dubbel (neut. and adv.), quadruple; kragar av fyr-dubbel linne, collars of four-ply linen; dubbel så många, twice as many; mångfaldig, manifold; vetet avkastar trettiofalt, the wheat yields thirty-fold.

(c) The iteratives by the use of gång, time; plur. *gång*er: en gång, once or one time; *två gång*er, twice or two times; *tre gång*er två är lika med sex, three times two equals six.

(d) The distributives by the repetition of the numerals: en och en, one by one, one at a time; två och två, by twos, two at the time; de gingo två och två, they went by twos, in pairs.

(e) The collectives by suffixing the word tal to the numeral:

1. To denote a decade or a century; thus, 80-talet, the eighties; han går på fyrtiotalet, he is in the forties; 1500-talet, the sixteenth century (1500—1599).

2. To denote an approximate number: ett tiotal, about ten; ett tjugutal, about twenty.

NOTE. Observe expressions like *hundratal*s, hundreds, *tusental*s, thousands; *dussintal*s, many dozen; tusental människor voro närvarande, thousands of people were present.

340. From the ordinals are formed:

(a) Fractional nouns by compounding the ordinal with the noun del, part (plur. delar): en tredjedel, a third; två tion(de)delar, two tenths; en halv, one half; en tjugutvåandel, a twenty-second part; so also en tretti(o)tvåandel, etc.

NOTE. Half, halv and hälft. Halv is used as the denominator of fractions and as adjective, otherwise hälft is used: ett halvt dussin, half a dozen; ena hälften av huset, one half of the house.

(b) Fractional adjectives by prefixing halv to the next higher unit: halvannan, one and a half; halvtredje, two and a half, etc.

NOTE. Only the first is in common use.

(c) Ordinal adverbs by using the preposition för with the ordinal: för det första, first; för det andra, secondly, etc.

(d) Distributives by prefixing var to the ordinal: varannan (neut. vartannat), every other; var tredje (neut. vart tredje), every third: varannan dag ha vi räkning, we have mathematics every other day.

341. EXPRESSIONS OF DATE.

(a) In giving the day of the month the ordinal is used without any preposition; as, det är den sjätte augusti i dag, to-day is the sixth of August. In dating a letter the date is placed before the name of the month, not after, as in English: Boston den 5:e (or 5) oktober.

Observe the following date idioms:

Vad ha vi för ett datum i dag? What date is it to-day?

Det är den femtonde juni i dag. To-day is the fifteenth of June.

I morgon är det den sextonde. To-morrow will be the sixteenth.

Vad för en dag är det i dag? What day (of the week) is it to-day?

Det är onsdag i dag. To-day is Wednesday.

(b) The date of the year is given by the cardinal number often preceded by år, in the year of, especially in the case of historical dates; as, Napoleon dog år 1821, Napoleon died in the year of 1821.

342. With the names of the days of the week the prepositions på (on), om (about), and i (in) are used; på requires the def. form, om the indefinite and i the genitive of the indefinite: på måndagen voro vi borta, on Monday we were away; i måndags voro vi borta, last Monday we were away; på söndagskvällen voro vi i kyrkan, on Sunday evening we were in church; i söndags kväll for han till New York, last Sunday evening he left for New York; om lördag, next Saturday; om söndag kväll, next Sunday evening.

NOTE 1. The day following i is the last day of that name, while the day after på is any day of that name in the past or future; the day after om is the next day of that name (for other uses of i and om see 338, note, and 343).

2. På followed by the def. sing. and om followed by the def. plur. may denote indefinite or recurrent time: på söndagen borde man gå i kyrkan, on Sunday one ought to go to church; vad gör ni om söndagarna? What do you do on Sundays?

343. Note such expressions of time as:

på morgonen, in the morning;
på förmiddagen, in the forenoon;
på eftermiddagen, in the afternoon;
på middagen, at noon;
vid middagen, at noon;
på kvällen, in the evening;
på natten, in the night;
vid midnatt, at midnight;
i kväll, to-night;
i går kväll, last night;
i morgon kväll, to-morrow night;
i morse, this morning;
i går morse, yesterday morning;
i morgon, to-morrow;
i övermorgon, the day after to-morrow;

i morgon middag, to-morrow at noon;

344. (a) In addressing letters the street name is written as one word with -gatan (def. form of gata, street); the house number follows the street name:

Herr Carl Lind,
Storgatan 8, 4 tr.,
Stockholm.

NOTE. tr. (trappa or trappor, stair or stairs) signifies story.

(b) In giving an address, i nummer + the number generally precedes the street name: han bor i nummer 11 Linnégatan (also i 11:an [elvan] Linnégatan), he lives at number 11 Linné Street.

EXERCISE XXXI.

4. Supply in Swedish whatever is indicated.

1. Hur stor del av ett år är en månad? En månad är en tolvtedel av ett år. 2. Hur många ... (twelfths) innehåller en hel. En hel innehåller ... ($\frac{1}{12}$) eller ... ($\frac{2}{24}$) eller ... ($\frac{100}{1000}$), alltså går det ... ($\frac{1}{12}$ etc.) på en hel.

3. Huru adderar man ... ($\frac{1}{3}$) och ... ($\frac{3}{4}$)? Man förvandlar båda bråken till ... (twelfths) och adderar de båda täljarna. 4. Hur mycket blir det? Det blir ... ($\frac{13}{12}$). 5. Vad gör man sedan? Man dividerar täljaren med nämnaren och erhåller ... ($1\frac{1}{12}$). 6. Vad för¹ datum ha vi i dag? Det är ... (the sixth) november i dag. 7. I dag ha vi sålunda årsdagen av Gustav Adolfs död vid Lützen, han stupade ... (the sixth) november ... (in the year of) 1632. 8. Vid vilken tid på dagen stupade konungen? ... (in the morning), tror jag. 9. I dag fira vi pappas ... (50th) födelsedag; han föddes ... (the ninth of) augusti 1861. 10. I går för en vecka sedan kom min bror hem från Tyskland för att delta i firandet. 11. Sverige är mer än ... (twice) så stort som Minnesota och har nästan ... (three times) så många invånare. 12. Hur långa äro ferierna vid den svenska folkskolan? Skolan slutar i mitten på juni och börjar igen i slutet på augusti. 13. Sommarferierna räcka alltså omkring ... ($2\frac{1}{2}$) månader. 14. Vilken är den genaste vägen, den till vänster eller den till höger, bägge leda till staden, eller hur? 15. Låt oss ta vägen till vänster, den är bortemot en och en halv kilometer kortare. Den andra är alltså mer än dubbelt så lång. 16. Vad ha vi för en dag i dag? Det är fredag i dag, och om (342, note) lördag måste vi ha det här arbetet färdigt för att kunna ta i tu² (327) med något nytt i början på nästa vecka. 17. Har du varit i herr Lindgrens trädgård nyligen? Ja, jag var där i onsdags. 18. Rosorna äro utspruckna; de äro de allra härligaste rosor, jag någonsin har sett, dessutom har han många andra slags blommor.

¹The indef. article may be omitted, also vilket datum or vad är det för datum, vi, etc. ²*Att ta itu med något*, to go to work with something.

B. Conversation. 1. Vad är er brors adress nu? 2. På vilken våning bor han? 3. Han ämnar ju att flytta, vet ni när? 4. Vad ha vi för datum i dag? 5. Vad är det för datum i morgon om en vecka? 6. När firar er bror sin födelsedag? 7. Vilket år och vilken dag är han född? 8. När föddes Gustav den andre Adolf? 9. När stupade Karl den tolfte?

C. 1. Have you studied fractions? Yes, we are studying (290, note) them now in school. 2. Can you tell me how to multiply¹ two-fifths by one-fourth? I multiply the numerators and the denominators together and the result is two-twentieths. 3. How many units are there in seven-sixths? In seven-sixths there is one unit and one-sixth over. 4. Why are you in such a hurry²? I am going³ to the station to meet my sister. I must be there at a quarter of ten and it is half past nine now. 5. Is she coming so soon, it is only the 18th to-day; a week from to-day is Christmas. 6. Yes, I know, but my birthday is (on) the 20th and we shall have a family festival at home. 7. How old are you? I am in (on) my 20th year. 8. You are the oldest in the family, I suppose. No, my sister Mary is a year and a half older than I, and I have a brother who is almost twice as old as I. 9. I hope that you will pardon (use pres.) my delay in writing⁴, but I received your letter, which was dated Monday, August 4th, only (först) this morning. 10. You have been away very long, haven't you? Not so very long⁵, I left the city at the beginning of August and came back at the end of September; so I was away a little over a month and a half⁶. 11. Does your brother have the same address as (som) before? No, he has moved; now he lives at number 13 King's Street.

¹How to followed by an infinitive must be rendered by a clause: here hur jag skall multiplicera or hur man multiplicerar. ²To be in a hurry, att ha brått or bråttom. ³Future with skall. ⁴Translate att jag har dröjt med att skriva. ⁵*Ikke så värst länge*; värst is colloquial. ⁶*En och en halv månad*.

LESSON XXXII.

Prepositions.

345. Prepositions govern the objective case which, except for a few of the pronouns, is the same as the nominative.

NOTE. Till and i govern the genitive in a few idiomatic phrases: till säng to (in) bed; i somras, last summer.

346. The following are the most important prepositions in Swedish:

av , of, off	nära , near, close by
bakom , behind	nedanför , below
bland , among	nedför , down
efter , after, behind	ovan , above
enligt , according to	ovanför , above
från , ifrån , from	på , å , on
framför , in front of	sedan , since

mellan , emellan , between	åt , to, for
mot , emot , against, to-	över , above
ward

347. The following expressions with prepositional value are of common occurrence:

med avseende på, with reference to med hänsyn till, in regard to i kraft av, by virtue of i or till följd av, in consequence of, because of med anledning av, on account of i trots av (trots), in spite of oaktat, in spite of längs, längsmed, along rörande

angående

beträffande

} concerning i stället för, instead of undantagandes, excepting för....skull, for the sake of för.... sedan, ago

NOTE. För....skull and för....sedan take the expressions which they govern between the two parts. För....skull requires the genitive case: för min fars skull, for the sake of my father; för hans skull, for his sake; för ett år sedan, för länge sedan, a year ago, long ago.

USES OF THE PREPOSITIONS.

348. The following are the uses of some of the most common prepositions.

Av, of, off, from, by, for:

(a) Titles: konungen av Sverige, the king of Sweden.

LESSON XXXIV.

357. På, on, upon, at, in, for, to.

(a) Place in which: boken ligger på bordet, the book lies on the table; jag mötte honom på gatan (not i gatan); I met him in the street; han är på sitt rum, he is in his room; ett hål på rocken, a hole in the coat; på landet, in the country.

(b) Place into which: gå på torget, på posten, på teatern, to go to market, to the post office, to the theater; gå ut på fältet, på landet, to go into the field, into the country.

NOTE. Till teatern means only to the theater as a place; på teatern implies attendance; att skicka till posten, to send to the post office; att skicka på posten, to mail.

(c) Direction toward an object: han riktade sin kamera på mig, he pointed his camera at me; jag blickade (såg) på honom, I looked at him; han syftade på mig, he alluded to me.

(d) Time during which, for how long: han har rest till Sverige på ett år, he has gone to Sweden for a year; han har ej skrivit på en vecka, he has not written for a week.

(e) Time at which: på morgonen, in the morning; på våren, in the spring.

NOTE. Om morgonen, om våren, etc. is much more indefinite: we must say i dag på morgonen, this morning (not om morgonen), see om.

(f) Response and expectation after certain verbs:

1. Response: svara på, to answer; höra på, to listen to; giva akt på, to pay attention to: hör på vad jag säger, listen to what I say; svara på mitt brev, answer my letter.

2. Expectation: hoppas på, to hope for; lita på, to rely upon; räkna på, to count on, etc.: jag hoppas på regn, I hope for rain; jag räknar på din hjälp; I count on your help; tänk på det! Think of it! jag väntar på honom, I am waiting for him.

(d) Manner: under tårar omtalade han vad som hänt, weeping (with tears) he related what had happened; under skratt och skämt, amidst laughing and joking.

EXERCISE XXXIV.

A. 1. På¹ många år har ej en så förfärlig järnvägsolycka hänt som i går; till följd av en felsignal urspårade nattsnälltåget mellan Stockholm och Uppsala. 2. Min kusin var bland passagerarne, han blev räddad på² ett underbart sätt. 3. Vad väntar du på³? Jag väntar på att få⁴ en växel å ett tusen kronor inlöst, som jag utställde på denna bank genom⁵ dess korrespondent i Chicago. 4. Jag har mycket litet kontanta pengar på mig, men jag har ett kreditbrev på denna bank till belopp av tio tusen kronor. 5. Har du tagit ut⁶ alla dina pengar? Nej, jag har till⁷ princip att alltid låta en mindre summa innestå; jag räknar på att kunna sätta in⁶ mera senare. 6. Har du reda på att ogynnsamma rykten rörande denna bank under de senaste veckorna varit i omlopp. 7. Nu vänta vi ej längre⁸ på honom, utan⁹ gå till bords; på honom kan man då aldrig räkna. 8. Vad ha vi till middag i dag, Anna? Soppa på höns, lammstek m. m. (etc.) Maken till middag ha vi ej haft på¹⁰ länge. 9. Vem och vad är den där unge mannen, som vi träffade på¹¹ bjudningen i går? Han är en son till dr Lidén och är lärare till yrket. 10. Lägg det här brevet på posten, så är du snäll. Du har glömt att sätta frimärke på. 11. Det var bra att du gav akt därpå. Adressaten hade nog blivit ond på¹² mig, om han fått¹³ betala lösen.

¹357, d. ²357, h. ³357, f. ⁴Få can often be translated by get. ⁵351, c. Generally separated; but de uttagna pengarna, de insatta pengarna; uttagare, insättare. ⁷358, c. ⁸Translate, any longer. ⁹Adversative conjunction; translates but after a negative. ¹⁰357, d. ¹¹357, a. ¹²357, a, f. ¹³Få, have to.

B. Conversation. 1. Var gårdagens järnvägsolycka obetydlig? 2. Varigenom urspårade tåget? 3. Vem befann sig på tåget vid tillfället? 4. Omkom han också? 5. Vad belöper sig er växel till? 6. Varför behöver ni ej bära mycket kontanta pengar på er? 7. Varför låter ni en mindre summa innestå i banken? 8. Varför vore det säkrare att taga ut allt, som ni satt in? 9. Varför har ni ej gått till bords förut? 10. Vad är er tanke¹ om middagen?

¹Thought is here equivalent to opinion.

C. What do you think of¹ the railroad accident which happened yesterday afternoon? It is the most serious for² many years. 2. My brother, who is on a trip to Narvik, was among the passengers, but was saved. 3. How? He had gone into³ the dining car and this was the only one of the cars which did not derail. 4. The accident happened because of carelessness on⁴ the part of the employees. 5. Could you tell me where Stockholms Enskilda Bank is?

I have a draft on it for⁵ one thousand crowns. 6. All the banks are closed at three o'clock sharp⁶ and you have only five minutes to spare⁷. 7. I must have the money, for I have very little cash about me. During⁸ all my travels I have never been so short of money. 8. I believe that I must turn to⁹ you and ask for help. You can count on me. 9. I shall gladly¹⁰ advance the amount of the draft for you; to-morrow they will¹¹ cash it in the bank. 10. Now we have waited long enough for¹² him and the dinner is getting cold. He seems to have a habit¹³ of always coming late. 11. What is your opinion about the book? According to my opinion it is badly written. 12. How is he as to¹⁴ character? I observed only one fault in¹⁵ him while he was under my supervision: too great a love of¹⁶ money. 13. Is your coffee sweet enough? Take a little more sugar. No, thank¹⁷ you. I have not used sugar with¹⁸ my coffee for many years. 14. Mr. Lind will surely be envious of Carl when he hears that they have elected Carl chairman¹⁹.

LESSON XXXV.

360. Vid, at, by, on, etc.:

(a) Vicinity: slaget vid Breitenfeld, the battle of Breitenfeld; vid bordet, at the table; vid stranden, by the shore; vid Stockholm, in the neighborhood of Stockholm; fästad vid väggen, fastened to the wall. Also figuratively: fästa sig vid någon, fix one's affections on somebody; vid lampan, by the lamp.

(b) Time: vid jul, at Christmas; vid femtio års ålder, at fifty years of age; vid första tillfälle, at the first opportunity; vid läsandet av detta brev, at the reading of this letter.

(c) Condition: vara vid god hälsa, to be in good health; vid stark hetta, at a great heat; vid gott lynne, in good humor; han är vid armén, he is in the army.

(d) Contact: taga vid handen, to take by the hand; röra vid såret, touch the wound; used thus with verbs like hålla, to hold; gripa, to seize; leda, to lead; föra, to conduct; draga, to pull.

(e) Penalty: vid livsstraff, at the penalty of death; vid tjugu kronors böter, at a fine of twenty crowns.

361. Åt, toward, to:

(a) Direction=toward, in the direction of, to. In this sense åt does not necessarily imply attainment of the goal; the idea of direction is often strengthened by till placed after the governed word: han har gått åt floden till, he has gone toward the river; kasta ett ben åt hunden, throw a bone to the dog; han sköt stolen åt sidan, he pushed the chair to the side; han såg inte ens åt mig, he didn't even look at me (in my direction).

(b) Often before an indirect object (also till): jag gav boken åt Karl, I gave the book to Carl.

(c) Cause (often with a touch of ridicule or contempt): att skratta åt, to laugh at; det är så man kan gråta åt det, it is enough to make one weep.

362. Å, on, is used in a few common phrases; as, å andra handen, on the other hand; å ena sidan, on the one side; en växel å femtio kronor, a draft for fifty crowns; å hans vägnar, in his behalf. When the expression is literal, på must be used: på ena sidan gatan, one one side of the street.

363. Över, over, above, across, beyond, about, etc.:

(a) Place (literal and figurative)=over, above, beyond: ett stort moln hänger över berget, a big cloud hangs over the mountain; läraren står över sina lärjungar, the teacher is above his pupils; över havet, beyond the sea; han är nog över trettio år, I think he is above thirty. Related to this construction is över after such verbs as regera, to rule; råda, to hold sway (primarily to advise); segra, to gain a victory: Karl den tolfte regerade över ett vidsträckt rike, Charles XII. ruled over an extensive realm; han segrade över sina fiender, he was victorious over his enemies.

(b) Direction=over, across: bron, som leder över floden, har rasat, the bridge which leads across the river has collapsed. Related to this construction are expressions like han har rest till New York över Chicago, he has gone to New York by way of Chicago.

(c) Excess: denna sak kostar över en krona, this thing costs over a crown; det går över mitt förstånd, that surpasses my understanding.

(d) Duration: han blev hos oss över sommaren, he remained with us during the summer; över natten, over night.

(e) Cause, topic=about, of, concerning, on, at:

1. With verbs like skriva, to write; tala, to speak; yttra sig, express oneself: han skrev, talade över ett svårt ämne, he wrote, spoke on a difficult topic; han yttrade sig över dagens frågor, he expressed himself concerning the questions of the day.

NOTE. Om used with similar verbs may have a different meaning: att tala om någon, to speak of somebody (make a mention of), skriva om, to write about.

2. With verbs denoting feeling: sörja över, to mourn; klaga över, to complain of; glädja sig över, to rejoice at; vredgas över, to become angry at; förtvivla över, to despair of.

3. With adjectives denoting feeling: glad över, glad of; ond över, angry at; ledsen över, sorry on account of.

NOTE. We say in Swedish, ond på en person, angry with a person, but ond över en sak, angry at a thing.

EXERCISE XXXV.

4. 1. Din far är visst ej vid synnerligen god hälsa nu för tiden. Nej det är han inte, men han klagar aldrig över något, och kan inte förmås¹ att tala vid en läkare. 2. Jag har sagt åt² honom mer än en gång, att vid hans höga ålder och med hans svaga kroppskonstitution måste han vårda sig om sin hälsa bättre. 3. Ser ni anslaget därborta vid gången? Det där under trädet med orden: "Det ligger i (is to) allmänhetens intresse att skona planteringarna?" 4. Ja! Det är ett av de många sätt, på vilka svensken uttrycker det amerikanska "Keep off the grass." Han fäster³ stor vikt vid hövlighet. 5. Under min vistelse i Sverige har jag ofta förvånats över den stora hövlighet, varmed⁴ svenskarna vid alla tillfällen bemöta varandra. 6. Har ni varit vid⁵ Skansen, det berömda friluftsmuseet, som Hazelius har upprättat? Vi svenskar äro med rätta⁶ stolta däröver. 7. Nej, ännu har jag ej haft tid, men vid⁷ första tillfälle skall jag gå dit. 8. Doktor White, en av mina vänner i London, höll för ej så länge sedan ett högst intressant föredrag över⁸ Skansen. 9. Har du träffat Karl? Han har frågat efter dig. Ja, jag träffade honom nyss ute på vägen; han gick åt staden till⁹, men sade, att han skulle vara tillbaka vid⁷ niotiden. 10. Har Klara blivit färdig med sin läxa än? Nej, hon var så trött, stackars liten¹⁰, att hon somnade över boken.

¹*Få* and förmå are often used in the sense of make, cause: få någon att tro, to make somebody believe; han kan icke förmås, he can't be made to; there is more compulsion implied in få. ²361, b; also till. ³*Att fästa vikt (avseende) vid*, attach importance to; att lägga vikt på, lay stress on. ⁴Note the prepositional compound. ⁵Also på. ⁶*Med rätta*, rightly. ⁷360, b. ⁸363, e. ⁹361, a. ¹⁰Note the irregularities of liten, neut., litet, def., lille, -a, pl. små.

B. 1. What shall¹ we do to-night? I am going to² the theater; will you go with me? 2. No, I think I shall pass the evening over my books. I am in³ such a humor to-night that I could not laugh at⁴ anything. 3. I know that you are tired of⁵ the theater; I am not very fond⁶ of it either; you know how I have often expressed myself concerning⁷ it. 4. At what time does the play begin? It begins as usual at eight o'clock, I suppose⁸. 5. Do you intend to remain here over Christmas? No, I am going home for⁹ Christmas. 6. Where is your home? You have mentioned it to¹⁰ me before, but I have forgotten it. I live in Djurs-holm, close by¹¹ Stockholm. 7. Is not Djursholm a suburb of Stockholm? Yes, and it has become famous by reason of the many prominent men that have lived there. 8. Victor Rydberg died there not so very long ago and all¹² Sweden mourned his death. 9. Although I have traveled across the ocean many times, the rolling and pitching of the ship always makes¹³ me sick. 10. How quickly we glide over the water! We shall¹⁴ soon be at the mouth of the Elbe. 11. Were you at¹⁵ the spring festival at Skansen yesterday? No, on account of the bad weather we all stayed at home in the afternoon. We are so sorry¹⁶ that we could not go there¹⁷. 12. Were you not out at all? Yes, during the evening the weather got better and we went to Berns and listened to¹⁸ the music. 13. Your eyes look¹⁹ very sore. Yes, I am quite worried about²⁰ them. 14. Have you consulted an eye doctor about them? Yes, and he told me to study only by daylight. 15. Take the little one²¹ by the hand, he may be frightened at the sight of horses.

¹Future with skall. Why? ²357, b. ³360, c. ⁴361, c. ⁵357, g. ⁶*Fästad vid, håller ej vidare på*, etc. ⁷363, e, also angående. ⁸Use an adverb. ⁹358, e, vid jul, at Christmas. ¹⁰350, a. ¹¹*Invid (nära invid), i närheten av*. ¹²What is the Swedish equivalent for all used in the sense of whole? ¹³What order? ¹⁴Present. Why not future with skall? ¹⁵360, a. ¹⁶What preposition? In this case the preposition may also be left out. ¹⁷*Here and there* used in the sense of hither and thither are hit och dit: kom hit, not kom här. ¹⁸357, f. 1. ¹⁹*Se* + what? ²⁰363, e, 2. ²¹*Den* + what form of liten?

Adverbs.

364. Origin. With respect to their origin adverbs may be divided into three groups:

(1) Primitive words and compounds of such as nu, now; fort, fast; blott, only; ja, jö, yes; nej, no; ej, icke, inte, not; där, there; här, here; därav, of or from that; härtil, to this, hereto.

(2) The neuter singular of the indefinite form of adjectives: beskedligt (from beskedlig), modestly; elakt (from elak), wickedly; klart (from klar), clearly; hoppfullt (from hoppfull), hopefully.

(3) Derivatives formed by means of a suffix: bara (from bar), only; möjligen (from möjlig), possibly; någorlunda, tolerably.

365. Derivative Suffixes. The usual adverbial suffixes are:

(a) -a: borta (bort), away; hemma (hem), at home.

Note the following idiomatic expressions: att vara borta, to be out; att vara hemma, to be at home.

(b) -deles: alldeles, entirely, quite; framdeles, later on; särdeles, especially.

Note the following idiomatic expressions: alldeles riktigt, quite right; jag mår alldeles ypperligt, I am feeling very well; jag tycker ej så särdeles om honom, I can't say I like him very well; vi få se framdeles, we shall see later.

(c) -e (in some adverbs of time and place): länge, long; framme, in front, at hand, at the destination; inne, in; uppe, up; ute, out, etc.

Note the following idiomatic expressions: i morgon äro vi framme, to-morrow we shall be at our destination; har du boken framme? Do you have the book at hand? I dag var jag uppe tidigt, to-day I was up early; han är ute och går, åker, he is taking a walk, ride.

(d) -en (from adjectives in -lig): dagligen, daily; möjligen, possibly; troligen, probably, etc.

(e) -ledes: således, thus; ävenledes, likewise.

(f) -ligen: bitterligen, bitterly; stortligen, greatly; svårligen, hardly; nyligen, recently.

(g) -lunda (an old genitive of the Old Swedish lund, manner, disposition): annorlunda, in any other way; ingalunda, by no means; någorlunda, tolerably.

(h) -s, -es (originally a genitive, generally in compound adverbs, see 365, b, e, and 366, note 2): alls in alls icke or icke alls, not at all; någonstans, anywhere; hoptals, in great numbers; tidtals, at times; tjogtals, by the score; hundratals, by hundreds.

(i) -vis (vis=English wise): lyckligtvis, fortunately; möjligtvis, possibly; troligtvis, probably; styckvis, piecemeal; delvis, partly.

366. Compound adverbs are usually composed of prepositions and adverbs. A very common form of adverb compound is här, here, or där, there, + a preposition: här i, in this, or that; där till, to this, or that; här består skillnaden, the difference consists in this; därav följer, att...., from this it follows (or results) that...., etc.

NOTE 1. Här and där are also prefixed to many adverbs of place to form extremely common compounds: däruppe, up there, upstairs; därborta, over there; därhemma, at (my, your, his, etc.) home; därinne, in there, inside, etc.

2. Another form of adverb compound sometimes met with consists of a noun generally in the genitive case preceded by some other part of speech (see also 365): avsidet, apart; halvvägs, half-way; liggdags (pronounced daks), bedtime (also hur dags? at what time?); någonstädes, somewhere; utomhus, outdoors.

367. Position and comparison of adverbs have already been discussed.

368. The functions of the adverb are practically the same as in English.

369. The following examples illustrate the idiomatic uses of certain adverbs and adverbial expressions:

Allt: Karl kunde allt vara flitigare, Carl could certainly be more diligent; han har allt bedragit dig, I am sure he has deceived you.

Alltför, för: han är alltför sträng, he is much too strict; du kommer för sent, you come too late.

Bara: om jag bara hade tid! If I only had time! Kom du hit bara! Just come here (threat); om ni behöver något, så bara kom till mig, if you need anything, just come to me; bara ett ögonblick, just a moment.

Ens (in questions and after negatives): han har icke ens skrivit till sin mor, he hasn't even written to his mother.

För all (för ingen) del: kom för all del, innan jag reser, come by all means before I leave; gör det för all del icke, by all means, don't do it; jag vill för ingen del såra hans känslor, I would by no means wound his feelings.

En gång: han har varit här en gång, tror jag, he has been here once, I believe; han kommer en och annan gång, he comes now and then; det levde en gång en konung, once upon a time there was a king; han skriver inte en gång till mig, he does not even write to me.

Gärna: jag äter gärna fisk, I am fond of fish; jag skulle gärna göra det, I should gladly do it; jag ville gärna ha litet mera kött, I should like a little more meat; han vill nog hellre (comp. of gärna) vila sig, I think he would prefer to rest.

Heller: min bror var icke trött, och icke jag heller, icke heller jag, my brother was not tired, and I was not tired either, neither was I.

Inte, icke, ej: of the negative adverbs inte is used most frequently in conversation. Note such emphatic expressions as:

alldeles icke, by no means; inte (icke) alls, alls (icke) inte, not at all; inte ett grand, inte en smul, not a bit; inte det ringaste, inte det allra minsta, not in the least.

Ju: du gör det ju? You are sure to do it? Han är ju min far, he is my father, you know; det kunde jag ju göra, I suppose I could do that.

Nog: han kommer nog, he will very likely come; det kan nog vara sant, it may possibly be true; nog borde du ha lytt din far, I think you ought to have obeyed your father; jag ville nog gärna gå med, men jag har inte tid, I should indeed like to go along, but I do not have time.

Till: giv mig en kopp till, är ni snäll, give me another cup, please; huru många till? How many more?

Väl¹: ni är väl trött, I suppose you are tired; det är väl sant, that is no doubt true; lat är han väl, men ej dum, he is lazy, to be sure, but not stupid.

¹*Väl* has almost the same meaning as nog; both denote supposition; nog is more subjective, has a ring of concern and sincerity which väl lacks.

EXERCISE XXXVI.

1. 1. Det hände en gång, att en skomakares hustru blev allvarligt sjuk. 2. Hennes man hade gärna kallat¹ en skicklig läkare, men han hade alls ingenting, varmed han kunde betala en sådan och befann sig alltså i stor nöd. 3. Han kände nog en framstående läkare, som bodde mitt² emot (tvärs öfver gatan) i ett stort, vackert hus, men han visste också, att denne skulle begära ganska mycket för sin behandling. 4. Han överlade saken länge för³ sig själv och kom slutligen på följande tanke. 5. Han gick nämligen till läkaren och bad honom att⁴ besöka hans⁵ hustru. 6. "Har ni då⁶ något att betala mig med?" frågade läkaren. 7. "Tyvärr ej så mycket", svarade skomakaren, "men jag ger er gärna allt vad jag har, om ni bara botar min hustru." 8. "Under femtio kronor, åtager jag mig icke er hustrus behandling, och ni förstår ju, att ni måste betala, antingen jag botar henne eller icke." 9. Skomakaren betänkte sig icke länge, så mycket pengar hade han väl inte, men det gällde ju hans sjuka hustru därhemma, och någon utväg funnes⁷ nog. 10. "Kom bara", sade han, "och jag betalar, vad ni begär, antingen ni botar henne eller bringar henne om livet." 11. Läkaren åtog sig den sjuka fruns behandling, men denna blev allt värre och värre⁸ och dog slutligen. 12. Strax därpå⁹ begärde läkaren sitt honorar av skomakaren. 13. "Botade ni min hustru" frågade denne. "Olyckligtvis icke", svarade läkaren. 14. "Ni bragte henne väl ej om livet", fortsatte skomakaren. Läkaren protesterade naturligtvis däremot. 15. "Ja, då kan jag alls icke inse, att jag är skyldig er något. 16. Dessa voro ju de två villkor, på vilka jag lovade att betala er."

¹Would have liked to. ²Ex. XXXII, C, Note 12. ³350, h. ⁴May be omitted. ⁵Honom referring to läkare is the subject of the infinitive, hence hans and not sin. ⁶Translate: But do you have, etc. ⁷Translate: and there would probably be, etc. ⁸Note allt plus repeated comparative. ⁹366, note 1.

B. Conversation. 1. Vem insjuknade, skomakaren eller hans hustru? 2. Varför hämtade han icke en läkare med detsamma. 3. Fanns det någon skicklig läkare i närheten? 4. Varför tvekade skomakaren att hämta honom? 5. Vilken bön riktade skomakaren till läkaren? 6. Vad ville denne först veta, innan han åtog sig den sjuka fruns behandling? 7. Var denna läkare barmhärtig? 8. Vad lovade skomakaren att betala? 9. På vilka villkor skulle han betala detta honorar? 10. Lyckades läkaren att bota den sjuka? 11. Var skomakaren enligt sin åsikt skyldig läkaren något?

C. 1. She has fallen seriously ill, and her illness will¹ probably last long. 2. I should have liked² to send for a prominent physician, if I had only had money. 3. The doctor who lives right across the street is skillful, but he charges at least ten crowns a visit³, I suppose⁴. If he had been sick instead of his wife, he would probably⁴ not have hesitated at all to summon the expensive doctor. 5. When the health of my wife is concerned, no expense, of course⁵, can be too great. 6. You know, do you not⁶, that you will never get your fee from him. He is honest, to be sure⁶, but altogether too poor. 7. I heard that the doctor soon after sent the shoemaker a bill for his⁷ treatment. 8. I have not seen her since she became better. Neither have I.

9. I should like⁶ to see Mr. Edgren; is he at home? No, he is out for the moment. He is out riding⁸ with Dr. Forsell.
 10. Do you happen to have those books at hand⁸? No, I have them somewhere; just wait and I shall look for them.
 11. Please don't take the trouble just now; you will, no doubt⁶, find them later on. 12. How are you now¹⁰? I am feeling somewhat better; until now¹¹ the doctor has visited me daily. 13. What was the cause? Too much indoor¹² work, I think¹³.

¹Not future with skall. Why? ²A, 1, above. ³A, 3, above. Use the definite postpositive article. Attention has been called before to this distributive use of the definite article after expressions of price; often per is used, XXXIII, A, Note 5. In expressions of time i and om are used: han förtjänar fyrtio kronor i veckan, 2,000 kronor om året, he makes forty crowns a week, 2,000 crowns a year; en gång i månaden, once a month. ⁴Translate by nog, which follows the simple verb or the auxiliary. ⁵Translate by ju which follows verb; invert. ⁶Translate by an adverb. ⁷*Hans* or sin? ⁸365, c. Note. ⁹349, b. ¹⁰There are three common ways of asking for the health of a person in Swedish; which are they? ¹¹*Tills nu, tills för närvarande*. ¹²Certain adverbs may be used to modify nouns in Swedish, when so used they follow the noun: arbete inomhus, indoor work; nöjen utomhus, outdoor amusements; resan dit, the trip thither, etc. ¹³Invert.

LESSON XXXVII.

Conjunctions.

370. There are two general classes of conjunctions: (1) the coordinating conjunctions, which are used to connect clauses, phrases, and words of equal rank; (2) the subordinating conjunctions, which join a dependent clause to some other part of the sentence.

I. COORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS.

371. The coordinating conjunctions are divided into two groups: (a) general connectives and (b) adverbial conjunctions.

(a) General connectives.

The most important of these are:

antingen...eller, either...or både...och, both...and ej heller, nor, neither eller, or icke blott...utan även(också), not only...but also men, but och, and samt, and såväl...som, as well as ty, for utan, but (adversative) varken...eller, neither...nor

372. REMARKS ON THE GENERAL CONNECTIVES.
 Those of the general connectives which connect clauses require the normal order (subject before predicate) with the exception of antingen...eller, varken...eller and ej heller, which require the inverted order (predicate before subject) when they connect clauses: han reste genast, men jag stannade, he left immediately, but I stayed; antingen vet han ingenting, eller vågar han ingenting säga, either he knows nothing, or he dares not say anything.

NOTE. Icke blott...utan även may take either word order. The normal is more common, in which case icke blott and även are placed within the sentence; if they stand at the beginning the inverted order must be used: han icke blott gav mig goda råd, utan han lånade mig även penningar, he not only gave me good advice but he also lent me money; icke blott gav han mig goda råd, utan även lånade han, etc., (även rarely stands at the beginning). In dependent clauses the normal order is used with antingen...eller: jag vet inte antingen han kommer eller ej.

373. The following peculiarities in usage should be noted:

(1) ej heller translates nor when it is not correlative: han kommer icke, ej heller jag, he does not come, nor do I.

(2) eller requires the inverted order when used with antingen and varken but not as a rule when used alone.

(3) samt does not connect clauses and is not used in conversational language.

(4) för often takes the place of ty in conversation.

(5) utan is used only after a negative and introduces a contrast which excludes or contradicts what goes before: detta är icke ett skäl, utan en förevändning, this is not a reason, but a pretext.

374. (b) Adverbial conjunctions. A large number of conjunctions are adverbs in form, but are used as conjunctions to connect coordinate clauses. The most important of these are the following:

alltså, consequently annars, otherwise dels . . . dels, partly . . partly dock, yet, still därför, therefore emellertid, yet, still icke desto mindre, nevertheless likväl, yet, still ock, also också, also så, so således, thus sålunda, thus än . . . än, now . . . now ändock, yet, still även, also, even

REMARKS ON THE ADVERBIAL CONJUNCTIONS.

375. The adverbial conjunctions require the inverted order: klockan är åtta, således bör han vara här snart, it is eight o'clock, consequently he ought to be here soon.

376. Note the following peculiarities in usage:

(1) Do not confuse the Swedish alltså with the English also; the equivalents of also are ock, också, and även. Också is more common than ock; when used as mere adverbs ock and också like English too often follow the word they modify, while även precedes: man har ej hört av honom på många år, alltså är han troligen död, he has not been heard of for many years, consequently he is probably dead; jag också har varit i Paris, I, too, have been in Paris.

(2) Dock, emellertid, likväl, and ändock are often placed after the subject and the predicate: angreppet var häftigt, dock (likväl, etc.) blev det tillbakaslaget (or det blev dock, etc.), the attack was furious, yet it was repulsed. The adverbial conjunctions must be placed after the subject and the predicate when a dependent clause precedes: ehuru han var där, fick jag dock ej tillfälle att tala vid honom, although he was there I had no opportunity to speak to him.

(3) Än...än is equivalent to the English now... now or at times...at times (or alternately...): än grät hon, än skrattade hon, she laughed and cried alternately. Quite common in the same sense is ömsom...ömsom.

EXERCISE XXXVII.

A. 1. Det ligger ett paket smutsiga starksaker antingen i matsalen eller i salongen. Var snäll och tag dem till strykinrättningen, Karl. 2. Säg åt dem, att både kragar och skjortor måste vara vita och väl¹ strukna, ty de äro mycket vårdslösa. 3. Jag låter² icke hämta tvätten själv, utan³ de måste skicka hem den före klockan sex på onsdag kväll. 4. Herr Sjöstedt bad mig hälsa och säga, att antingen⁴ kommer han på slaget fem, eller kommer han icke förrän i morgon. 5. Klockan fem? Det är bara halv två nu; då hinner jag icke blott att gå till barberaren, utan också att uträtta ett par ärenden. 6. Här är en frisersalong; ehuru den icke ser fin ut, får jag likväl lov⁵ att gå in, ty jag har bråttom. 7. Jag önskar att bli både klippt och rakad, men jag har brått, alltså får ni vara snäll och skynda er. 8. Vad felas den här rocken? Dels⁶ saknas ett par knappar, dels⁶ har den gått upp i sömmarna här och där. 9. Ehuru det är mycket att laga på den, så skall jag emellertid⁷ försöka att få den färdig till i kväll. 10. Emedan ni lagat rocken så väl¹, skall jag också beställa en ny kostym hos er. Var därför så god och tag mått på (of) mig. 11. Jag använder endast de bästa varor och sysselsätter endast de skickligaste arbetare, sålunda kan jag garantera både tyget och snittet.

¹*Bra* and väl would here be interchangeable, väl denoting a higher degree of excellence. Bra often has reference to the essential excellence, väl, to the outward: skriva väl and skriva bra are not the same, the former refers to form, the latter to contents. Bra colloquially may have the sense of very (much): bra mycket, arbeta bra, etc. ²Note use of låter. ³373, 5. ⁴372. ⁵Få lov, must. ⁶375. ⁷376, 2.

B. Conversation. 1. Var ligger paketet med-stärksakerna? 2. Vart vill ni, att Karl skall bära det? 3. Huru vill ni ha era kragar och skjortor? 4. När måste tvätten vara färdig? 5. Varför? 6. Vad låter herr Sjöstedt hälsa? 7. Vad ämnar ni göra under tiden? 8. Varför går ni in i en frisersalong, som ej ser fin ut? 9. Vad vill ni ha gjort där? 10. Vad fattas er rock?

C. 1. A boy is here from the laundry and asks for¹ your washing, but we can't find it, therefore I came in to ask you. 2. It is either on the little table in the dining room or in the hall. Just² wait a little, I shall come down myself. 3. It is a very poor laundry, they can neither wash nor iron. Carl is not satisfied with their work either³. 4. You must not wait for⁴ me to call for it this time, but send it home on Friday¹² without fail. 5. Neither the collars nor the cuffs were well ironed last time. 6. Both the washing and the ironing must be better next⁵ time, or⁶ I shall send my washing to another laundry. 7. I don't know his address; consequently I can't write to him. 8. My friend writes that he will either come at five o'clock sharp⁷ or not at all. 9. Although he will be here in an hour, yet I shall go to the barber shop. 10. I need not only a hair cut⁸, but also a shave⁸. 11. I have only three quarters⁹ of an hour to spare¹⁰, hence you must hurry. 12. The coat was almost worn out; nevertheless he sent it to the tailor to be mended. 13. Although the coat was almost worn out, nevertheless¹¹ he sent it, etc.

¹349, b. ²369, bara. ³369, heller; place negative + adverb after the subject. ⁴357, f, 1, 2. (Translate by clause.) ⁵*Nästa*; note definite form of adjective, noun is indefinite. What two words translate time? ⁶When or equals otherwise, it is translated by annars. ⁷*Precis klockan fem* or på slaget fem. ⁸Idiom 3. ⁹*Tre kvarts timme*. ¹⁰Use a prepositional phrase. ¹¹376, 2. ¹²See 342.

IDIOMS: 1. Jag hinner ej att göra det, I shall not have time to do it.

2. Han hann dit i tid, he reached there in time.

3. Jag önskar att bli klippt, rakad, I wish to have a hair cut, a shave.

4. Rocken har gått upp i sömmen, the coat has ripped in the seam.

5. Dörren har gått upp, the door has opened.

6. Laga, att ni är här då, see to it that you are here then.

LESSON XXXVIII.

Conjunctions (Continued).

II. SUBORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS.

377. The most important of these are:

(a) Comparative: ju....desto (dess), the.... the; som, as; såsom, as, such as; än, than.

(b) Concessive: ehuru, fast, fastän, oaktat, though, although; om ock, om än, även om, even if, even.

(c) Causal: då, efter, eftersom, since, as; emedan, because; enär, since; som, as; därför att, because.

(d) Conditional: bara, if only; ifall, in case, if; om, if, whether.

(e) Consecutive (result): så . . . att, so . . . that; så att, so that.

(f) Final: för att, på det att, in order that; så att, so that, in order that; att, that.

(g) Temporal: då, when; förrän, innan, before; medan, while; när, when; sedan, after; så ofta, as often as; så snart, as soon as; tills, until.

(h) The general subordinating att, that.

REMARKS ON THE SUBORDINATING CONJUNCTIONS.

378. After a subordinating conjunction many adverbs (negative adverbs, indefinite temporal adverbs and certain adverbs expressing supposition, etc.) which in an independent clause follow the simple predicate or auxiliary must be placed before the predicate: eftersom han icke kommer, så få vi börja äta utan honom, since he does not come, we shall have to begin to eat without him; det är osäkert, om vi någonsin få se honom, it is doubtful, if we ever shall see him; han sade, att han möjligen skulle kunna låna mig ett par hundra, he said that he possibly might be able to lend me a couple of hundred.

NOTE. If the independent clause follows, its verb precedes the subject and is often introduced by så, so: ehuru solen tycktes skina ganska varmt i dag på förmiddagen, så var luften rätt sval, although the sun seemed to shine quite warm, the air was quite cool.

379. In a subordinate clause the auxiliary hava is very often omitted: om han inte slösat bort sina pengar, så hade han varit välbärgad nu, if he had not squandered his money, he would have been in easy circumstances now.

380. The following will serve to illustrate the uses of the subordinating conjunctions:

(1) Ju requires the normal order of words, its correlative desto (dess) the inverted order: ju förr du gör det, desto lättare går det, the sooner you do it, the easier it will be (go).

(2) Som may have both a comparative and a causal value (eftersom is more common in the sense of since): han gjorde precis som jag, he did exactly as I; lika rik som du, as rich as you (såsom is less common; it is more emphatic than som: såsom det nu regnar, har det icke regnat förr i år, as it now rains it has not rained before this year); som vädret var tryckande, höll jag mig inne, as the weather was oppressive, I stayed indoors.

(3) Om ock, om än are often separated if they stand at the beginning of a clause, ock and än being placed immediately after the subject: om han än vore här, så kunde vi inte göra något, even if he were here, we could not do anything.

(4) Då and när are temporal conjunctions, but both may, like when in English, have a causal value (då is more common in the sense of as); when as interrogative=när.

(5) Emedan and enär are used less in the spoken than in the written language.

(6) Bara=om bara (often om...bara), if only: om det bara inte regnar, så skola vi gå, if only it does not rain, we shall go.

(7) Om is also equivalent to whether in an indirect question: jag vet ej, om jag skall stanna eller gå, I do not know whether I shall stay or not. Som om, as if, as though: det ser ut, som om det skulle regna, it looks as though it would rain.

(8) På det att is less common than the other final conjunctions; så att always denotes result when used with the indicative: han skadade sig, så att han icke kunde arbeta, he injured himself so that he could not work. För att with the infinitive is used when the subject in the purpose clause would be the same as in the principal one.

(9) Så ofta, as often as, and så snart (så fort), as soon as, may take som but generally do not: så snart han kommer, sänd honom hit, as soon as he comes send him here.

Observe: så ofta som helst, as often as you please; så snart som helst, as soon as you please; när som helst, whenever you please.

(10) Att is almost identical in its usage with the substantive conjunction that. Like its English equivalent it is often omitted: jag förmodar han kommer snart, I suppose he will soon be here; jag tror icke jag kan, I don't believe I am able.

NOTE 1. Subordinate noun clauses introduced by att may be immediately preceded by a preposition: han har öfvertygat mig om att han menar uppriktigt, he has convinced me that his intentions are sincere; endast genom att du kom mig till hjälp, blev jag räddad, only by your coming to my assistance I was saved.

2. Prepositions may also govern other clauses: jag tänker på hur jag skall få bud till min bror, I am thinking of how I shall get a message to my brother; jag gläder mig över vad som har hänt, I rejoice over what has happened.

EXERCISE XXXVIII.

A. En viss person erhöll en gång ett tungt brev från en vän. Enär brevet ej var frankerat, måste han betala ganska mycket i lösen. Då han öppnade det, fann han ingenting annat än orden: "Jag mår alldeles förträffligt." Mottagaren skrattade och avsände samma dag¹ ett stort paket till vännen, ävenledes utan att frankera det. Adressaten betalade utan att knota den höga lösen i hoppet, att han skulle bli rikligt ersatt genom paketets innehåll, så mycket mer som dess tyngd lät ana något värdefullt. Till sin överraskning fann han dock intet annat däri än en stor sten med orden: "Vid underrättelsen att du mädde bra, föll närslutna² sten från mitt hjärta."

¹Note use of indefinite form with samma. ²Närslutna is definite and the noun indefinite, so innelyckta, inclosed.

B. Conversation. 1. Vad måste man betala, när ett brev är ofullständigt eller icke alls frankerat? 2. Vad fann personen i fråga, när han öppnade brevet? Vad gjorde han för att hämnas på vännen? 4. Varför betalade vännen den höga lösen utan att knota? 5. Vad var det i all synnerhet, som kom honom att tro, att paketet innehöll något värdefullt? 6. Hur kände han sig vid upptäckten av paketets innehåll? 7. Vad hade avsändaren bifogat?

C. Complete the following according to the anecdote above and the indications given; be especially careful to get the word order correct. 1. Brevet var ej frankerat, alltså¹ . . . (must pay, etc.). 2. Då han öppnade brevet, . . . (he found, etc.). 3. När en viss person var på resa, . . . (he received, etc.). 4. Eftersom han insåg, att hans vän velat spela honom ett spratt, . . . (he decided, etc.). 5. Han önskade att hämnas på sin vän, därför¹ . . . (he sent, etc.). 6. Emedan han såg, att en vän hade sänt det tunga brevet, . . . (he paid, etc.). 7. Ehuru han såg, att avsändaren ej var en av hans vänner, . . . ändock . . . (he paid, etc.). 8. Han trodde, att paketet innehöll något värdefullt, så mycket mer som . . . (it was not light). 9. Ehuru han väntat något annat, ... icke desto mindre³ ... (he did not become astonished). 10. Än¹ ... (he played) en vän ett spratt, än en annan. 11. Ju tyngre det är, desto⁴ värdefullare ... (one believes the contents to be). 12. Den fattige mannen ber om bröd, ty⁵ ... (he is hungry). 13. Han sade, att ... (he knew nothing). 14. Ju förr ... (he comes), desto⁴ fortare... (we shall be ready). 15. Våra kusiner komma icke att besöka oss i början på juli ... (but) i slutet av september i stället. 16. Jag tordes ej vända mig till honom, enär ... (I had never seen him before).

D. 1. As soon as¹ the tailor comes, please² send him up to me. 2. I have sent for³ you because my friends have recommended you to me so often. 3. If you have samples of cloth that I like⁴, I may order⁵ a suit. 4. The finer and more durable the cloth is, the better, even if it should cost a little more. 5. As the suit now is, it does not please me, (but⁶) you will have to change it. 6. Don't you see that the coat is altogether too tight under the arms; besides it does not fit me very well in the back. 7. You must hurry and change it so that you can send it home on⁷ Friday, for I shall leave⁸ the city on Saturday. 8. He did his work so well that all were pleased⁹ with it. 9. Since you went away yesterday, he has done nothing but play¹⁰. 10. Since you cannot do it, you must let me try. 11. As long as¹¹ it rains, we cannot go out. 12. The boys had seated themselves at the table in order to¹² study. 13. We have not gone away, nor¹³ shall we. 14. He does not believe what you say, nor I either¹³. 15. The dearer the food is and the colder the weather, the more the poor suffer. 16. He went out of the house without saying¹⁴ a word. 17. Have you thought of¹⁵ how we can help him? 18. I have no confidence in¹⁵ what he does.

¹³⁸⁰, 9. ²*Var god och*. Give at least three equivalents for the English please. ³349, b. ⁴*Tycka om* can be used in the sense of like about both animate and inanimate objects; älska, to love, generally only about animate objects (also about objects like home, fatherland, etc.): hålla av, to cherish affection for, only about animate objects. ⁵Use present of verb with kanhända, perhaps. ⁶373, 5. ⁷Either på or om. What form does på require? What, om? (See 342 and note 1.) ⁸Either of the three equivalents for the future will do here. Which are they? ⁹*Nojda* or belåtna. ¹⁰Swedish uses the supine instead of the infinitive. ¹¹In analogy with as soon as, 380, 9. ¹²380, 8. ¹³369, heller, and 373, 1. ¹⁴Use infinitive. ¹⁵380, 10, note 2.

2. att hämnas på någon, to revenge oneself upon somebody.

3. att låta ana, to indicate.

LESSON XXXIX.

Interjections.

381. The most common interjections are:

ack! alas! oh!	hysch! hush!
ah! aha! ah!	klatsch! crack!
aj! ouch!	kras! smash!
fy! shame! whew!	kratsch! crash!
ha! ha!	o! oh! O!
hallå! hello!	oj! ouch!
hej! hey!	paff! pang! bang!
hejsan! heigh-ho!	plask! splash!
hm! hm!	ptro! whoa!
hurra! hurrah!	puh! usch! whew!
hu! whew!	ve! woe!

NOTE 1. A number of other words and expressions are also used as interjections, such as gott! good! halt! halt! hell! hail! hjälp! help! Se där! look! Se upp! look out! Välan! very well! etc.

2. Aj is the usual interjection to express pain. Usch expresses disgust; hu, horror, puh, oppression and discomfort, fy, reprimand and disgust. These interjections are often followed by då: usch då! fy då!

382. The affirmatives ja and jo, yes, and the negative nej, no, may be classed as interjections. Jo is used in answer to a negative question or in answer to a question or statement implying doubt:

(1) Kommer han snart? Ja, det gör han. Will he come soon? Yes, he will.

(2) Du har väl icke tid nu? Jo, det har jag visst. I don't suppose you have time now? Yes, certainly I have.

(3) Ska vi fara (doubt)? Jo visst! Shall we go? Certainly!

NOTE. Ja and jo are often strengthened by the addition of då and visst: ja visst, jo visst, certainly, yes; jo då, why, yes. Ja may sometimes be rendered by well: ja, har jag inte sagt dig det? Well, haven't I told you so.

383. Jaså, an interjection extensively used in Swedish, is made to express almost any emotion, as joy, sorrow, anger, menace, etc. It may be rendered by so, oh! is that so? well, you don't say! etc.

384. Nej is often strengthened by då, visst inte or inte alls: Nej då, no indeed; nej visst inte, certainly not; nej, inte alls, not at all. It has other idiomatic uses: Nej, vad säger du? You don't say! Nej, se där! Why, just look! Nej, så vackert! How beautiful!

APPENDIX.

The Use of the Articles.

1. Some of the most important uses of the articles have been given already. The following summary may be useful.

THE DEFINITE ARTICLE.

The definite postpositive article is used:

(a) With abstract nouns, nouns of material and class: leve friheten, long live freedom; guldet är ej så nyttigt som järnet, gold is not as useful as iron; människan är skapelsens krona, man is the crown of creation.

NOTE. The article is omitted when the noun is not used in an absolutely general way: han har guld, he has gold (partitive).

(b) With names of seasons and days of the week: sommaren är slut, summer is ended; om våren, in the spring; på måndagen, on Monday.

Note omission of article in expressions like om måndag, next Monday.

(c) With many names of rivers, lakes, oceans, mountains: Öfre sjön, Lake Superior; Östersjön, the Baltic; Klippiga bergen, the Rocky Mountains.

(d) With names of streets: Linnégatan, Linné Street; Oden-gatan, Oden Street.

(e) With names of places of public and official resort: i kyrkan, in or to church; i skolan, at (in) or to school; inför rätten, in court.

(f) In a distributive sense where English uses the indefinite article. In temporal expressions the noun is preceded by a preposition, generally i or om: två kronor metern, two crowns a meter; hundra kronor i veckan, a hundred crowns a week; två gånger om året, twice a year.

(g) Instead of possessive adjective, see 178.

(h) With titles used alone in address: vill doktorn vara så god och komma? Please come, doctor; har kyrkoherden träffat honom? Have you met him, rector? (See 142.)

2. The definite postpositive article is omitted:

(a) With nouns used as partitives (some, any) or as a simple predicate: har ni pengar? Do you have money? But penningen (general) är upphovet till mycket ont, money is the cause of much evil.

(b) After samme, same: samme gosse, som vi sågo i går, the same boy that we saw yesterday.

3. The prepositive article is as a rule used in connection with the postpositive article when the noun is preceded by an adjective. It may be omitted in a few instances (cf. the remarks on the prepositive article, 126, 2).

THE INDEFINITE ARTICLE.

4. It thus appears that the definite article is used more widely than in English. On the other hand the indefinite article is more frequently omitted:

(a) Before an unmodified noun denoting vocation, rank, character, station in life, used alone, or connected by som, in the former case also before a noun denoting nationality: han är soldat, he is a soldier; han talade som soldat och ej som statsman; he spoke as a soldier and not as a statesman. But we must say: han är en tapper soldat, he is a brave soldier.

NOTE. If the noun and modifier form a set phrase the indefinite article is omitted: han är svensk språklärare, he is a teacher of Swedish; han är en svensk språklärare would mean he is a Swedish teacher of languages; han är kungligt råd, he is a royal councillor.

(b) Often in phrases: i hast, in haste, in a hurry; med gråtande stämman, in a tearful voice; med darrande hand, with a trembling hand; jag har huvudvärk, tandvärk, etc., I have a headache, toothache; jag har fått svar, I have received an answer, etc.

(c) Note such forms as några få, a few; mången, -et, many a; en sådan, ett sådant, such a; vilken, -et, what a; vilken man han är! What a man he is!

Rules of Gender.

REMARK. Only the rules for determining the neuter gender are given. In regard to masculine and feminine nouns it will suffice to say that sex names follow the sex—male names being masculine, female names, feminine. Originally masculine or feminine names of inanimate objects or abstracts are now classed as common gender (Swedish realgenus or den-genus).

5. Neuter are:

(a) Almost all names of continents, countries, places, metals, letters of the alphabet, and all words not real substantives but used as such: det mäktiga Amerika, the powerful America; det vackra Stockholm, the beautiful Stockholm; järnet, the iron; det sköna, the beautiful.

(b) Verbal abstracts of the same form as the verb after dropping the infinitive ending -a, with or without change of vowel: fallet, the fall; kallet, the calling; skriket, the cry; derived from falla, kalla, skrika.

(c) Nouns ending in -a (pl. -n), -an (in concrete nouns), *ande*¹, *ende*¹, *at*¹, *döme*¹, -e (pl. -n), -el and -er (plur.=sing)², eri, -ment, -on, -skap (plur.=sing.)², -um, -eum, -ium.

¹In abstract nouns. ²Otherwise common gender.

Notes on Inflection of Nouns.

VOWEL MODIFICATION IN THE PLURAL.

6. The following nouns modify the vowel in the plural, some also double the final consonant:

en and , änder , duck	en man , män (männer) man
en bok , böcker , book	en moder , mödrar , mother
en bot , böter , fine	en mus , möss , mouse
en brand , bränder , fire-brand	en natt , nätter , night
en broder , bröder , brother	en rand , ränder , border
en dotter , döttrar , daughter	en rot , rötter , root
en fader , fäder , father	en son , söner , son
en fot , fötter , foot	en spång , spånger , foot-bridge
en gås , gäss , goose	en stad , städer , city
en hand , händer , hand	en stav , stäver , stave
en ledamot , ledamöter , member	en stång , stänger , pole
en lus , löss , louse	en tång , tänger , pincers

DOUBLE PLURALS.

7. Some nouns have double plurals, corresponding to different senses of the singular:

en börs, börsar , purses	börser , bourses
en form, formar , molds	former , shapes
en gång, gångar , paths	gångar , times
en stav, stavar , staffs	stäver , staves

SINGULAR LACKING.

8. Some nouns occur only in the plural, the following being the most important:

FIRST DECLENSION.

anor , pedigree	snuddor , scolding
bannor , scolding	snäso , snubbing
gåvor , goods, gifts	sådo , chaff
inålvor , entrails	åthåvor , gestures, manners

SECOND DECLENSION.

förläro , parents	vågnar , behalf; på (å) någons
goddagor , easy life	vågnar , in behalf of somebody

THIRD DECLENSION.

annaler , annals	rånker , intrigues
ferier , vacation	skrofler , scrofula
finanser , finances	specerier , groceries
grönsaker , vegetables	umgålder , dues
musikalier , music (written)	utskylder , taxes

DOUBLE GENDER.

9. Some nouns may have either common or neuter gender: the most important of these are:

blåd , blood	nåbb , beak, bill
bolster , bolster	paraply ', umbrella
borr , drill	parasoll ', parasol
bräm , border, trimming	redskap ², utensil, tool
doft , fragrance	snitt , cut

*finger*¹, finger musclin', muslin

spån, shaving
tack, thanks

¹Generally fingerar in the plural. ²Always common gender when used in a collective sense: redskapen, the utensils.

Irregularities in Conversational Pronunciation.

10. Conversational Swedish presents many peculiarities in pronunciation, among which are the following:

(a) The words mig, dig, sig, and säga are practically always pronounced as if written mäj, däj, säj, and säja.

(b) Det often drops the t in pronunciation. Colloquially dem is always pronounced as if written dom. In certain parts of Sweden, especially in Stockholm, dom is used for de.^{*} Another common colloquial form for de is di.

(c) Adjectives ending in -ig generally drop g before the neuter -t in pronunciation: tro'ligt, probable, pronounced tro'litt; ste'nigt, stony, ste'nitt, etc.

(d) Är and äro, is, are, are often pronounced ä or e.

(e) Och is generally pronounced ä, so is also att when it is the sign of the infinitive: jag skulle tycka om att (ä) träffa honom, I should like to see him.

(f) Vad very often drops d in conversation: Va(d) (be)falls? I beg your pardon, what did you say? Va(d) menar du? What do you mean?

(g) Final -t in the supine of verbs of the Fourth Conjugation is dropped in conversation in many parts of Sweden: tagi (hard or soft g) for tagit, skrivi for skrivit. So also final -t in mycket and litet.

(h) Skall is generally pronounced ska; taga, bliva, draga, hava, bedja giva are generally shortened to ta, bli, dra, ha, be, ge.

(i) Verbs of the First Conjugation often drop the ending -de of the past tense in conversation: jag tala med honom i går, I spoke to him yesterday.

(j) There are a number of familiar words which are softened in conversation by the dropping or assimilation of a consonant: trädgård, garden, träggård; gästgivare, inn-keeper, where stg=sh.

(k) The plural ending -or of the First Declension is often pronounced -er: veck(or), vecker.

(l) For enclitic pronouns 'en, 'et ('t), and -na, see 140, c.

Irregularities in Conversational Grammar.

11. The most common grammatical irregularities met with in the spoken language are here noted:

(a) The singular of a verb regularly takes the place of the plural in conversation.

(b) Neuters of the Fifth Declension take -ena in the definite form of the plural instead of -en, thus becoming like nouns of the Fourth Declension: hus-ena, the houses; namn-ena, the names.

(c) Gender nouns ending in -n preceded by a vowel often have the definite form the same as the indefinite: han står på gräsplanen (pronounced gräsplan), he stands on the lawn; fågeln sitter på grenen (pronounced gren), the bird sits on the branch.

mf

1. Var dof - tar en blom - ma så skön (så skön),
2. Var fin - nes en him - mel så blå (så blå),

The first system of music is in treble and bass clef with a key signature of two sharps (F# and C#) and a 3/4 time signature. It features a melody in the treble and a harmonic accompaniment in the bass. The tempo is marked 'Andante' and the dynamic is 'mf' (mezzo-forte). The lyrics are in Swedish and include two verses.

var sjung - er en få - gel så nöjd (så nöjd), var strå - lar väl so - len så varm (så varm),

The second system continues the melody and accompaniment. The lyrics continue with the same two verses.

var sor - lar en käl - la så ren (så ren), var kän - de ditt hjär - ta du slå (du slå)

The third system continues the melody and accompaniment. The lyrics continue with the same two verses.

f

så klar ned från klip - pi - ga höjd (från höjd), så friskt i din sval - lan - de barm (din barm),

The fourth system concludes the piece. The dynamic is marked 'f' (forte). The lyrics conclude with the same two verses.

Ur svens-ka hjär-tans djup en gång en samfälld och en

The first system of musical notation consists of a treble and a bass staff. The treble staff begins with a treble clef, a key signature of two sharps (F# and C#), and a common time signature (C). The melody starts on a half note G4, followed by quarter notes A4, B4, and C5. The bass staff begins with a bass clef and the same key signature and time signature. It starts with a half note G2, followed by quarter notes A2, B2, and C3. The lyrics 'Ur svens-ka hjär-tans djup en gång en samfälld och en' are written below the staves.

en-kel sång, som går till kung-en fram! Var ho-nom tro-fast

The second system of musical notation continues the melody and accompaniment. The treble staff continues with quarter notes D5, E5, and F#5, followed by a half note G5. The bass staff continues with quarter notes D2, E2, and F#2, followed by a half note G2. The lyrics 'en-kel sång, som går till kung-en fram! Var ho-nom tro-fast' are written below the staves.
